"Murder Farm" Fugitive And Mother Captured

ALLEGED SLAYER OF CAPTIVE BOYS HELD IN CANADA

Youth and Mother Had Separated; Woman Arrested in Calgary, Man in Columbia.

BOTH IDENTIFIED, POLICE ANNOUNCE

Further Evidence of Gruesome Crimes Disclosed as Investigators Delve Into "Torture Ranch."

Vancouver, B. C., September 19.—(AP)—Gordon Stuart Northcott, wanted in Riverside, Calif., in connection with murder farm disclosures there, was arrested at Okanagan Landing, seven miles from Vernon, B. C., in the Okanagan valley, Inspector Forbes Cruickshank, of the provincial police, announced late today. It was said Northcott admitted his identity. His mother was not with him.

Inspector Cruickshank received the message shortly after 3:30 o'clock this afternoon telling of the arrest. The Canadian Press also received partial confirmation in a news dispatch from its Vernon, British Columbia, correspondent, stating that Gordon Stuart Northcott, "or a man believed to be him," had been taken into custody at Okanagan landing on arrival of the boat, by Provincial Constable Morley Green.

The arrest of Northcott on the arrival of the boat at Okanagan landing would make it appear that Northcott had boarded the Canadian Pacific Railway company's steamer at some point north of Okanagan landing, the northern terminus of the run on Okanagan lake, between Penticton and Okanagan landing.

The fact that Mrs. Louisa Northcott was not with her son lent color to the report that she may have reached Calgary and is the woman being held by the Calgary police for investigation.

Provincial police later announced that they had received a message from Okanogan Landing which quoted Northcott as saying that the woman arrested at Calgary was his mother.

It was learned that a woman and a young man purchased tickets on Tuesday at Spences Bridge, B. C., for Calgary.

Police believe that the pair left Vancouver and proceeded by automobile along the Cariboo road to Spences Bridge, 175 miles east of Vancouver

DAUGHTER SHOOTS FATHER AS RESULT OF DOMESTIC ROW

Lyons, Ga., September 19.—(AP)—Mullis Fields, night policeman here was shot and wounded by his 19-year-old daughter, Reba, shortly after returning home today. The shooting was reported to have followed an argument between Fields and his wife concerning the Fields' children going to school through the storm.

Fields received only a flesh wound and no charges were made against his daughter.

Lea and Caldwell Constitution Stock Suit Is Dismissed

Case Settled Without Trial; Stock Is Returned to Howells and Tennesseans Pay All Costs.

COURT ORDER ENDS LONG LITIGATION

Nashville Financiers Voluntarily Agree to Suit's Withdrawal, Assuming All Fees of Court.

The suit between Messrs. Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell, of Nashville, Tenn., and the Messrs. Howell, in reference to the ownership of the majority stock in The Atlanta Constitution, which has been pending for several months, in the federal court in Atlanta, has been disposed of by the action of the parties without a trial, and the parties state that they have composed their differences as set forth in the attached decree of the court: the stock being returned to the Howells, leaving them in undisputed control of The Constitution.

For reasons satisfactory to them, Messrs. Lea and Caldwell have relinquished any claim to the majority stock in The Constitution Publishing company, which was the basis of the litigation.

The case was called before Judge Sibley yesterday morning, whereupon attorneys for Lea and Caldwell asked that it be dismissed, and attorneys for both sides asked Judge Sibley to sign the following order, which was done, thus ending the case.

The Judge's Order.

Judge Sibley's decree is as follows:

"Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell vs. Clark Howell, Albert Howell, et al, in equity, in the district court of the United States, northern district of Georgia, Atlanta division.

"Upon motion of the plaintiffs in the case above stated, the said case is dismissed and withdrawn.

"It appearing that the Citizens and Southern National bank, of Atlanta, Ga., which filed a bill of interpleader herein, has in its possession three thousand and twenty-five (3,025) shares of the capital stock of The Atlanta Constitution.

"It is ordered that said stock be returned to the Messrs. Howell, as follows:

"To Clark Howell, 1,454 shares.
"To Albert Howell, 879 shares.
"To Clark Howell, Jr., 292 shares.
"To Comer Howell, 130 shares.
"To Albert Howell, III, 140 shares.
"To Julian E. Howell, 130 shares.

"It further appearing that Messrs. Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell have deposited with said Citizens and Southern National bank, the sum of one hundred thirty-one thousand, five hundred dollars ($131,500), under their contract set forth in the petition.

"It is, by consent of parties, ordered that said sum of money be returned by said Citizens and Southern National bank to Messrs. Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell, the plaintiffs herein,

HOOVER SPEECH USED BY UTILITIES AS PROPAGANDA

Electric Power Interests Bought 49,000 Copies From Commerce Department Assistant.

Washington, September 19.—(United News.)—Electric power interests circulated 49,000 copies of a speech by Herbert Hoover, republican presidential candidate, advocating state as opposed to federal regulation of public utilities, George F. Oxley, publicity director of the National Electric Light association, testified in the federal trade commission's utilities investigation today.

Hoover's speech was circulated as part of the nation-wide propaganda drive of the electric power interests which the federal trade commission is investigating by order of the senate Walsh resolution.

Hoover's topic was "why the public interest requires state rather than federal regulation of public utilities."

"It was so good that I ordered large quantities sent out to our people," Oxley testified. The speech was delivered by Hoover while secretary of commerce to a convention of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners at Washington in 1925.

The National Electric Light association ordered 49,000 copies and paid $626.46 for them to Harold Phelps Stokes, then an assistant to Hoover in the department of commerce.

KANSANS WILDLY ACCLAIM SMITH

100,000 Visitors Jam Oklahoma City Where Democratic Nominee Will Speak Tonight.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Advance parties of democratic legions who will greet Alfred E. Smith here Thursday jammed hotels tonight and preparations were being made to care for 100,000 visitors.

The special train of Governor Smith, bearing him from Omaha, is scheduled to arrive here at 9 a. m., Thursday. He will address an audience in the city coliseum Thursday night.

One of his listeners will be Dr. John Roach Straton, New York Baptist minister, opponent and would-be debater of the New York governor. Dr. Straton, who speaks here Friday and Saturday nights, wired for a reservation to hear Smith and he was assured a seat near the platform.

TOPEKA ROARS WELCOME

Governor Smith's Train En Route to Oklahoma City, September 19.—(AP) Governor Smith invaded the home town tonight of Senator Curtis, the republican vice presidential nominee, and Topeka roared a welcome.

The campaign train of the democratic standard bearer backed into the Rock Island station of the Kansas capital at nightfall on its way from Omaha, where the governor discussed farm relief last night, to Oklahoma City, where he will speak tomorrow night.

A noisy throng surrounded the rear of his train at the Topeka terminal, the music of several bands increasing the din as the presidential nominee came on the rear platform, brown derby in hand, to wave greetings to admirers on the far fringe of the crowd and shake hands with those who swarmed nearest to him.

As he appeared there was a deafening outburst of cheers and applause, photographers set off flashlights and

Senator Robinson Scores Political Pulpit Orators; Prominent Georgians Hear Address at Union Station

Several hundred democrats cheered Senator Joe T. Robinson, democratic nominee for vice president on his arrival at the Terminal station Wednesday afternoon. He made a short address, in which he scored the use of pulpits for political orations and the activities of "Hoover democrats." Senator and Mrs. Robinson are the two figures at the left of the group at the top, while at the right is Mrs. Edgar Alexander, national democratic committeewoman from Georgia. At the bottom, the party leader is shown looking out over the throng which milled about his special car.

Senator Praises Bishop Candler for His Effort To Prevent Mixing of Politics and Religion.

Ministers who preach politics from their pulpits do far more damage to themselves and their cause than to any candidate for office, Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic vice presidential candidate declared in an address from the platform of his private car as his train stopped for half an hour at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Union station.

Senator Robinson's forceful attack on ministers, "who convert their pulpits into political rostrums" drew loud applause from a crowd of several hundred persons, including many democratic leaders, who gathered at the station to welcome him to Atlanta.

"Such ministers will do themselves more harm than they will do any candidate," he said. "Some people say they are going to purify the party, but I say they will never purify anything by forsaking the associations of a lifetime with the democratic party for the companionship of thieves and crooks in the republican ranks. They'll never purify anything by forsaking Al Smith for men like Fall and Daugherty."

Praising Bishop Warren A. Candler of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, for his desire to keep pastors from mixing politics and religion, Senator Robinson asserted that the bishop had won the love of all true democrats. The nominee described Bishop Candler as "my spiritual adviser if I have one and a man I love almost like my father."

Senator Robinson expressed the conviction that there was not the slightest chance for Herbert Hoover to carry Georgia. The nominee was vigorous in his attack on "Hoover democrats" whom he characterized as republicans who are ashamed to own it.

The senator, who was scheduled to address a mass meeting in the city auditorium Tuesday night, was delayed more than 24 hours by the Florida storm. He was scheduled to make an address Wednesday night at Bowling Green, Ky., but this too was cancelled and immediately after his brief

CARNES HOLDINGS IN FLORIDA FOUND

Discovery of New Assets May Materially Increase Estate of Missing Baptist Treasurer.

Discovery of assets which may materially increase the holdings of the fugitive Clinton S. Carnes, former treasurer of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, was reported Wednesday by Thomas Howell Scott, one of the receivers appointed by the Fulton superior court to seek and conserve all assets of the missing man, which likely are to be turned over to the mission board to help wipe out his alleged defalcations, reputed to total a million dollars.

The newly discovered assets consist of Florida real estate, purchased after the burst of the boom in 1927, Mr. Scott reported.

Papers found in Carnes' personal files showed that he at one time had advanced a total of $60,000 on the Florida property at Sanford held in the name of the Lakefront Improvement company. The $60,000 was advanced through a deed of trust executed by Marjorie Hood and J. D. Hood, of Sanford, to C. S. Carnes, S. A. Wood and J. D. Hood.

Mr. Scott, who was Carnes' personal attorney prior to the Baptist treasurer's disappearance, said that he previously had no knowledge of Carnes' interest in Florida real estate and added taat he would have to make a trip to Sanford to learn the exact value of the holdings at this time.

Officials of the mission board displayed keen interest in the discovery of the assets as it is hoped that a great portion of Carnes' alleged shortages may be wiped out through sale of his holdings in Atlanta and other places.

"It is quite possible that the board may realize as much as $200,000 or

HardmanActs Today on Plea Made by Eula

Prison Commission Recommends Clemency for Woman Condemned To Die.

Governor L. G. Hardman will come to Atlanta today to give consideration to the recommendation of the state prison commission made Wednesday that the governor commute to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on Mrs. Eula Thompson, who now is at the state prison at Milledgeville awaiting electrocution Friday. The prison commission recommended clemency in a brief statement filed in the governor's office Wednesday.

In the commission's recommendation it was stated that Thompson took no actual part in the killing of Coleman Osborne, a merchant, at Chatsworth, for which crime she and her husband, Clifford Thompson, and a negro, Jim Hugh Moss, were convicted. It also was pointed out that Clifford Thompson and the negro were executed recently for the commission of this crime. The commission asserted that the evidence showing that Mrs. Thompson was a party to "a conspiracy" in the case was weak.

The commission prepared its recommendation after a lengthy session held Tuesday and after a short session held Wednesday morning. The case now is up to the governor and on his action will depend whether or not Mrs. Thompson is executed at Milledgeville Friday.

At the governor's office it was learned that the governor is willing to come back to Atlanta Thursday to give consideration to the recommendations of the commission. It was pointed out, however, that he can give a commutation order to his secretary over the telephone from his country place near Nacoochee in the

FORRESTER LANDS IN RECEIVERSHIP

Seven Tracts of Property Here Are Placed in Hands of Mack Asbill by Judge Howard.

Seven tracts of land in Atlanta owned by George W. Forrester were thrown into the hands of a temporary receiver Wednesday by an order signed by Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, following the filing of a petition by Charles H. Haynes, who alleges that he has a claim of $27,500 against Forrester, secured by loan deeds.

Mac Asbill, attorney, was appointed receiver by Judge Howard and was given authority to borrow money to pay insurance premius due on the life of Forrester, the defendant's estate being the beneficiary.

In his petition, Haynes alleged that interest on the first mortgages on the seven tracts is past due, and that if

CURTIS HECKLED BY IOWA FARMER AT COUNTY FAIR

Spencer, Iowa, September 19.—(United News.)—A lone Iowa farmer took it upon himself to debate with Senator Charles Curtis, republican vice presidential nominee, before a crowd of 10,000 persons at the Clay county fair here today and the spectators enjoyed a lively bit of repartee.

Despite shouts from the crowd to "throw him out" and a roar from Curtis that he was "too dumb to understand" the heckler persisted in asking questions and injecting his own comment at frequent intervals throughout the nominee's speech.

OKEECHOBEE DEAD ALONE TOTAL 350, OFFICIAL REPORTS

West Palm Beach Harbors 4,000 Refugees From Country Districts; Conditions Serious.

GOVERNOR MARTIN APPEALS FOR FUNDS

Stranded Sufferers Send Urgent Pleas for Food, Clothing, Medicines and Other Needs.

West Palm Beach, Fla., September 19.—(AP)—With the known dead and homeless in Sunday's tropical hurricane increasing as searchers combed the flooded settlements on the eastern shore of Lake Okeechobee, measures for relief of the district were accelerated tonight.

Before leaving Tallahassee to make a personal visit to the area, Governor John W. Martin issued an appeal to the people of Florida to contribute funds to the sufferers. The governor said he had been reliably informed that the situation "in and around Palm Beach county is very serious and that relief workers are in immediate need of funds."

Adjutant General Vivien Collins, who came here today to make a survey at the request of the governor, wired the chief executive that "approximately 350 are dead in Okeechobee area." The report also said that with 4,000 refugees already in the city, the number probably will be doubled tomorrow.

A. L. Schaffer, of the American Red Cross, a district director, took over the administration of relief in cooperation with local Red Cross and relief agencies, citizens and the national guard.

Urgent calls for aid were received from several sectors of the lake region where refugees were said still to be stranded without sufficient food, water, clothing and medicines.

Most estimates agreed that Pahokee, little town on Lake Okeechobee, about 60 miles west of here, suffered the heaviest death toll.

Captain Sam F. Baker, of Fort Lauderdale, in charge of a detachment of marines guarding Pahokee, estimated that probably 250 persons there lost their lives. The overwhelming majority were negro laborers.

Refugees brought in from the outlying parts around the lake swelled the number already housed here under difficulties. The majority were placed in public buildings and in the hotels, but tents provided shelter for many others.

Food was dispensed from emergency kitchens to waiting bread lines. A downtown bank became headquarters for clothing. Most of the negroes needed clothing.

The city was without electricity, except for places where the refugees were kept, or in hospitals, and in places which needed light at night to

Los Angeles, Calif., September 19.—(AP).—Russell Beitzel took the witness stand today in his trial for the alleged murder of Barbara Mauger and admitted that he had quarreled with the girl while taking her for the motor ride on last June 24 from which she never returned.

The former Philadelphian's common law wife is asserted by the state to have been shot down on that last ride with Beitzel, who is accused of throwing her body from his car into the Hollywood hills canyon where it was found a month later.

The defendant testified he had rented an automobile to take the girl wife for "an airing."

Tells of Quarrel.

"As we got into Laurel canyon," Beitzel testified, "we had a little quarrel. I would hardly call it a quarrel. She brought up the subject of me marrying her within a few days. She seemed to refer to the subject more during the last few days than ever before. I tried to kid her about it and she asked me if I had a gun along. I told her no, but reached over for a handful of bullets and said 'don't you want to eat a few of these?' She threw them out of the car and then I handed her the box of bullets and she threw them out also.

"We were passing a little white gate," Beitzel continued, "when she said she was not going back with me again. I tried to persuade her to stay in the car, but she got out. I drove on about a mile and waited beside the road, hoping to pick her up if she was walking. When she failed to appear I drove back to where she had gotten out, but I found nothing of her."

Reveals No Emotion.

Beitzel revealed no emotion as he talked.

The state contends that Miss Mauger's demand that Beitzel marry her was because she was about to become a mother. In addition to being charged with the girl's murder, Beitzel is charged also with the murder of her unborn child.

Beitzel concluded his testimony and the defense rested soon after the opening of the afternoon session.

Arguments began at once with the prospect that the case would reach the jury some time tomorrow.

it is not paid it will accelerate maturity and result in foreclosure to the injury of himself and other persons.

The suit filed by Haynes also names as defendants M. L. Hirsch, Mrs. L. H. Hirsch, M. R. Hirsch, Mrs. Mildred Haas, Bayne Gibson Mortgage company, M. W. Venable, Snowden McGaughy, Mrs. Lucy E. Van Hoose and H. H. Turner, and alleges that the defendants, other than Forrester, claim liens on one or more of the tracts. It is necessary for the court to determine priority of the various parties, the petition sets forth.

Haynes claims that the amount of the liens on the properties and the indebtedness due him as plaintiff and the first mortgage liens are in excess of the total value of the land. He is not adequately secured, and brings the petition as a creditor's bill, Haynes sets forth.

Forrester owns insurance in the Mutual Life Insurance company, of New York, and the premius are due today, none having been paid since March 20, the petition sets forth. Haynes says that on information and belief, he believes Forrester is unable to pay the premiums.

Gov. Hardman Polled Total Of 306 County Unit Votes; 3 County Returns Missing

Senator Rivers Received 102 Unit Votes, Tabulation Shows, Clinch, Long, Dooly Give No Figures.

With official returns missing from three counties, Clinch, Dooly and Long, the total figures of the democratic primary held Wednesday, September 12, gave Governor L. G. Hardman 306 county unit votes and State Senator E. D. Rivers, his opponent in the race for governor, 102 unit votes, it was announced Wednesday by Mrs. Bessie Anderson, secretary of the state democratic executive committee. The tabulation of the official figures was finished, with the exception of the three counties named, by State Auditor Sam J. Slate. The tabulated vote of all the counties and in all the races will be available for publication as soon as the three counties send in their official returns, it was stated.

The returns with three counties missing gave Governor Hardman 136,288 popular votes to 96,346 for Rivers.

GRAFT SHIN BONE TO INJURED SPINE OF SAVANNAH MAN

Savannah, Ga., September 19.—(AP) A section of shin bone was transferred to the spine of an automobile accident victim by doctors at the Savannah hospital today.

James J. Corbett recently received a fractured vertebra in an automobile crash. A bone splint five-inches long and a half-inch wide was removed from the shin and placed along the spine. After the operation Corbett was placed in a plaster cradle where he will be confined during the knitting of the bone.

maybe more out of Carnes' properties," Dr. B. D. Gray, acting treasurer of the board said. "Mr. Scott and Leon O'Neal, the receivers, are making every effort to find and conserve all of his assets and we are convinced that they will prove a big aid to us in rehabilitating the board's treasury."

Given to Board.

Samuel A. Carnes, son of the missing man, speaking for the family, already has informed officials of the board that every dollar of Carnes' assets will be turned over to the board as soon as the defalcations of the missing man have been established definitely. Young Carnes took charge of his father's properties immediately after his disappearance and remained in control of their management by virtue of a power of attorney executed in 1926 by the father until superceded by the DeKalb county court order naming Mr. Scott and Mr. O'Neal, Decatur real estate men, receivers.

The widespread search for Carnes, technically sought under a Fulton county indictment charging him with embezzlement of $69,000 of the mission board funds, was continued Wednesday with no clue to the missing man.

Reports that he had been seen within the last few days at Brevard, N. C., Syracuse, N. Y., and Modesto, Calif., led to immediate search of those cities but no trace of the missing man was found and Atlanta police are inclined to believe that the persons who reported to have seen Carnes were mistaken in their identity of the missing man.

SMITH CAMPAIGN PLANNED IN EIGHTH

Athens, Ga., Sept. 19.—(Special).—Plans for an active and militant campaign for the state and national democratic tickets in the eighth congressional district were considered here tonight at a meeting of state and district party leaders.

John R. Slater, chairman of the state campaign committee, G. E. Maddox, head of the state democratic executive committee and county chairmen from nine of the thirteen counties making up the district were present. The meeting was called by Charles E. Martin, state executive committeeman who has been placed at the head of the district campaign.

Following speeches by Mr. Slater and Mr. Maddox in which the party candidates and platform were given hearty praise reports were made by the county chairmen. Without exception the sentiment for Smith and the rest of the candidates was reported to be strong. The evidence of party strength and solidarity as furnished by these representatives was characterized as "highly encouraging" by Mr. Slater and Mr. Maddox.

Several women members of the various county committees also were present at the meeting. Mrs. Frank Dennis, of Eatonton, head of the campaign for the women in the district, spoke briefly, stating that she had "secured excellent co-operation" from the women in every county in which she has worked.

The meeting tonight is to mark the official opening of the campaign which is to be actively conducted from now until election time. The county committee chairmen will direct the work in their respective counties under supervision of the district and state heads.

These men representing their various counties gave the reports which indicated that the national ticket would not lose a county in the district: Pate Wright, Clark county; Morris Kelly, Walton county; Dr. C. A. Griffith, Putnam county; Earl Norman, Wilkes county; John Morris, Hart county; Perry Williams, Greene county; Jack Haley, Elbert county; F. B. Wow, Franklin county; C. C. Sockwell, Newton county, and B. T. Moseley, of Madison county.

BYRD POLE SHIP RETURNS TO PANAMA

Panama, September 19.—(AP)—Having developed engine trouble shortly after sailing for Dunedin, New Zealand, en route to the Antarctic, the City of New York, supply ship of Commander Richard E. Byrd's south polar expedition, was returning to port today.

The vessel, which cleared from Balboa yesterday morning, wirelessed last night that engine trouble had developed in the neighborhood of Bona island, 25 miles from Balboa. The ship will be examined and repaired at the Balboa docks.

HOOVER IS URGED TO GO TO TEXAS

BY W. B. RAGSDALE.

Washington, September 19.—(AP)—Renewed appeals to Herbert Hoover to enlarge his speaking itinerary to include a swing into Texas and a speech at Chicago came to him today as he returned to his desk from two days of arduous campaigning in New Jersey.

The Texas invitation was given by a group of democrats from the Lone Star state who called upon the republican presidential candidate during the day to tell him that their state was in the doubtful column and that if he would speak there he would stand a better than even chance of getting its electoral votes in November.

They were headed by Thomas B. Love, of Dallas, a former national democratic committeeman for Texas. Love said that the democrats of his state were in open revolt against the democratic nominee, Governor Alfred E. Smith, and that he had assured Hoover that a journey to Texas would enable him to carry the state.

THIN, FRAIL PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE VIROGEN

Astonishing Gains in Weight, Increased Vitality and Better General Health Reported From Use of Famous Prescription. Young and Old Quickly Respond to Its Strengthening and Flesh Building Effects.

Virogen is the prescription of a New York hospital physician, who used it for many years with conspicuous success before making any announcement of its beneficial effects. People heard of his strengthening and flesh building tonic in faraway places and it was frequently sent to patients whom he had never seen. Physicians, knowing that it contained ingredients of recognized therapeutic value, began using it with beneficial results.

Virogen Tonic Tablets contain glandular extract, iron peptonate, malt calcium and prosphorus—soothing digestives and other valuable tonic agents essential in stimulating glandular secretions, repairing waste of flesh, rebuilding the blood, bone, nerve and tissue and in removing waste matter and impurities from the bowels and kidneys. Young and old quickly respond to its strengthening and flesh building effects.

Thousands have used it with beneficial results—contains no injurious drugs, there are no bad after effects—it strengthens the stomach, insures the proper assimilation of the food, purifies the blood, clears the complexion and keeps the liver and bowels in a healthy condition. This famous prescription has been so successful in building solid flesh, increasing the vitality, overcoming physical weaknesses that all druggists have been instructed to return, without question, the full purchase price $1, if expected benefits are not obtained.

Get a package of Virogen today. It will help you regain your normal weight, overcome that sluggish, let-down, tired feeling and make you Eat, Sleep and Feel Better.

Statement of a Georgia Physician

"THE first day I noticed a decided increase in my sensation of strength, both muscular and nervous. The second day I felt an improvement in my appetite and digestion. I have been very nervous and wakeful but of late have been sleeping soundly. Long afte reating I had a sensation of peristalis in my stomach and intestines and a strong desire for food. I have gained in weight. Beneficial results have been noticeable among several of my patients."

HOW TO OBTAIN VIROGEN.

It is sold in Atlanta by Jacobs' and all leading druggists. Persons living in the smaller towns and country districts should place their orders for Virogen with their local merchant or druggist, who will order it from their wholesale distributor.

Couple Lost; Papers in Car Solve Story

Los Angeles, September 19.—(AP)—The mystery of the disappearance August 18 of Mr. and Mrs. Albert La Huis, wealthy residents of Zeeland, Mich., and of a business acquaintance, F. J. Walter, was reported by sheriff's deputies to have been cleared up today. A cap and papers found in a wrecked automobile on the Ridge route highway, identified as the property of Walter, convinced officers his body was buried beneath a small landslide heaped behind the car.

The body of the man recovered last night was identified today as that of La Huis. Personal papers found in his pockets bore his name. The body of a woman, which last night could not be extricated from beneath the wrecked car, was recovered today. Officers said La Huis' son, C. P. La Huis, of Miami, Fla., who accompanied them to the scene of the fatal accident today, expressed belief the body was that of his mother.

Dynamite will be used tomorrow to remove earth and rocks in a search for the body of Walter. The deputies said that a road widening crew, operating a steam shovel, had unwittingly dumped tons of earth down behind the wrecked car, which was at the bottom of a small but steep slope ravine bordering the mountainous highway.

The wrecked automobile, located by an automobile insurance representative searching for the missing car, was found to be registered in the name of Mrs. Evelyn D. Walter, of La Jolla, Calif., wife of the missing oil promoter. The latter came to Los Angeles to meet La Huis, who had invested $75,000 in oil lands through him.

HEFLIN MEETING TO HAVE GUARD

Montgomery, Ala., September 19.—(AP)—A squad picked from the state constabulary has been detailed to the municipal athletic stadium for tomorrow night with instructions to preserve order during the address of United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin, Walter K. Mcadory, chief of the state forces, announced today. McAdory said the assignment of the officers was made to guard against execution of threats which reports to his office had been made against Senator Heflin.

The senator, who opposed the nomination of Governor Alfred Smith and the "Roman Catholic political machine" in addresses on the senate floor, was denied use of the municipal auditorium for his speech a few days ago by Mayor William A. Gunter, Jr. The mayor at the time said he was actuated by Senator Heflin attacking "good citizens of the city" in the course of a previous speech he had made in the auditorium. He also denied use of the auditorium to Dr. John Roach Straton, of New York, who is touring the country in opposition to the Smith candidacy.

Senator Heflin in a recent statement from Washington promised to "discuss William further," in referring to Mayor Gunter denying him use of the auditorium.

event he decides not to come to Atlanta.

The recommendation of the commission is as follows:

"The evidence does not show that the applicant, Mrs. Eula May Elrod Thompson, took any actual part in the homicide, and the evidence of conspiracy upon the part of the applicant is at best weak. Treating the findings of the court upon this point as establishing the fact of conspiracy, yet under the weak and unsatisfactory evidence thereof, we are of the opinion that the sentence should be commuted to life imprisonment. The actual perpetrators of the homicide have heretofore been executed."

Labor Demands Its Share In 'Machine Age' Profits, Green Tells Machinists

President of American Federation of Labor Indorses 5-Day Week in Convention Address.

American labor welcomes the mechanicalization of American industry, with its attending increase of production, but insists on a fair and equitable share in the profits thus earned, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, Wednesday told the International Association of Machinists, in session this week at the Biltmore hotel.

Mr. Green's address featured the morning meeting of the convention, and was enthusiastically acclaimed by 400 delegates who have gathered here from all parts of the American continent and many foreign countries.

The speaker made a strong appeal for a general adoption of the five-day week in industry. He cited figures to show that the production efficiency of workers, through the universal use of machinery, has increased in two decades past from 25 to 150 per cent.

Power Welcomed.

"We are willing to shift the burden of human drudgery and toil from the shoulders of men and women to the machine," Mr. Green declared. "We would not stifle inventive power, but welcome it.

"But American labor insists that the owners of the machines shall not appropriate to themselves all the benefits that come through the introduction of machinery.

"We are steadfastly against any general reduction of wages for working men and women of the American continent.

"At Atlantic City a few years ago we refused longer to accept the philosophy of the 'living wage,' 'a full dinner pail,' 'a saving wage.' We discarded all these slogans and declared that all our economic strength shall be used to secure for American men and women a fair and equitable share in the joint efforts of industry."

Greeted by Committee.

Mr. Green, who plans to leave Atlanta early today, was greeted on his arrival at Brookwood station Wednesday morning by a committee consisting of Emmett Quinn, president of the Atlanta chapter; ex-President O'Connell, of the International Association of Machinists, and Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

Mr. Green also denounced "the abusive use of the writ of injunction" in restraining labor unions from striking when conditions warrant the move.

Former Senator Hoke Smith, who followed Mr. Green on the morning program, declared that "candidates for both branches of congress will be asked to state their position on a writ that classifies human beings who work for wages with a commodity subject to the laws of trade. Lawmakers respond to concerted public opinion, and you should carry this question of the injunction into the political field at elections this fall."

Railroad workers of the association were called into a special meeting Wednesday night to discuss problems relating to their particular phase of industry.

At Local Meeting.

After the business sessions today the delegates will be guests at the regular meeting of the Atlanta chapter, the parent organization, which convenes at 7:30 o'clock at the Labor temple.

A general celebration will be staged at Lakewood park Saturday, known as "Machinists' day." Automobile races, a barbecue and a spectacular fireworks display will occupy the visitors.

The convention closes Sunday afternoon with a memorial service for the dead of the association. This will be called to order at 4 o'clock at the First Baptist church, corner of Peachtree and Cain streets.

TIME OF SMOKE HEARING CHANGED

Public hearing on a proposed city ordinance to force railroads operating inside the inner fire limits of the city to electrify engines was changed late Wednesday afternoon from 10 o'clock this morning until 4 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced by Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, chairman of the bridge committee of city council, who will preside at the hearing.

Time of the hearing was transferred so it would not conflict with a scheduled meeting at 10 o'clock this morning, when the Georgia public service commission will take up the matter of erection of a new Union depot with roads operating from that station. This session will be held at the capitol while the electrification of railways hearing will be held in the mayor's office at the city hall.

The public service commission several weeks ago submitted to railway executives a proposal which they declared would furnish adequate facilities at the Union station. Estimated cost of the improvement was $425,000, while heads of the roads operating from the station have announced that $350,000 is the very most they can expend on the improvement.

It is understood that the commission will insist on adoption of the plans which it has offered.

Engineers of the roads, the state and city have been working on the plans for the past several weeks, and hope of an amicable adjustment of differences was expressed.

Electrification of engines operating in the restricted area has been recommended as a move to eliminate the smoke and cinder nuisance in downtown Atlanta.

Mr. Dobbs offered the ordinance at a meeting of council held in July, and it was referred to the bridge committee for a public hearing and a recommendation. It bears the favorable signatures of 21 members of general council.

G. O. P. DRY FAILURE HIT BY MRS. LAMAR

The republican party is denounced because of its failure to enforce the prohibition law in a letter written by Mrs. W. D. Lamar, of Macon, to Judge John S. Candler, which was made public Wednesday by the democratic state campaign committee. Mrs. Lamar is the daughter of James H. Blount, who served as a congressman from Georgia for more than 25 years.

In her letter Mrs. Lamar promises allegiance to the national ticket, and discusses her reasons for supporting Governor Al Smith in preference to Herbert Hoover.

Her letter follows:

"My Dear Judge Candler:

"Accept my sincere thanks for the opportunity you give me to show my interest in and loyalty to the party my father represented so long in the councils of the nation.

"O for the power of such men as he and his colleagues, Henry G. Turner, Charles Crisp, George T. Barnes, Milton Candler, that we might keep our people in the south true to the principles these men fought to maintain, and which they served in the councils of a reunited nation.

"I can see no difference between Smith and Hoover on the prohibition question, except that Smith declared courageously the inefficacy of the 18th amendment as it stands and the need he saw to make it workable. "Hoover and his party have proven themselves utterly incapable of carrying out this law and unless the republican candidate shows stamina not discovered in his acquiescence in the dishonesty of his party for the past eight years, he will continue to be the friend of big interests and the tool of the millionaire Mellon, his political godfather, soaked through and through with the riches from the latter's mammoth distillery.

"There is no other charge against Smith worth considering, and this only because it blinds some to the fact that they are knifing the party that has given to the nation its only honest administrations in 70 years. They seem not to realize that the president of the United States cannot change a law any more than he can hand us over to a foreign power either political or religious, and that our government is controlled by the legislative and judicial branches in conjunction with the executive. The years of hard work and devotion which finally secured the 18th amendment are infinitestimal compared with what would be required to repeal same.

"There is an unspeakable hurt in the fact that southern people are fighting their own party. It is one of those pernicious forms of self-expression run riot."

MRS. J. M. CHEATHAM BADLY HURT IN CRASH

Macon, Ga., September 19.—(AP)—Mrs. John H. Cheatham, wife of the president of the Georgia Kincaid mills at Griffin, Ga., was seriously injured and five other persons in the Cheatham automobile were bruised and cut today when the automobile overturned just beyond Loraine, on the Macon-Atlanta highway.

The other passengers in the car who suffered minor bruises and cuts were Mrs. Charles Westbrook, Mrs. W. T. Murphy, Mrs. Wilbur Brown, Mrs. Lila Copeland and John Griffin, all of Griffin.

Doctors said that there was little hope for Mrs. Cheatham's recovery, as a number of bones were broken and that she was internally crushed.

A tire on the front wheel of the machine blew out, causing the machine to overturn.

HARDWICK SPEAKS IN DAWSON FRIDAY

Dawson, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Thomas W. Hardwick, several times congressman and former United States senator and governor of Georgia, will speak in Dawson Friday in the interest of Governor Alfred E. Smith and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, the nominees for president and vice president, respectively.

Mr. Hardwick will begin his address in the court house at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. His engagement here has been extensively advertised in Terrell and adjoining counties, and it is expected that a large crowd will be present to greet the distinguished Georgian.

Mr. Hardwick is one of the most forceful speakers in the state. He speaks plainly and understandingly on men and measures and large crowds are turning out to hear him wherever he appears.

Army Orders

Major Joseph J. Grace, who has been on duty at headquarters, fourth corps area, for the past year as corps area signal officer, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel, with rank from September 5. Colonel Grace began his military career as a cadet at West Point in June, 1900, and was commissioned a lieutenant of infantry in June, 1904. He is also a graduate of the command and general staff school, class of 1927.

Captain David E. Barnett, who has been on duty with the twenty-second infantry at Fort McPherson, Georgia, for the past two years, has been ordered to duty with the organized reserves at Greenville, S. C.

SUGAR CANE CROP REPORTED UNHURT BY TROPIC STORM

Thomasville, Ga., September 19.—One crop that has not suffered from the extreme wetness of the present year or the several West Indian storms that have whistled through this section, is the sugar cane. The cane just eats up moisture, and thrives on it, and the outlook is for the largest crop and the best quality of cane that has been grown in Thomas county for about three or four years past. Stalks of cane are already being put on the local market, where they retail readily to the small boy and girl for chewing, and cane juice is going on sale at some of the soda founts and soft drink stands.

How he turned my failure into success

"B.O."—my trouble? For a moment I saw red.

But Atkinson was a decent sort and I knew he was talking for my own good. Besides, I was slipping. I worked like blazes. I had plenty of good leads—but no orders. It just seemed that every time I called and had a prospect warmed up, he'd suddenly lose interest and want to be rid of me.

It had me worried. But I never suspected the truth until Atkinson tipped me off. Today I'm not handicapped by "B.O."—you know, Body Odor. Let me tell you the little secret that changed my whole future and helped me win success.

No fear of "B.O." now

Like every normal, healthy person, I perspire. But I never noticed any unpleasant odor about me, so I just assumed I was all right.

That's where I was fooled. When we get used to an odor, we don't detect it. Unknowingly, I did offend.

But since I've changed to Lifebuoy, I've said goodbye to "B.O." worries for good. A Lifebuoy bath certainly makes me feel clean and fresh. Its antiseptic lather deodorizes pores. And now that I've gotten rid of "B.O.", I'm getting ahead faster than ever.

Great for skin, too!

I like the way Lifebuoy lathers and keeps the skin so nice and smooth. My wife loves it for her complexion. The youngsters all use it, too. We feel that Lifebuoy really saves us lots of sickness by removing germs. Lifebuoy has a nice clean smell that rinses away completely.

No Matter How You Figure the Cost....

It's Cheaper to Build with BRICK and TILE!

WORRIED over initial cost? Enduring brick and tile costs you only about 3% more than flimsy, substitute materials. This slight difference is more than made up the first time you have the frame house repainted!

Thinking of cost over a period of years? The moment a frame house is finished, depreciation sets in. A home built of burned clay products doesn't even begin to depreciate for five years! Let us give you further facts.

Heavy LEAD and Oil paint

costs no more per pound than light weight paint

PURE WHITE LEAD and linseed oil are selling today at practically the same price per pound. Sometimes one is a little higher or a little lower, but the difference is never great. For this reason a heavy white lead paint—one weighing 19 to 20 lbs. to the gallon—costs no more per pound than a lighter weight paint. No matter how much oil is added, the cost per pound of paint is practically the same, and the cost per gallon of paint is exactly in proportion to its weight.

Lead and oil paint weighing 20 pounds to the gallon gives much better service than lighter weight paint, and the difference in cost will be many times made up in added years of service.

Easier to thin, tint and spread

Painters who have been accustomed to thinning 100 pounds of Carter Heavy Paste White Lead with 4 gallons of oil for finishing coats (half oil and half turps for undercoats) will get paint of same weight and consistency by thinning Carter Soft Paste with linseed oil measure for measure. The greater convenience of soft paste costs the painter nothing.

Tenth District Party Leaders Unanimously Indorse Governor Smith

Augusta, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The convention of the tenth district democrats of Georgia today unanimously adopted a resolution indorsing the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith and Senator Joseph T. Robinson for president and vice president, respectively.

The convention, attended by hundreds of members from the 12 counties comprising the district, met to officially declare Representative Carl Vinson the district's choice for congress. Mr. Vinson has been chosen representative from the tenth district for eight consecutive times, the last four being without opposition.

The platform, which was adopted without a dissenting vote, was introduced by Thomas J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle, and read as follows:

"We, the representatives of the democratic party of the tenth congressional district of Georgia, in convention assembled, reaffirm our allegiance to the principles of the national democratic party, and indorse the platform adopted at the Houston convention and pledge our support to its nominees, and confidently affirm that the future welfare and the prosperity of the nation depend upon the application of the democratic principles in our government.

"We hold that the preservation of this republic depends upon the separation of church and state, the maintenance of the rights of freedom of speech, of the press, of conscience, of personal liberty, of equality of all citizens before the law and of the rights of the separate states.

"We oppose the tendency of the present republican administration to centralize under the authority of the federal government the powers heretofore possessed and exercised by the states.

"We oppose the exercise by the federal government of authority in the purely local and domestic matters of our people and maintain that a truly democratic government should leave the management of local affairs wherever possible in the hands of the state and local authorities.

Hit Tariff Bill.

"We believe in equal rights to all and special privileges to none, and we charge that the Fordney - McCumber tariff bill enacted by the republican party is a direct violation of the equal rights of American citizens and is an undisguised attempt to grant special and extraordinary favors to the favored industries of the country. We charge that the schedules were framed specifically to reward the contributors to republican party success and that its provisions were aimed at and have injured the small business man, the wage earner, salaried employees, and those engaged in agriculture.

"We favor a revision of the inequitable schedules of this bill and a material reduction of the rates on the necessities and comforts of life, as well as upon agricultural products.

"We believe that the railroad freight rates ought to be so adjusted as to give low priced commodities and agricultural products the lowest rates and placing a higher rate upon more valuable and less bulky manufactured products.

"We favor the development of the Muscle Shoals power project and favor the disposition of that power to private enterprises under such limitations as to guarantee the use of the surplus nitrates produced in the manufacture of fertilizers.

Mails and Highways.

"We favor the continuance of the democratic policy of contributing aid to the building of highways, and a fuller development of rural free delivery of mail and the parcel post system so that every citizen can receive the daily service of these government agencies.

"We favor liberal appropriations, honest and economic management and sympathetic care and assistance in the hospitalization, rehabilitation and compensation of the veterans of all wars and their dependents.

"We favor the enforcement of the constitution and all laws and we condemn the failure of the republican administration to enforce the prohibition laws. We are opposed to any change or modification in the national prohibition law, which will weaken it or render its enforcement more difficult.

"We welcome the wholesome influence of the women in the control of the government and congratulate them upon the essential part they are taking in the progress of our country.

"We are utterly opposed to any modification seeking to weaken the present immigration law.

"We are heartily in favor of legislation giving beneficial relief to agriculture. We favor the placing of the cotton exchange under governmental supervision and to provide for southern deliveries on New York contract at Augusta, Ga.

"We favor the further reduction of income and corporation taxes and believe that the burden of this tax as well as all others, should be borne in proportion to the ability to pay.

"We stand for economy in governmental expenditures and are opposed to the creation of any additional bureaus or the broadening of governmental activities or concentration of further powers in the national government.

"We favor the deepening of the Savannah river from Augusta to Savannah so as to provide a clear channel at least seven feet deep between those two cities, so that the city of Augusta may receive the benefits resulting from the competition between water and rail lines.

"We are opposed to the sale of the United States arsenal at Augusta, Ga.

"We favor economical construction of post office buildings on the present government owned sites in Thomson and Sandersville, and we favor the immediate purchase of post office sites and the early construction of post ofice buildings in the cities of Louisville and Sparta.

"We indorse the record made by our congressman, Honorable Carl Vinson. He has been untiring in his work in behalf of his district and his constituents. His labors in congress have been along constructive lines and we present him to the voters of this district as the democratic nominee for congress and commend him to the people in the confident hope and expectation that they will give him their unanimous support."

REV. DE BARDELEBEN SPEAKS AT CLARKSTON

The Rev. W. J. DeBardeleben, pastor of the Grant Park Methodist church, will give his lecture, "How to Get Married and Stay Married," at the school auditorium at Clarkston at 8 o'clock, Friday night. His book on this subject has been widely read and enjoyed. A special musical attraction will be the Lockhart Sisters, of Atlanta, with the Hawaiian guitar.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK AT LAWRENCEBURG, TENN.

Nashville, Tenn., September 19.—(AP) Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will speak at Lawrenceburg, Tenn., on behalf of the republican campaign the afternoon of October 3, Julian Campbell, director of the repubican speakers bureau for Tennessee announced today. Colonel Roosevelt will speak in Chattanooga the following evening.

'CHILDREN'S DAY' AT FAIR NAMED

With special features planned, Atlanta and Fulton county school students, together with those of neighboring counties, will have their "day" on Monday, October 1, at the Southeastern fair, it was announced Wednesday by Oscar Mills, secretary and manager.

All students and teachers will be admitted to the fair for 15 cents on children's day and no tickets are necessary this year. The students' only requirement is to make known to the gatekeepers what schools they are connected with.

A holiday has been declared in both the city and county school systems, the first holiday of the school term. In announcing the holiday, both Jere A. Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools, and Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, urged all student to take advantage of the offer and visit the fair. It will be the only one day on which the reduced admission price will prevail.

A special feature of the day will be the state-wide spelling bee, in which the winner in addition to winning the title of Georgia's champion speller will receive a $100 cash prize. Ten other prizes will be given to the next best spellers.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, is chairman of the spelling bee committee, while M. L. Dugan, state superintendent of schools, and Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, will give out the words. Miss Mary Postell, of the Atlanta school system and Jere A. Wells, head of the Fulton county system will be the referees. The spelling bee will start at 1 o'clock.

Another special feature of children's day will be the big fireworks display across the lake from the grandstand. Several new and elaborate designs are being made for the special Monday night display. The fireworks will be a feature every night during the fair.

The six-day automobile race meet will start Monday afternoon and continue through the week, with a novelty event on children's day. A large list of purses has lured some of the best dirt track drivers in the country to Lakewood for the week.

There will be 22 acts in front of the grandstand starting at 2:30 o'clock each day by Jimmy Dutton's famous all-star circus. The circus acts will be given at night, just before the fireworks display and will be the same as those given last year.

No Negro Postmaster Ever Appointed Here, Mayor Tells Inquirer

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Wednesday in reply to a letter stated that Atlanta so far as he knows has neved had a negro postmaster, but that at one time a negro collector of revenue was stationed here.

The statement was made in a letter addressed to W. E. Merrill, of Arcadia, Fla. Mr. Merrill declared there were rumors that Atlanta has a negro postmaster. Mr. Ragsdale stated that Edwin K. Large is postmaster here, and added that he is one of the very best in the country.

M'INTYRE SPEAKS TO CHURCH CLUB

Economic values in religion were sketched by Commissioner William A. McIntyre, southern commander of the Salvation Army, in an address to the Men-of-the-Church club at the First Presbyterian church here Tuesday night. He drew from 44 years of Salvation Army work illustrations of men regenerated from beggary and crime and made self-supporting instead of dependent either of charity or tax appropriations for prison support.

D. M. McIntyre presided as program chairman. Frank White is local president of the club which is a branch of the national Presbyterian layman's organization.

German Men Prefer Older Women When They Get Married

Berlin, September 19.—Matrimonial agencies are finding it easier to arrange a match for a woman between 25 and 35 than for a girl of 20. The explanation is that men prefer the more sedate and sensible.

ASKS POLICE AID TO FIND HIS SON

Honolulu, September 19.—(AP)—Following an unsuccessful attempt to ransom his kidnaped son, which he said cost him $4,000, Frederick Jamieson, vice president of the Hawaiian Trust company, today asked the police to join in the search for his 10-year-old son, Gil, abducted yesterday.

Jamieson reported the kidnapers had demanded $10,000 ransom and threatened the boy with death if the money was not paid immediately.

The boy was stolen from school by a man who told his teacher that Mrs. Jamieson had been injured in an automobile accident and wanted her son to return home immediately.

Shortly after it was revealed Mrs. Jamieson ha' not been injured and the lad was discovered missing, Mr. Jamieson received a letter demanding the ransom.

Following instructions to act without notifying the police the distracted father secured funds, and went alone to a downtown corner where he had been told to meet an envoy of the kidnapers and deliver the ransom.

The man appeared and on the promise his son would be restored to him at once the banker turned over $4,000. Jamieson said the man disappeared into a near-by crowd and failed to return. It was then that the police were notified.

The ransom letter was hand printed and headed: "Will God save the kings?" It demanded $4,000 in five and ten dollar bills; $4,000 in twenty dollar bills and $2,000 in fifty dollar bills—"all old bills, free of any identification."

Toll of Hurricane

West Palm Beach, Fla., September 19.—(AP)—Relief workers estimated today that 325 or more persons lost their lives in the tropical hurricane that swept over the Lake Okeechobee district Sunday.

Deaths in the east coast communities were not expected to exceed 10, they said, bringing the total estimate of deaths to 335.

COTTON SEED PROBE IS ASKED BY GEORGE

Washington, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Senator George, democrat, Georgia, has urged the department of justice to make "a full and vigorous investigation into the matter of proposed alleged violation of the Anti-Trust law" by the Cotton Seed Crushers' association.

In a statement today, it was explained that the particular complaint of the senator related to a "code of ethics" presented to the seed crushers' meeting in Memphis, July 24.

"It is said that the code amounted virtually to an agreement between the mills to 'all have the same price and instantly eliminate independent buyers'," the senator's statement declared. Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture for Georgia, the senator added, had pointed out that the arrangement, "if allowed to go into effect, would be clearly in restraint of trade."

Anti-Catholic Paper Barred From Mails For Smith Attacks

Aurora, Mo., September 19.—(AP)—This week's issue of the New Menace, anti-Catholic paper published here, was barred from the mails today by Mark Mathes, Aurora postmaster, because of alleged indecent statements about Governor Smith, of New York, and the pope.

Mr. Mathes said an article in the publication attacking Smith's candidacy for the presidency contained remarks which he considered in violation of the postal regulations against transmitting indecent matter through the mails.

The article charged among other things that the candidacy of the democratic nominee was being "manipulated by the pope, not because of Al Smith himself, but because the Roman Catholic church wants, needs and can use a Roman Catholic as president of the United States."

BELIEVE DETROIT COUPLE MURDERED

Detroit, September 19.—(AP)—The theory that Burr Hart, wealthy realtor and his wife, found shot to death in their apartment last Saturday night, were slain, was strengthened today with the announcement by Coroner A. L. French that location of the wounds on the two bodies precluded the possibility of suicide.

Police at the same time announced receipt of informaton that Hart had raised between $10,000 and $15,000 for a business transaction the day before the shooting and that the money had disapepared.

The wounds in Hart's head indicated the bullets entered the top and coursed downward, as if some one had stood at the top of a stairway and fired upon the victim, according to French, Hart's body was found at the foot of the stairs in his apartment. That of Mrs. Hart was found lying on a bed in the upper section of the place.

Witnesses yesterday related to police a conversation with Mrs. Hart in which she told of discovering that her rooms had been ransacked Saturday. This information, added to other evidence, led police to believe that an intruder may have remained concealed in the house and attacked the couple that evening.

Arkansas Lecturer Will Deliver Address Here on September 25

John Brown, of Arkansas, president and founder of the John Brown college in the Ozark mountains, lecturer, evangelist, traveler and educator, will speak September 25 at Wesley Memorial church on "The American Crisis." A powerful personality, enriched by travel and contacts, has made President Brown one of the outstanding platform speakers of today. He now is on a lecture tour that will take him through the leading cities of the country.

JOHN BROWN.

After a time as drummer with the Salvation army, John Brown experienced a swift and meteoric rise to a position as one of the leading evangelists of his day, and with it the dream of founding a school that would make it possible for the boys and girls of the hill country and those of other sections who found their way to other schools blocked, to obtain training in those principles necessary for happy and successful living. That dream is a reality now, and this fall the school, located near Siloam Springs, Ark., opened its doors for its tenth year.

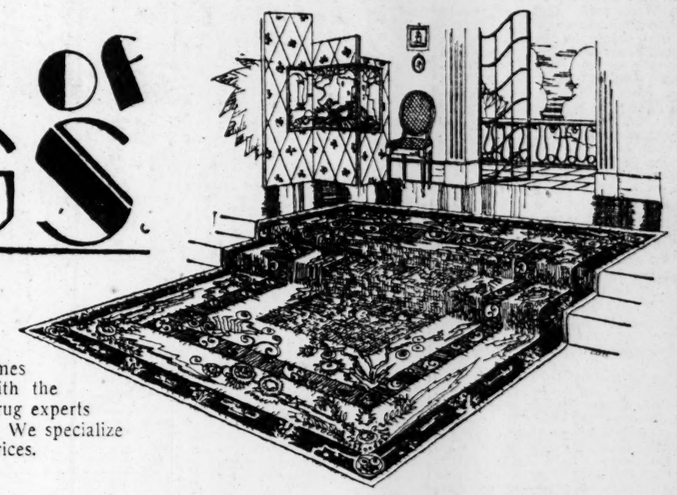

GENERAL J. W. MAY, U. C. V. OFFICIAL, DIES AT 82 YEARS

Birmingham, Ala., September 19.—(AP)—James Wiggins May, 82-year-old surgeon general of the United Confederate veterans, succumbed to his second stroke of paralysis at his residence here late yesterday. General May, until his first illness two years ago, had never missed a reunion of Confederate forces and was a leader of the veterans' organization in Alabama.

A native of Talladega, General May had made his home in Birmingham many years. A daughter, a son, and several grandchildren survive.

Funeral services were to be conducted this afternoon.

SCHOOL IS URGED FOR DEFECTIVES

Resolutions requesting the county commission to establish a Fulton county school for mentally and physically defective children, similar to the state institution at Gracewood, were adopted Wednesday afternoon by unanimous vote of the Fulton County Parent-Teachers' council at the courthouse. A committee will be appointed by Mrs. George Taylor, president, to present the matter to the commission.

The council declared war on the sale of cigarettes to school children by passing resolutions requesting the legal authorities to prosecute those guilty of violations of the state law with reference to furnishing cigarettes to minors.

Wells Urges School.

Adoption of the defective child school resolution followed talks by Jere A. Wells, county school superintendent, E. M. King, county truant officer; R. L. Ramsey, elementary school supervisor, and Mrs. George Taylor, president of the council.

Mr. Wells said that the county school system has a number of children who should be segregated from the public schools and be placed where they can receive the proper attention. There is no opposition to such a move on the part of the parents of defective children, so far as he knows, Mr. Wells said. He quoted Judge Garland Watkins, of the juvenile court, as saying that such an institution in Fulton county is "the crying need of the county today."

Mr. King that the defective children are a deterrent to normal children, and to associate the two in school is unfair to both. Mr. Ramsey said the defective children remind him of a group of blind persons groping in the dark.

Take Up Much Time.

Mrs Taylor pointed out that the defective children scattered throughout the system require as much of the teachers' time as the entire rest of the class, thereby depriving normal children of the teacher's time.

Mr. Wells said that he would appear before the county commission with the committee from the council. The resolution adopted by the council stated that body felt that the defecive children should be segregated and that Fulton county should have an institution similar to the state institution at Gracewood, which is always overcrowded, the resolutions point out.

The resolutions asked the board of commissioners to "establish in this county an institution for the welfare of these unfortunate children or appoint a committee to ascertain the number of such children available for this institution and to recommend to them a plan for caring for these children."

Minor Cigarette Smokers.

In speaking of the cigarette resolution, Mr. King said that 99 per cent of the juvenile court offenders are habitual cigarette smokers, and that 75 per cent of the cases he is called upon to investigate as truant officer admit that they smoke cigarettes.

The resolutions pointed out that to furnish a minor with cigarettes is punishable as for a misdemeanor. The paper requested all merchants to abide by the law and to refrain from selling tobaccos of any kind to minors and especially to school children. Jere A. Wells, county school superintendent, said that more than 20 cases have been made, but that the alleged violators will not be prosecuted if they are willing to promise to cooperate in the future, but that any future violations will be dealt with in court.

West Palm Beach Business District Suffered Severely

Wreckage blocked traffic on the main business thoroughfares of the city for several hours after the tropical hurricane had passed, demolishing store fronts, strewing electric wires and unroofing structures.

RED CROSS DRIVES FOR STORM FUNDS

Spurred by mounting lists of dead and injured, which increase hourly as communications are reestablished with storm-stricken areas of Florida, Atlanta Red Cross workers Wednesday redoubled their efforts to raise the full amount of a $60,000 quota assigned by national headquarters.

While a number of generous contributions have been received, it is reported that Atlantans generally are responding slowly to the appeal of the local chapter, located at 283 1-2 Peachtree street.

Meanwhile, officials of the fourth corps area Wednesday were preparing 2,000 cots for immediate shipment to West Palm Beach. The death rate in this section alone was placed at 400, with hundreds of injured and 2,000 homeless.

This message was relayed from an amateur station at West Palm Beach to another in West Virginia, thence through Washington, to Atlanta headquarters.

Need Stressed.

Need for immediate action was stressed in a telegram from Washington headquarters asking for contributions of clothing suitable for tropical climates, particularly that of women and children.

The Atlanta chapter has an automobile corps to collect clothing contributions, and these machines will call at any point in the city on notification, it was announced.

Something like 700,000 inhabitants of Porto Rico have been rendered homeless by the storm; their crops lie devastated and there is scant facility to care for the thousands of injured.

Announcement has been made that Colonel Percy O. Jones, of the regular army medical corps attached to the national guard, will be ordered to the storm area to cooperate with the Red Cross in relief work near West Palm Beach. The officer is in North Carolina, and efforts are being made to recall him by telephone.

The message reporting 400 deaths in Palm Beach county was sent by Major John E. Mort, executive officer of the 307th Reserve engineers at West Palm Beach. The text follows:

Many Homes Destroyed.

"Fully 75 per cent homes destroyed from Delray to Fort Pierce and most business houses in the same area. Loss of life in Palm Beach county alone 400. Two thousand homeless and in temporary shelter. One thousand cots and blankets urgently needed. Miami and other cities furnishing food but sanitary conditions bad."

As train and wire service was established Wednesday with the stricken section, some conflicts in the early reports developed.

Frank Harrison, a resident of West Palm Beach, who telephoned his sister here Wednesday afternoon, declared that only one death had occurred in the white residential section of West Palm Beach, although all the business houses were badly damaged and about half of the homes completely demolished.

At least 75 per cent of the homes are untenable, with roofs blown away and walls and porches demolished by the force of the wind, Mr. Harrison said.

Larger contributions received by the Red Cross here include a $5,000 donation from the Coca Cola company.

Other gifts include: Mrs. Ada H. Latham, $5; Colonel B. D. Taylor, $5; Herbert W. Finch, $10; Miss Martha Abernathy, $5; Mrs. Cornelia P. Akers, $10; Dr. J. D. Cromer, $2; D. F. Crosland, $5; Mrs. Lucy Briscoe, $25; Mrs. Gertrude Werner, $20; Herbert W. Finch, $10; Bessie M. Carruth, $2; Mrs. M. M. Roberts, $5; A. F. Seider, $1; J. F. Banks, $1; E. R. Hurt, president Universal Press, Inc., $100; E. P. Ozburn, $5; H. E. Farrar, $10; Inmates of Hephsibah home, $7; R. F. Knox, $10; M. P. Greenfield, $5; John Chipman, Jr., $3; Mrs. J. W. Fraley, $3; total $232.

FEDERAL PRISONER WILL BE RETURNED TO MARYLAND PEN

A four-year search by two Baltimore detectives will definitely end here Friday when they remove a man whom they style as "one of Maryland's cleverest criminals" from the federal penitentiary to the Maryland state prison, where he will complete a sentence.

According to the story of the long search told by Detective Lieutenants J. H. Itzel and J. P. Comen, of Baltimore, William F. Gilson, serving a five-year term for robbery, and Jack Hart, serving a life sentence for murder, escaped from the state prison at Baltimore more than four years ago.

Hart was caught in Chicago about a year later and the two officers have continued their search for Gilson through several states and scores of cities. Only a short time ago they learned that he was serving a 13-month sentence in the Atlanta federal prison for a violation of the federal narcotics act, under the name of William F. Balton.

Gilson's term will be up Friday, but he will not walk forth to freedom but into the custody of the Baltimore officers. He will be returned to finish the last two years of his sentence. He had served three at the time of his escape.

How Weak Nervous Women Grow Stronger

Feel Better, Look Younger and Have Steadier Nerves

If you only knew—you rundown, anemic women — who are dragging yourself around on your "nerve"—what a wonderful increase in strength and health Tanlac will give you, you wouldn't hesitate a moment about going to your druggist and getting a big bottle of this splendid medicine.

Mrs. B. C. Fisher, of 726 Haywood Road, West Ashville, N. C., says: "I suffered from nervous indigestion. No matter what I ate gas would form and nervous headaches follow. But Tanlac completely overcame my nervous troubles and stomach weakness."

Tanlac is as free from harmful drugs as the water you drink—only Nature's own medicinal tonic herbs. Druggists know this and for the past 10 years have recommended it to men and women who need a quick "pick up" that will put them on their feet and give them a new interest in life.

So confident are the makers of Tanlac that if you are not helped by it, you get your money back on request.

BUTCHER IS HELD IN CELLAR MURDER

Horse Cave, Ky., September 19.—(AP)—George Miller, 40, a butcher, was held under bond to appear in Hart county court tomorrow, after he was questioned by a coroner's jury investigating the finding of the body of Miss Lulu Kirchner, 40, buried in the cellar of an abandoned farm house near here, and the woman's sweetheart, William Farris, 35, at the home of his sister, apparently dead from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

The home of Farris' sister, Mrs. Garland Martin, is only a short distance from the place where Miss Kirchner's body was found. Farris was found dead in the garden at her home Monday night.

ROMA TAKES OFF, BUT MOTOR FAILS

Old Orchard, Maine, Sept. 19.—(AP) Facing a delay of several days before they can make another attempt to bridge the Atlantic, the Roma fliers are preparing an inspection of the motor which will disclose the ailment which nearly plunged the plane into the sea today.

Cesare Sabelli, flight commander, said tonight that in all probability water in the carburetor or some other minor difficulty was responsible for the backfire which bent the carburetor intake and necessitated a return to Old Orchard after the plane had been less than half an hour on her way to Rome.

Sabelli said that in his opinion there was no serious defect in the motor. Two days will be required, he said, for an inspection and the installation of a new carburetor intake.

The motor began to fail and black smoke poured from the exhaust 12 minutes after she had left Old Orchard today. Roger Q. Williams, who was manning the controls, circled over Cow Island in search of a landing place but could find none. At one time, the fliers said, it appeared doubtful whether they could make the return to Old Orchard. The plane was only 200 feet in the air when the difficulty developed.

Only a few minutes after the single-motored Bellanca took off this morning a message was received from Dr. Mitchell of the weather bureau in New York warning the fliers of dangerous wind conditions along the path of flight. Sabelli said tonight that he expected a delay of some days before the weather is again auspicious for a trans-Atlantic flight. He does not expect to take the air again before Monday, he said.

RECORDER'S AUTO IS FIRED, DAMAGED BY PAIR OF NEGROES

A fire, thought to have been started by disgruntled negroes who had felt the force of his stern justice, did slight damage to Recorder Murphy M. Holloway's automobile late Wednesday afternoon.

Recorder Holloway had just left the police station after the afternoon session of court and was approaching his car, parked on Butler street near Decatur, when he saw two negroes running away from it. Hastening, he found the front seat in flames. Officers Bill McKinny and S. R. McGarrity were summoned to his aid and the fire was quickly extinguished.

MRS. E. J. KENNA HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. E. J. Kenna, of 794 Frederica street, suffered cuts and bruises about the face and body early Wednesday night in an automobile-motorcycle collision at Glen Iris drive and Ponce de Leon avenue.

According to police reports the automobile in which Mrs. Kenna was riding with her husband was struck by a motorcycle ridden by M. Delaney, a negro, of 5 Edgewood avenue, when Kenna attempted to make a left turn from Ponce de Leon into Glen Iris. Mrs. Kenna was treated at Georgia Baptist hospital. The negro left the scene when Patrolmen Tyson and Herndon arrived and he is now being sought by police on a reckless driving charge.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.—(adv.)

Police Band Fund Near Goal; Midnight Show Draws 2,000

More than 2,000 Atlantans Wednesday night flocked to the auditorium and participated in the riot of laughter and fun offered by Tom Bailey, of the S1 theater, and his troup of artists as a benefit performance for the $6,000 fund being raised to send the Atlanta police band to Havana to act as an honorary escort of the Atlanta and Georgia delegations at the thirtieth annual convention of the Spanish American War veterans.

Attendance at the show Wednesday night, coupled with the $3,305.28 cash in hand and other promises of contributions outstanding, assures success of the campaign directed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, under C. F. Dieter, vice president.

A ways and means committee, headed by Councilman James E. Bowden, of the fifth ward, has assisted in the drive and the 60 members of the police band have acted as a committee in raising the funds.

Approximately $2,000 was added to the fund by the performance Wednesday night.

Total of $3,305.

Committees reported additional subscriptions at a meeting of the ways and means committee Wednesday afternoon, which pushed the total to $3,305.28—$2,694.72 short of the $6,000 mark. Addition of the $2,000 house Wednesday night left the fund only $694.72 short. This will be raised today, it was believed by Mr. Dieter and Mr. Bowden.

Subscriptions listed Wednesday follow:

Previously reported	$2,855.28
G. C. Beck	25.00
Black and White Cab Co.	25.00
Southern Bakeries Corp.	25.00
M. Rich & Bros. Co.	25.00
Wofford Oil Co.	100.00
Pitcairn Aviation Corp.	25.00
John Boykin	25.00
Mike Camilo	100.00
Grand total	$3,305.28

Each of the 25 persons in the cast played the stellar role at the show Wednesday night and time and again was recalled for encores.

List of Performers.

Included in the list of performers were: "Bozo" Nickerson, a negro comedian and musician; C. J. Davis, known as the negro "Gene Austin;" Ethel Willis, toe dancer; Dainty Violetta, character artist and singer; Hattie Noel, woman comedian; Tommie Woods, acrobatic dancer; the Jackson and Jackson dancing team; Sam Robinson, comedian and singer; the quartet composed of Fred King, director and leader; George Epps, George Blunt and Will Elliott and the tropical brown skin chorus.

The performance was staged despite a protest filed by the executive board of the Atlanta Civic council, through Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president. The women declared that the show would place the law enforcement agencies of the city government under obligation to Mr. Bailey, owner and operator of the S1 theater. Mrs. Andrews appealed to Mayor Ragsdale and officials of the chamber of commerce to stop the show.

Artists offered a varied program of syncopation, jazz, appealing gags, dancing and song. It was declared to be the best midnight performance ever staged by the negroes for the benefit of a white audience. It was clean and entertaining.

Graham Jackson wielded the baton over the S1 orchestra, which Mr. Bailey also offered free of cost. Every dollar taken in at the gates and from ticket sales went into the fund. There was no overhead.

"We were glad to offer our services to the band and feel gratified if we have assisted in assuring the band of the trip to Cuba," Mr. Bailey said. "Our only motive was to be of service. If we have been, we feel well repaid for our efforts. One thing is certain, the audience enjoyed the offering and demonstrated that they appreciate the artistic even when it is offered by negro performers."

CUSTOMS IN CLASH WITH OPERA STAR ON IMPORT DUTY

New York, September 19.—(AP)—The baggage which Ganna Walska, opera singer, brought with her from Europe is being held by customs authorities because Mme. Walska refused to pay import duty on jewelry and merchandise purchased abroad, customs officials said today.

Despite the fact she is the wife of an American citizen, Harold F. McCormick, of Chicago, Mme. Walska declared herself to be a non-resident of this country and therefore entitled to bring goods through the customs duty free.

The customs authorities have taken the position that her status as the wife of an American citizen makes her subject to the customs regulations governing the property of Americans returning from abroad.

Mme. Walska has been summoned to appear for a hearing on the disputed question tomorrow.

MAKEUP DON'TS

Never leave powder and rouge on over night. Cleanse skin daily

Nature's rule for lovely skin is the nightly cleansing with olive and palm oils as found in this complexion soap

APPLY cosmetics only to a clean skin. That is the advice of the world-renowned dermatologists.

"Let your skin breathe while you sleep," they say, "if you want the priceless glory of an exquisite complexion."

All day long, your face gathers dust and grime; your pores clog with oil secretions; and, to make matters worse, you apply powder, rouge, without removing previous layers. No wonder there are so many cases of blackheads, skin blemishes, acne.

You must remove every trace of make-up before your face touches the pillow. Do it, as specialists advise, with the soothing lather of olive and palm oils as embodied in a true complexion soap.

Massage thoroughly (both face and throat) with a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water, using your two hands. You can actually feel the rich lather carrying away the accumulation of impurities.

Then rinse over and over with warm water, graduated to cold, and pat till dry with a soft towel. Once in awhile, an ice massage is refreshing to "tone" the skin.

Palmolive Soap costs but 10c the cake. Get the genuine. Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, Ill.

State Democratic Leaders Invited To Hear Roosevelt Address on September 26

Bond Almand Urges Georgians To Attend First Campaign Speech of Noted Party Orator.

Georgia democracy Wednesday was invited to meet and hear the Empire state's most illustrious adopted son when Bond Almand, president of the Atlanta Young Men's Democratic league, issued a statewide invitation to citizens to attend the address which Franklin D. Roosevelt, internationally-known party leader, will make at the city auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night, September 26.

Mr. Roosevelt will come to Atlanta from his Georgia home at Warm Springs, arriving at noon Wednesday. He will be feted at a luncheon to be staged at 1 o'clock at the Capital City club, and during the afternoon will be the honored guest of members of the league and leading Georgia party directors.

Mr. Roosevelt will sound the keynote of the battle for democracy in Georgia at the auditorium that night, and standing room will be at a premium, if plans of those directing the affair materialize.

Highly-Regarded Leader.

There is no better known or more highly-regarded champion of the party in the entire country, and his unflinching loyalty to Governor Alfred Smith, due to close personal contact and a long friendship with the standard bearer of the democratic party, places him to the fore as a campaigner of ability and authority.

The speaker has held highly responsible positions of public trust and has discharged all of them in an exceedingly commendable and creditable manner. He served as assistant secretary of the treasury under Josephus Daniels during the Wilson administration.

At the Houston convention, where Governor Smith was given the presidential nomination on the first ballot, it was the oratory and force of Roosevelt, called into play, which swung the tide.

His nomination speech was one of the masterpieces of this era, dealing with all issues of the campaign and holding up the governor as the man who is capable, able and fitted to lead the people of America during the next four years.

First Campaign Speech.

The address Wednesday night will be Mr. Roosevelt's first speech of the present campaign. He has selected Georgia, his adopted home, and Atlanta to open a campaign which will take him through the country as a good-will messenger of the Smith forces.

State, county and city members of the league have been invited to attend the luncheon in addition to members of the alumni association of Columbia university from all parts of the state.

Every citizen in Georgia was extended a blanket invitation to attend the address Wednesday night. Special invitations were addressed to state, county and city officials, and plans call for one of the most representative gatherings in the history of the state, where all factions will be merged under the common banner and with a determination to pile up an unprecedented majority in favor of the democratic nominee when the election takes place November 6.

Entertainment Committee.

B. P. Gambrell and Rembert Marshall are joint members of the entertainment committee and reservations for the luncheon and for seats at the auditorium can be made through Mr. Marshall, at WAlnut 3541, 1040 Hurt building.

Special arrangements have been made to block off certain sections of the auditorium which can be reserved for out-of-town guests. Mr. Almand said. Mr. Marshall will have charge of the reservations.

Mr. Almand named a special reception committee which will meet Mr. Roosevelt as he detrains at the station Wednesday as follows: Charles B. Shelton, Cam D. Dorsey, John S. Cohen, John Paschal, Clark Howell, Sr., and Clark Howell, Jr., Hughes Spalding, Baxter Maddox, Robert T. Jones, Jr., Jack J. Spalding, Reuben R. Arnold, Mrs. Edgar Alexander, James B. Nevin, Luther Z. Rosser, Hollins N. Randolph, William Schley Howard, John M. Slaton, Harold Hirsch and Hoke Smith.

Tragic Scenes Described By Travelers From Florida

Scenes of death, desolation and destruction in the devastated storm region of Florida were pictured here Wednesday by travelers emerging from the hurricane-stricken state.

The tornado of Saturday and Sunday was by far the worst the state ever experienced, tourists stopping over in Atlanta declared.

Chief among those reporting on the disaster was Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic vice presidential candidate, who, in a short speech from the platform of his car at the Union station, touched briefly on the situation.

The most graphic description of conditions in the wake of the tropical hurricane came from James L. Dickson, of St. Louis, who was in West Palm Beach when that city received the full force of the blow. Mr. Dickson was a passenger on the same train which bore Senator Robinson to Atlanta.

Mass of Ruins.

"Trees were uprooted, houses demolished and many killed and injured in one sweep," Mr. Dickson said. "West Palm Beach undoubtedly was the hardest-hit city in the state. What last week was among the most beautiful cities in the country today is almost a mass of ruins.

"Palm Beach itself, Florida's most beautiful playground, also bore much of the storm's fury. It's palatial hotels were badly damaged and an untold number of persons killed and injured."

Mr. Dickson explained that he had not been across to Palm Beach since the storm ar' his information concerning its effects there was from residents who reached West Palm Beach after the storm had passed northward.

Details of the untold property damage wrought in and around Jacksonville and in the interior of the state were told by Miss Wilma Stewart and Miss Lena McGavan, both of St. Petersburg, who passed through Atlanta late Wednesday on their way to Nashville where both attend Ward-Belmont college.

"Some sections of interior Florida between St. Petersburg and Jacksonville were just as hard hit as West Palm Beach and Palm Beach are reported to have been," Miss Stewart said. "St. Petersburg itself escaped, though we had very severe winds there Friday and Saturday."

Chaos reigns all over the storm-ridden area, Miss McGavan reported. Many are h eless and though relief has been dispatched from Jacksonville to the cities inland and along t east coast of the state much relief work is needed in Jacksonville itself, she said in commenting on the wreckage left in the wake of the hurricane which struck Jacksonville late Monday.

All trains coming out of the storm-stricken area are from 12 to 24 hours late. Few travelers are on any of them, Mr. Dickson being among the first to reach Atlanta from West Palm Beach since the storm struck. Rebuilding already has begun in some sections, trainmen arriving on trains made up in Tampa and Jacksonville reported. Most of these trains passed to the west of that section which felt the worst of the storm.

Great Task Ahead.

Mrs. S. E. Jordan, of Sarasota, Fla., who stopped here Wednesday en route to Gastonia, N. C., reported that the relief work was well in hand, but asserted that a great task confronted those assisting in the rehabilitation of the state.

"It seemed that everybody was preparing to leave their own section after the storm struck," Mrs. Jordan, who left Sarasota Monday morning, reported. Hundreds of persons have taken up their abodes in the tourist parks of various cities, she said, and will make their homes in these camps until the damaged houses have been repaired or rebuilt.

Various reports of the number of dead and injured were made here, but none of the figures could be believed authentic.

A. B. Brown, of Cincinnati, said that police and Red Cross officials of Tampa and Jacksonville placed the number of dead at 200, but that reports of loss of life still were being received, and declared it his belief that a great number of changes would be made in the casualty lists when the complete check of the dead, injured and missing has been reported.

"There doubtless are a great number of persons missing who have been reported dead," Mr. Brown said. "Some of them may be found to be all right in the recapitulation. Right now I do not think that any one can give an accurate report on the number of casualties. The path of the storm was wide and struck too remote sections of the state to permit a complete check on the casualties at such an early date."

DEATH ROLL GROWS IN SOUTH FLORIDA

handle the business of caring for refugees.

There was running water to be had in the residential sections but residents were advised to boil it before drinking in order to combat possibility of disease. The water supply was said by relief workers to be adequate.

The sewerage disposal system was in operation.

The Palm Beach county commissioners wired the governor that they found the entire county in "dire need of funds to meet relief requirements for food, shelter and medical aid." Declaring that the local Red Cross was functioning but was without funds, as was the county, the commissioners asked the chief executive to make available $100,000 for immediate emergency use.

The governor's appeal for public contributions was made, he said, because "under the law I have no authority to dispense these funds."

Mayor Vincent Oaksmith and City Manager A. E. Parker, of West Palm Beach, today issued a statement saying:

"Effective today, all able-bodied persons not now at work must be registered with a Red Cross employment agency. Such persons now being fed as refugees will no longer be given rations unless they can produce employment registration cards. This notice is to report to the agency under penalty of being commandeered for service."

The bodies of 21 white persons who lost their lives as a result of Sunday's hurricane were brought here today from the shoes of Lake Okeechobee and buried.

The list compiled by undertakers follows:

HURRICANE NOW IN VIRGINIA.

Washington, September 19.—(AP)—The hurricane that swept the West Indies and Florida is moving north-northwestward, being central southwest of Richmond, Va., and its intensity is diminishing rapidly, the weather bureau said tonight in an advisory storm warning:

"Advisory 9 p. m.: Warnings changed to northeast 9:30 p. m. north of Virginia Capes to Boston and warning down Virginia capes to Georgetown, S. C., and north of Boston to Eastport. Tropical disturbance central southwest of Richmond, Va., now apparently moving north-northwestward with rapidly diminishing intensity."

RED CROSS CALLS FOR HELP

Washington, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The American Red Cross today urged its chapters throughout the nation to rush monetary assistance to the hurricane sufferers with all possible speed following reports from field workers that some parts of Florida received greater damage than in the 1926 disaster and that conditions in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands were "very bad."

Henry M. Baker, national disaster relief director who was sent from Washington to take personal charge of the relief operations in Porto Rico found the interior of the island in "far graver" condition than at San Juan, the capital. He informed the national headquarters that a fleet of army trucks was being loaded with food, clothing and medical supplies for distribution to interior points.

Florida's wants are being administered by a score of workers from national headquarters as well as all available chapter personnel from nearby states, while a dozen more have been ordered to leave Washington as soon as possible. Advices today reported that 15,000 persons were homeless and 9,000 dependent on the Red Cross for food.

Two counties, Palm Beach and Okeechobee, suffered greater losses than in the 1926 storm, the Red Cross was told, while severe damage was also felt in Martin and Broward counties.

Large quantities of building material will be sent to St. Croix of the Virgin Islands group to provide temporary shelter for refugees, principally natives, many of whom escaped injury or death with only the clothing on their backs left to them, and are in dire need of food and medical care.

Secretary Wilbur placed a navy vessel at the disposal of Captain Waldo Evans, of the navy, governor of the island, to transport the materials and ordered the destroyer Gilmer, which carried the first Red Cross unit to Porto Rico, to take relief workers if needed.

The greatest residence damage in San Juan fell on huts of the poor, Baker reported, following a conference with Governor Towner. Health conditions are good in Porto Rico, he reported, with no immediate danger of an epidemic.

Baker told several instances of tragedy and suffering among residents of the interior of the island. One mother with six children, one a baby, had walked 23 miles to reach San Juan to obtain food for her family.

PORTO RICO ADDS TO DEATH LIST.

San Juan, September 19.—(AP)—Forty-eight new names today were added to the Porto Rican hurricane death list, which already stood well above 300. A courier from San Sebastian, in a high mountain valley in the northwest of the island, advised the Red Cross that 46 bodies had been found there up to the time he left last Sunday. He brought the first word from that town.

Two bodies were recovered today from the city reservoir of Cayey, bringing the total in that city to 66. Most of the deaths in the country districts were drownings, while in towns the zinc roofing which normally provided friendly shelter became a veritable instrument of death.

Reports of casualties still filter in. At Guardarraya, near Arecibo, the Rev. Jesus Amora, a Methodist minister, lost his wife, his mother and his sister. His church was destroyed and he himself was seriously injured.

STORIES OF DESOLATION.

West Palam Beach, Fla., September 19.—(AP)—Out of saw grass regions of Lake Okeechobee where the hurricane struck several communities, came stories today of suffering, grief, damage and desolation, the greatest ever experienced in the section.

The hurricane Sunday night whipped across towns and settlements on the southeastern end of the 40-mile long Lake Okeechobee and relief workers who battled their way into West Palm Beach today over water covered roads gave graphic accounts of the storm's fury.

Thumped by the 125-mile wind, a dike near Pahokee crumbled and citizens of that area had to battle against flood waters as well as flying timbers from their wrecked homes and debris which littered a large section.

Today Dr. R. H. Gillespie, a dentist here, returned with a relief crew from Pahokee and said he counted the bodies of forty negroes stacked in one place in Pahokee awaiting removal to a burial ground.

National guard officers who were on patrol duty there told him they had located 200 additional bodies but had not yet removed them. He said conditions there were so "horrible as to be beyond description."

Relief workers estimated the homeless in the area at 8,000.

Call for aid came not only from Pahokee, but from Belle Glade and South Bay as well. The Ritts islands in the lake itself, with their estimated population of 30, were swept almost clean by the winds. No survivors could be found on the island following the storm.

Those residents of the stricken area who reached relief stations were in a pitiful condition. Many had eaten nothing since Sunday noon. Others had been given snatches of food here and there.

Forced to remove their heavier clothing when rising waters added to the danger of the winds, they were lacerted by the saw grass.

NORTH CAROLINA AGAIN WARNED OF FLOOD MENACE

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The fourth flood warning for Eastern North Carolina rivers since August 1 was issued today by Lee A. Denson, meteorologist with the United States weather bureau here, because of the heavy rains that accompanied the West Indian hurricane up the Atdicted, will reach 52 feet at Fayette-

The Cape Fear river, Denson predicted will reach 52 feet at Fayetteville by tomorrow morning. Flood stage there is 35 feet.

At Rocky Mount, the Tar river, already out of its banks, will reach 14 feet, 5 feet above flood stage, Friday night, he said. A 30-foot stage at Tarboro, where 18 feet is bank level, will be reached by Saturday.

The Roanoke river will go to 38 feet at Weldon within the next 36 hours. Flood stage there is 30 feet.

A height of 24 feet, or five feet out of its banks, was predicted for the Neuse river at Smithfield by late tomorrow. The river will also reach flood stage at Goldsboro and Kinston where it has been bank-full the past few days.

MAN IS KILLED IN VIRGINIA AS STORM HITS

Baltimore, Md., September 19.—(AP)—The wind and rainstorm produced by the West Indian hurricane resulted in the death of one man here today while one house was unroofed and wires and trees were blown down by the 46-mile an hour wind.

Emory Riley, 50, was killed when struck by a falling tree. The roof of a newly constructed house was blown off by the force of the wind and several automobiles were damaged by broken tree limbs sailing through the air.

The wind is expected to continue tonight with renewed vigor. It will average about 45 miles an hour in Baltimore and may have a velocity of 70 miles or more an hour along the shore.

Gloom of Storm's Tragedy

MOTHER SACRIFICES SELF TO SAVE TOTS

Lighted by Hopeless Heroism

Miami, Fla., September 19.—(AP)—Out of the welter of stark tragedy left in a hurricane's wake came stories today of displays of Spartan courage and heroic self-sacrifice shot through with dramatic pathos.

Typical of the human struggle against almost insurmountable odds cast by the elements were two of many such tales.

One concerned a 12-year-old girl who saved her younger brother and sister, although badly hurt and in gravest peril herself. The other was that of a farmer who stood on the shoulders of a negro and with his head knocked a hole in the roof of a building where many had been trapped by rushing water and through it pulled 11 persons besides himself from almost certain drowning.

Mother Trapped.

Twelve-year-old Thelma Martin's mother, a sister and brother already had been killed when she found herself pinned down by an uprooted tree in the canal during the height of the storm at Belle Glade. With her at the time were Aazon, aged two, and Ernestine, 7. All, with others of the family, had been forced to flee into the gale when their home was demolished.

She managed to keep her head above water and support [illegible] charges on the roots of the uprooted tree in comparative safety. All night Sunday she kept them thus protected despite that she was incapable of moving the lower part of her body.

Rescuers found the three huddled together. Thelma's legs were badly hurt by the weight of the tree. Her arm was pierced by something, she does not know what, although doctors think it was a spike or nail driven through the air by the furious wind. Lack of immediate attention caused infection to set in. Long exposure induced a racking fever.

Yet at a local hospital today she smiled brightly at visitors and said: "Everything is all right."

Her father, Henry Martin, had found Thelma and Aaron and Ernestine in the hospital yesterday. Henry, Jr., 9, and Annie, 16, another brother and sister, were receiving care in the same place. The latter two also had been hurt in the hurricane and were unaware of Thelma's plight. [illegible] suffered cuts and other bruises.

The father got here yesterday after conducting a vain search for Mrs. Martin, who he believed had been washed away in the canal to her death when their home collapsed in the wind.

SMITH ROUTS HECKLERS.

The frankness of Governor Smith in meeting squarely, without deviation, soft peddling or side-stepping, any question or issue put to him as the democratic candidate for president was again emphasized in his Omaha address.

An attempt to heckle him by an advertisement signed by ten republican citizens, addressing a number of questions to him, was squarely met when the candidate concluded his prepared address. He met them with such brilliancy in repartee, and such a profound knowledge of issues, that the great audience that faced him fairly went wild with enthusiasm.

Without discussing this questionable method of republican citizens to attempt the embarrassment of the candidate of an opposing party who was a visitor and guest in their city, it is certain that the scheme proved a boomerang.

With his proverbial good humor the democratic candidate not only answered each question with his accustomed candor, but with such telling force that the people of the whole nation today are again impressed with Governor Smith's great ability, with the soundness of his views, with his fidelity to his party platform, and with his genius of leadership.

In his categorical answers to questions relating to the prohibition issue Governor Smith declared again, what everyone should know, that the president of the United States can do nothing as to changing the laws, fundamental or statutory. He has repeatedly said that he is opposed to a return of the saloon, and that his proposal is a revision of the laws so that the country may be restored to temperance and sobriety, and the orgy of bootlegging and corruption stopped.

Following is a paragraph from the press report of this incident of his Omaha address:

"In reply to a query: 'Do you believe that liquor is the great issue of this campaign?' the New York governor said with emphasis: 'I certainly do not,' and he disposed of the question, 'Do you believe the country will be more prosperous with liquor or without?' by declaring that 'nobody, no living person, no matter how well informed, no matter how far seeing, could make any answer to that question, because there has never been liquor out of this country.'

"This brought whoops of laughter and loud applause."

Thus is illustrated again the fact that Governor Smith does not straddle or equivocate, and in his campaign republican and "anti-Smith democrat" hecklers will serve the democratic party a good purpose if they will keep it up.

Governor Smith's prepared address was devoted to agriculture. He flayed the republican party for its fulsomeness in promises and its failures in performances, which is admitted in the platform utterances of the party. He showed a profound knowledge of the agricultural situation, and the proposed relief measures and was especially brilliant in pointing out the injustice to the farmer of the present discrimination by which he buys his supplies on a highly protected market and sells his production on an unprotected market—the principal reason for the present farm distress.

He amplified his party's platform, and spoke with that dynamic force and sincerity of purpose that carry conviction.

HIGH PRAISE FOR BOBBY.

The Brooklyn Eagle declares editorially that T. Phillips Perkins, the amateur golf champion of Great Britain, is "probably the best that country has produced since the war," but that the decisive contest at Brae Burn, in which Bobby Jones won his fourth amateur championship, was disappointing because Perkins' great skill failed him in the finals, and he fell, "just one more victim for the redoubtable genius from Atlanta."

Bobby declared before the decisive contest that Perkins was a real threat. That may have been a courteous gesture, but the Britain's semi-final encounter with Voigt emphasized his great ability, and heartened the gallery to believe it would see a genuine scrap at the end. But the skill that buried Voigt 6 to 4 deserted him at last.

He is an excellent player, however, and more experience may some day place him upon the coveted pedestal.

In the meantime, as conceded on both sides of the Atlantic, Bobby Jones was and is, and will be until he quits the game, the world's greatest golfer.

FLORIDA CITIES ESCAPE.

As distressing as was the result of the tropical hurricane that swept over the Palm Beach area, and a portion of the Florida midland, it is notable that the three great cities of that state, Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami, escaped without damages of any serious nature.

The storm struck the east coast north of Miami, and while that city experienced a blow of more than average velocity property losses were negligible.

The fact is, since the storm of 1926 Miami has fortified itself against high winds, low barometers and flood waters.

Following the example of Galveston, Miami not only rebuilt substantially on the scenes of wreckage but provided sea walls, and other dependable storm and flood-resisting equipments, so that there is slight danger again of any tropical disturbance doing damage to that city.

Tampa is not in the path of tropical storms, and that section is rarely damaged by high winds or high waters. It is primarily a commercial and industrial city, built out of brick and concrete and steel, and has no occasion to feel uneasy when storms move up from the tropics.

Jacksonville, situated twenty miles from the coast, on the beautiful St. John's river, and within a comparatively few miles of the Georgia line, is also out of the hurricane paths. It is also a steel and concrete city, and is well prepared to stand without serious damage any storm that may strike Florida, and especially the northern section.

In the early hours of the storm that has just caused so much havoc in the Palm Beach section some wild and extravagantly told news stories were sent out of Jacksonville regarding the apprehension of the people, and the effects of the blow then being experienced.

The facts are, with only a 48-mile wind, the only damage in that city was from a few shifting roofs, and awnings, and broken windows, and the destruction of a small fishing pier. The total losses are claimed to be within $10,000.

In all great catastrophes, like that of the storm's damage on the lower east coast where it struck with all of its fury, extravagant reports at first are usual but they are the result of excitement rather than of any intention to do injury to any place or people.

The death toll in the stricken area has been definitely fixed at 250 or more.

Sympathy is generous, but substantial help is also needed.

VETERAN LEGISLATORS RETURN.

In the general assembly of 1929 quite a number of veteran legislators who have served acceptably in the past but who have been out of the running for some time, will be found. Outstanding among them is R. Toombs DuBose, of Clarke county.

Despite strong opposition this able and popular citizen of Athens was elected by an overwhelming majority, and in his card of appreciation he declares that not a dollar was spent by him or any of his friends in the primary. He was chosen entirely through the loyalty of the people, who recognize his worth as a man, his unimpeachable character, and his fitness as a representative.

Toombs DuBose has been elected to the assembly seven times in the past, serving through two sessions in each term, until the passage of the biennial bill. During a large part of his service in the house he was chairman of the appropriation committee, and his service to the University was of unestimable value.

The 1929 assembly will be strong, with a large number of substantial business men in the personnel.

It has some of the state's most acute problems to solve, notably a revision of the highway laws so that a durably paved and connected network of roads may be secured at the earliest possible moment, consistent with wise economies.

It is heartening that a strong legislature will wrestle with these problems.

Sixteen motor cars, duly decorated, comprise the first caravan of "a Hoover whirlwind speaking campaign in the east." There's nothing like a whirlwind to raise the dust to becloud the isuses.

If this whispering campaign is not checked the United States will be rated in encyclopedias as is Holland: a low, lying country.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Painless Brand.

The French police are said to be studying a new scientific method of indelibly marking habitual criminals, like the ancient branding of a fleur de lys with a red-hot iron. It consists of injecting solidified paraffin under the skin to form visible and permanent lumps, the latter being of different shapes and in different places for different categories of lawbreakers, for example, lumps on the right shoulders for burglars, on the left shoulder for pickpockets and so on. French medical men say that the paraffin could be injected into the body in such a way that it could never be removed. The chief advantage of this method, apart from establishing a man as a criminal, is that it would be humane. The lump would scarcely be noticeable, and only the police would have the key to read its meaning. The old French method of branding a convicted man's shoulder, or a woman's breast, was ideal from the police viewpoint because it was indelible, and the authorities have always regretted that they had to give it up.

Storks Move Away.

The general assembly of the storks has begun in eastern France and before the middle of September their migration on to Africa from Alsace will begin. In Germany, particularly from the northeastern districts, many companies of storks have already made their departure. Storks of all nations meet in Asia Minor in late October and by December they are in Africa, at Lake Victoria Nyanza. It is reported from Alsace that the yearly alignment of storks on the roofs of the churches began last week. Trial flights are being made, so that the young and inexperienced storks may be able to keep up with their elders in the journey to Africa. There is a good deal of this regular instruction, which may be observed all through the end of August and the first days of September.

Pope Stays in Vatican.

At frequent intervals one reads that Pope Pius XI will shortly leave the Vatican, thus putting an end to that voluntary imprisonment which the pontiffs have observed ever since they lost temporal power in 1870. The latest form in which this sensational piece of news has been dressed is that his holiness suffers so severely from the intense heat and derives so little benefit from his daily walks and drives in the low-lying Vatican gardens, that his medical advisers have told him that "another summer passed in his present surroundings may cause serious injury." Two facts emerge from this almost periodical appearance of the "hardy annual" of Roman journalistic copy. One is that it can be traced either to foreign sources or to non-clerical news agencies. The Osservatore Romano, that venerable journal which has for many years been the official organ of the Vatican, and never issues any important statement connected with the pontiff without consulting him, and even submitting the text for his approval, holds aloof. It is remarkably silent about the pope's health, except when it denies unusually absurd rumors. One of the things that is too often forgotten is the fact that the Vatican can afford to wait. It has seen so many changes in Italy and the present regime is but a drop of water in its long river of time. To the Vatican, one might say, the Bible text is applicable which says: "A thousand years in Thy sight are but a watch in the night.".

Watch the New Englanders Hunting Substitutes for Their Textile Mills

Washington, September 20.—(Special.)—Both the mill owners and workers in the textile industry in New England are earnestly interested in devising ways and means to salvage as much of that industry as possible from the strong drawing power of the southern states.

They realize now that for a century past their practical monopoly of the cotton textile manufactures has been an economic solecism—unnatural, artificial and contrary to normal industrial logic. The new era of engineering efficiency, elimination of lost motion and wastage, and minimum production costs, has begun and is rapidly carrying on a readjustment of this particular industry that spells the loss to New England of the bulk of the cotton textile industry and its relocation in its natural environments in the cotton-raising areas of the south.

Atlanta Supplied the Impetus.

Fifty years ago one of the ablest industrial economists of his day, Edward Atkinson, of Boston, foresaw the inevitable operation of economic laws that would eventually produce the present era of cotton mill migrations from New England to the south. He graphically explained his vision in a memorable address in Atlanta, reported verbatim for The Constitution by the hand now writing this article.

Mr. Atkinson fully convinced Atlanta's big leaders of that day, 1880, that he was not "talking through his hat," but was stating things to come with the vision and logic of a prophet.

It was upon his suggestion that Captain Evan P. Howell, Captain Jim English, Sam Inman, Ben Crane, ex-Governor Joseph E. Brown, H. I. Kimball and scores more like them, organized the International Cotton exposition here in Atlanta, the first of its kind in the history of mankind. It was held in 1881, was featured by tremendous eclat, nationwide publicity and interest, and was the real inaugural of the movement of the cotton textile industry into the southeast.

* * * *

New England Not Down-Hearted.

Notwithstanding that the industrial leaders of New England realize that the mill movement southward cannot be stopped, they have recovered from their earlier surprise at its volume, and now refuse to be down-hearted about it.

With characteristic New England elasticity of spirit and ingenuity of resource, they are engaging in the work of replacing their lost textile industry with other lines of manufactures that will employ their capital and labor profitably.

The New England Council is the cooperation organization through which they are arousing community industrial promotion.

President John S. Lawrence, of the council, speaking at its quarterly meeting last Saturday, emphasized the urge upon every New England community to engage in the concerted effort to build up the industries of its area. He said that while the cotton textile industry is historically the one employed in the industrial development of new territories, yet all over the world other manufactures tend to replace the coarser textile products in highly industrialized areas.

* * * *

The East Will Keep Special Mills.

President Lawrence pointed out what southern cotton mill men concede, that a substantial part of the cotton manufacturing industry does logically belong to New England. This is especially true of the part devoted to unique products of beautiful design, of careful finishes, of semi-finished, fully finished or tailored garments, and the processes leading to their production. Climatic and consumption considerations will determine their habitats in New England.

It will probably surprise some of our southern readers to learn that textiles account for approximately only one-fifth of the value of goods manufactured in New Hampshire and Rhode Island, about one-tenth in Maine and Massachusetts, and a little more and a little less than one-twentieth of the total industrial outputs in Connecticut and Vermont.

Those are the extreme ratios of industrial loss by the textile trek to the south that the New Englanders are now determined to replace with other fabrications.

* * * *

Launching a Great Campaign.

These New England go-getters are to hold a big convention in Portland, Maine, November 15 and 16, to launch a great campaign to "sell" New England to herself and the nation at large. They will use newspapers, national magazines, trade publications, direct mail, outdoor, street car, radio and motion picture advertising, and branch offices for promotion work in many sections of the union.

The eminent and impressive success of the Atlanta advertising campaigns has been considered by the New Englanders and they are adopting our methods as the effective ones for their purpose.

And in this drive to attract profitable industries from uneconomic locations to more favorable ones for production and distribution, the New Englanders should not be given the whole field. Our Georgia go-getters should meet them and compete with them at all the crossroads of the nation!

Animals Develop Jaw-Power To Crack Bones Only Because Bones Are Hard

By Robert Quillen

I have written on this subject many times. I expect to keep on writing about it as long as I push a pen, for I think it contains the greatest lesson in the world—the most of hope for those who need it, a sure recipe for the success of those who are kicked and cuffed by fate.

The lesson, in its most simple terms, is this: Muscle is developed by exercise, not by loafing. It is petting that makes a hothouse plant delicate—fighting for existence that makes a weed hardly.

When the draft caught America's young manhood, it was discovered, much to everybody's surprise, that city boys were in better health than country boys.

It wasn't remarkable. The country boys had fresh air, sunshine, every advantage. The city boys had overcome handicaps. Johns Hopkins has discovered that a considerable percentage of city dwellers have in their lungs the scar tissue of a tuberculosis attack. Overcoming the attack gave them immunity.

Everybody knows that Theodore Roosevelt was an invalid boy. The handicap, whether he knew it or not, made him ashamed and envious—and shame and envy are the two greatest spurs known to men. Because he was an invalid, not in spite of it, he became a horseman and a hunter and an exponent of the strenuous life.

Paddock, who runs one hundred yards faster than any man ever ran it before and has a perfect body, was not born to be a champion athlete. He was a little weakling, sent out to run in the hope that running would make him as strong as other boys.

Bobby Jones, whose wonderful body and mind seem to stand any strain on the golf course without cracking, was a puny little thing as a boy—sent out on the links to make-believe at golf in the hope that the exercise and the open-air life would postpone the end a few years.

It's the handicap that makes the man. The genius and the man of exceptional qualities may survive and even attain to greatness if his way is made smooth. Oscar Underwood did, for example.

But nine times in ten the way to develop a world-beater is to make the going hard. Hard going kills off the weaklings, but it develops the men who boss the world.

Imagine Mussolini having been reared among perfumed cushions!

Pleads for Mountain Schools Hurt by Carnes' Defalcation

Editor Constitution: The results of the Carnes affair, which left the Baptist board of missions so short of funds, is one of the most deplorable things that has happened in Georgia in many years. Although I am a Methodist, I wish to add my appeal to all others which seek to rally to the aid of mission schools and educational programs which include such splendid work as has continuously blessed so many sections of the south, especially in our mountain areas, as a result of the work of the Baptist board. Here in the Georgia mountains the two schools that have accomplished so much good in the past, at Hiawassee and at Blairsville, will now suffer tremendously unless financial help is promptly given to replace the reduction made necessary by the Carnes affair. These two schools opened their doors recently for the largest enrollments of pupils that they have had in years. Work has begun here under most promising conditions, only to receive this unexpected blow and have their finances cut in half for the remainder of this school year. We do not know what plans may be devised for continuing the work of these two Baptist high schools after this year, but the seriousness of the situation at the present moment demands prompt action if these great Christian influences can be continued many more weeks. The next year situation can probably be met at a later time, provided the schools can continue to go now, but even a temporary hold up would leave less grounds for hope in the future. These are the only high schools in the counties of Towns and Union, so they are essential to the educational system of both counties.

Believing that many good people will contribute to the fund for replacement of losses sustained by the Baptist board, I take this occasion to urge that sufficient funds be directed especially for the relief of the schools at Hiawassee and Blairsville, for I feel sure that Methodists and Baptists alike in this section will do their best to help carry on, and I know that all denominations in the Georgia mountains will appreciate the help that comes from outside sources for these two worthy schools.

Chairman, Blairsville Public School Board.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

POPULAR TYPES OF TOE ITCH.

Like all Gaul, venomous snakes, arthritis and divers minor afflictions, toe itch comes in three varieties or forms, namely and to-wit, the simple itch associated with hyperidrosis (which is medicalese for excessive sweating); fungus dermatitis or ringworm infection of the skin of the feet prevailing in gymnasiums, swimming pools and other places where people go barefoot; and the dew itch, ground itch or toe itch caused by the invasion of the skin by the larvae of the hookworm, in sections of the south where the soil is polluted.

Simple toe itch is an annoying feature of only a few cases of excessive sweating of the feet. It is unquestionably relieved or prevented by going barefoot, whereas the other two forms of toe itch are contracted usually by going barefoot. I frequently urge the practice of going barefoot as a good thing for the development of the feet, for the general health of the individual and for the prevention of hyperidrosis or bromidrosis (malodorous sweating). Of course, we presume the client has enough sense to avoid punctures, skidding and the like. The main objects of this talk are to warn readers that there is some risk of contracting fungus or ringworm dermatitis by going barefoot in public gymnasiums or about swimming pools or other bath establishments, and to warn tourists about the danger of contracting hookworm by going barefoot in any region where the soil happens to be polluted by the primitive habits of people who harbor hookworms in the intestine.

In my judgment it demands the skill and expert knowledge of the physician to make a diagnosis of the kind of toe itch in nearly all cases. Obviously there is nothing to prohibit one with hyperidrosis from catching hookworm or fungus, and nothing to prohibit one with such toe itch from having hyperidrosis. So how are you going to tell what ails you? It is difficult enough for the doctor to make sure in many cases.

It may be highly unscientific and even wrong, but somehow I feel justified by the reports I have had from correspondents in saying that the standard formula known to physicians and pharmacists as "Whitfield's ointment" is a fairly good remedy for all three forms of toe itch, if you'd rather fool with your itch than consult your doctor. This formula is six parts of salicylic acid and 12 parts of benzoic acid in enough petrolatum (petroleum jelly) to make one hundred parts of ointment. Apply it to the affected surface of skin once daily for a week. Then rest off for a week or two, and if the trouble persist or recurs, another week of daily applications. In many cases it is advisable to reduce the strength of Whitfield's ointment half, by mixing with an equal quantity of plain petrolatum. In all cases it is better to apply the ointment at night, and not put on shoes or otherwise cover the feet until a few hours, at least, after such application.

Sermons to Live By

BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMPSEY.

Text: "Men ought always to pray." Luke 18:1.

An unknown writer gives the following striking and helpful thoughts on prayer:

"The earthly ministry of our Lord was begun in prayer (Luke 3:21), continued in prayer and ended in prayer (Luke 23:34).

"The heavenly ministry of our Lord was begun in prayer (John 14:16) and is now continued in prayer (Heb. 7:25).

"'Lord, teach us to pray.' Luke 11:1.

"Prayer was more important than rest, for 'in the morning a great while before day He rose up and went out into a desert place and there prayed.' (Mark 1:35.)

"Prayer was more important than sleep, for 'He went out into the mountain to pray and He continued all night in prayer to God.' (Luke 6:12.)

"Prayer was more important in securing workers than either money or machinery, for He said, 'Pray ye the Lord of the harvest that He send forth laborers into His harvest.' (Matt. 9:38.)

"Prayer is as important as His other ministries, for 'He ever liveth to make intercession for us.' (Heb. 7:25)."

COOLIDGE NAMES BURGESS GOVERNOR OF CANAL ZONE

Washington, September 19.—(AP)—Colonel Harry Burgess, engineer of maintenance of the Panama Canal Zone, was appointed governor of the Panama Canal Zone today by President Coolidge. He succeeds General M. L. Walker, who has resigned.

ROBINSON SCORES POLITICAL PULPITS

visit here, the nominee proceeded to Owensboro, Ky., where he will speak tonight.

Regrets Delay.

Senator Robinson expressed keen regret that he was detained by Florida storms and was not able to arrive in Atlanta to address a meeting Tuesday night, but promised to come back during the campaign and make a speech here.

Although few persons knew that Senator Robinson would pass through Atlanta Wednesday afternoon there was a representative crowd of democrats present to greet him, headed by the members of the special reception committee, of which Judge John S. Candler is chairman, and the special arrangements committee, headed by Arthur L. Brooke. Major John S. Cohen, democratic national committeeman, and Mrs. Edgar Alexander, democratic national committee woman, were also present to greet the senator and Mrs. Robinson.

Smith Is Praised.

Senator Robinson praised the character of Governor Al Smith and denounced the "slanderous campaign" that has been waged against him by republicans.

"There have been efforts made to discredit Governor Smith but we must remember that the mean things they say about him are nothing compared to the mean things they said about Andrew Jackson." Senator Robinson said: "We must remember that Abraham Lincoln was the victim of calumny and our own democratic Woodrow Wilson, while he was lying on a bed sick, was the victim of slanderous rumors."

"Governor Al Smith has been under the searchlight of public scrutiny for eight years and has been hounded by spies all through his political career." Senator Robinson continued. "But in public life and in his own private home life he is far superior in character than these hirelings who are trying to traduce him."

Senator Robinson said the republicans "feel like they have a patent on prosperity." He declared their "prosperity claims" are unfounded.

"The country is not prosperous," he said. "There have been 20 times more bank failures in 1927 than there were in any one year of the administration of Woodrow Wilson. There is agricultural depression and mining depression and these coupled with unemployment situation stamp the republican prosperity claim as bogus."

Senator Robinson complimented the state on possessing two such able senators as Senators William J. Harris and Walter F. George. He said both were doing able service in the present campaign. He also complimented the state on the good health of former United States Senator Hoke Smith, who stood on the platform by the vice presidential nominee.

"I find that the democrats are organizing in Georgia and I am certain that they are going to roll up a big victory in November," he concluded.

SEN. ROBINSON 22 HOURS LATE. BY WALTER CHAMBLIN, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Robinson Special Car En Route to Owensboro, Ky., September 19.—(AP) Senator Robinson, the democratic vice presidential nominee, was traveling through Georgia today 22 hours late because of the Florida storm. He had to cancel his engagement at Bowling Green, Ky., tonight because of this and his train was headed toward Owensboro, Ky., where he is scheduled to speak tomorrow night.

The route through Georgia was the same he had intended to take yesterday, with rear platform speeches at Albany, Americus, Macon and Tifton, in spite of the 22 hours' delay, however, there were crowds at the stations.

Mr. Robinson assailed the republican administration, declaring he could not understand why any democrat would abandon the party to "link arms with Fall, Daugherty, Forbes and Miller, of the alien property custodian's office."

Mrs. Oscar Kinney, a member of the committee appointed by the Houston convention to notify Mr. Robinson of his selection as vice presidential nominee, boarded the train at Macon. After a conference with the senator she said she had advised him that conditions were improving in the state.

"There are a great many men and women here," she declared, "who are really conscientiously opposed to prohibition modification and are allowing that to blind them to all other issues. Then there is another group opposed to Governor Smith because of his religion and who are using prohibition as a camouflage.

"I don't think there is any doubt that Georgia will go democratic, although when I first came back from Houston I thought there might be some doubt about it. The state now, however, is safe and will be found again in the democratic column."

T. M. Hankins, of Augusta, Ga., who also joined the senator's party at Macon, said the "big issue here is religion, although many people say it is prohibition." He predicted the democrats would win the state as usual.

TIFTON TURNS OUT TO GREET ROBINSON.

Tifton, Ga., September 19.—(AP)—Senator Joe T. Robinson, the democratic vice presidential nominee, was greeted by several hundred persons on the rear platform of his train during a brief stop here today on his trip from Florida.

Declaring that every state he has visited so far is certain to go democratic in the November election, he praised Governor Smith, the presidential nominee and characterized as "cowardly, the whispering campaign disseminated by scavenger politicians."

NORTH FLORIDA "SAFE," ROBINSON DECLARES.

Waycross, Ga., September 19.—(Special).—Senator Joe T. Robinson, democratic nominee for the vice presidency, passed through Waycross at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

In regard to the political situation the senator said: "North Florida is safely democratic and the democratic majority is growing daily. The number who will vote against the democratic ticket is without any possible doubt a minority in this section of the state.

"In south Florida the political situation was not discussed and I am not in position to make any comment. My attention was given wholly to an effort to do what I could to assist in relieving the sufferings resultant upon the storm. I was glad to be able with my private cars and equipment to feed more than 100 who had been without food for many, many hours.

"I have no fears for the vote in the south. Wherever I have talked with the men and women of the south I find the majority voting the democratic ticket. The fact that everywhere I have spoken the auditorium has been unable to hold the large crowd is evidence of the loyalty of the south to the democratic party and of its support of democratic principles."

NOMINEE APPLAUDED BY FORT VALLEY CROWD.

Fort Valley, September 19.—(Special).—Senator Robinson received an ovation from 300, including many women, who quickly gathered at the station when his train stopped here a few minutes at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. The nominee's platform speech was loudly applauded and enthusiasm ran high.

Greatest Press Company Regrets Turner's Death

W. M. Turner, foreman of the press room of The Constitution, Wednesday received a letter of condolence over the recent death of his son, John Sparks Turner, from R. Hoe and company, Inc., the greatest manufacturers of presses in the world.

The letter, which is signed by A. J. Gallien, vice president, expresses the regret of the company, and assures Mr. Turner of the sincere sympathy of all officials of the organization.

John Sparks Turner had been connected with The Constitution for more than 25 years, starting his service as a boy of ten years of age carrying papers from the press. For approximately ten years he had acted as assistant foreman to his father, who has been connected with The Constitution for more than fifty years, serving as foreman for 33 years. John Turner, who was a member of Yaarab Temple of the Shrine, died after a short illness at his residence, 808 Argonne avenue, on August 10. He was 35 years old.

The letter of sympathy from the Hoe firm follows:

"My dear Mr. Turner—We have just learned with great regret that you have lost your son, John, and hasten to assure you of our sincere sympathy. We know how much you will miss him in more ways than one as he was of valuable help to you in your arduous duties.

"It is a great pity to see such a fine young man taken off in the prime of life, but we trust you will be given strength to bear up under your severe loss.

"With best regards, I am,
"Sincerely yours"
A. J. Gallien,
Vice President.

'MURDER FARM' PAIR CAUGHT IN CANADA

on the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, boarded a train there and proceeded together as far as Sioamous. At this point it is believed young Northcott proceeded south on the branch line to Okanagan, landing, while his mother continued along the main line to Calgary on the Vancouver-Toronto express, which reached the Albertan city at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

WOMAN IDENTIFIED.

Calgary, Alta., September 19.—(AP) Police tonight announced that a woman arrested in Calgary today had been positively identified as Mrs. Louisa Northcott, wanted by Riverside county, Calif., authorities in connection with the "murder farm" crimes.

MORE EVIDENCE FOUND ON FARM.

Los Angeles, September 19.—(AP)—Finding of what was declared to be "indisputable evidence" that two boys who disappeared from Pomona, Calif., last spring had been on the Northcott "murder farm" near Riverside was reported today by deputy sheriffs.

The Pomona boys, Nelson Winslow, 12, and his brother, Louis, 10, previously had been named by Sheldon Clark, 15, as two of the four youths brought to the farm by Gordon Stuart Northcott, 20, and mistreated and slain.

In a henroop on the farm officers today found a library book from which a page had been torn similar to one on which one of the Winslow boys wrote a letter to his mother shortly after his disappearance. The letter said the boys had run away from home and were going to Mexico.

Belief was expressed by officers that Northcott forced the boy to write the letter before putting him to death.

With the direct evidence linking Northcott with the disappearance of the Winslow boys and the finding of bones on the farm identified by experts as those of human beings the murder case against Northcott and his mother, Mrs. Louisa Northcott, named as an accomplice, was greatly strengthened in the opinion of authorities.

With almost every hour's development sending officers into new territory in the "murder farm" investigation, detectives returned today to a shack in Mint canyon, northwest of here, to which Clark led them yesterday. Gordon Northcott once had rented the cabin. A pair of boys' shoes, partly burned, was found near the shack.

Cyrus G. Northcott, father of the accused youth, told officers that he knew of no murders on the Riverside farm, but that if there had been his son "might have buried them in the Santa Ana river bed."

A squad of officers from the pick and shovel division which has been digging up the chicken ranch foot by foot, was detailed to search along the isolated stretches of the little stream.

Meanwhile three army airplanes circled over the marsh beds of the Santa Ana river in search of an automobile believed to have been abandoned by young Northcott.

flares and a band struck up "The Side Walks of New York."

A big crowd was out to greet Governor Smith at Belleville, the first train stop in Kansas, and another was awaiting again at Manhattan, the last scheduled stop before Topeka.

At Clay Center a band pepped up at the station, and there was considerable handshaking, but no speeches. It was republican territory and the crowds were not so noisy or demonstrative as in Lincoln and Omaha.

"Boost Kansas."

The democratic nominee had not been in the state long before a big artificial sun flower with "Boost Kansas," on the center was in his buttonhole. At Clay Center a man perched on a box car yelled "give us a speech, Mr. Smith," and the governor looked around apparently surprised that he had not been called "Al," as nearly everyone else along the route has done.

"On the ride from Omaha the presidential nominee was accompanied by Dudley Doolittle, national committeeman from Kansas, who told him that his indorsement of the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill in his last night's speech had made Kansas, normally heavily republican, a "doubtful state."

"The farmers want the McNary-Haugen bill." Doolittle declared. He left the nominee's special at Topeka to hurry to Kansas City, Kas., to hear Senator Jim Reed, of Missouri, open the democratic state campaign there tonight.

McMULLEN FAVORS SMITH'S STAND.

Lincoln, Nebr., September 19.—(AP) Governor Adam McMullen, in a statement this afternoon, commented upon the address of Governor Alfred E. Smith at Omaha last night.

The two governors also exchanged personal greetings today, the democratic presidential candidate's train making a stop long enough to afford a visit. Governor McMullen's statement:

Favors Farm Bill.

"From what I gathered listening to Governor Smith's speech he gave an unequivocal indorsement of the McNary-Haugen bill. It is quite evident that the governor has been giving further study to the agricultural question since he delivered his speech of acceptance.

"He seems to have a better understanding of the problem and is more in accord with the legislation the farmers have been seeking than he was some time ago.

"However, he still refers to the agricultural plank of the democratic platform as a theory to be followed, the device putting the theory into practice to be decided upon later. The fact is, the device itself is set out in that plank and plainly embodies the equalization fee feature.

Way to Handle Supplies.

"There is only one way to handle crop surpluses, namely, either by assessing the cost the crops concerned of else through the use of government funds in the nature of a subsidy. The equalization fee method applies to the former. Whether it is called a fee or a charge or a debate or an excise tax does not matter. They all involve the same principle.

"It is possible that before Governor Smith finishes his western tour he will make mention of the equalization fee system and explain his attitude toward it with the same frankness with which he treated the McNary-Haugen bill as a whole."

A great crowd turned out and spread around the train sometime before it came to a stop. Along the route to the capitol the streets were jammed and the climax to the welcome came on the steps of the capitol, where great difficulty was experienced in getting through to Governor McMullen's chambers.

Smith Sees Capitol.

The Nebraska governor escorted Governor Smith through the building, and in the supreme court business was suspended as the party entered the chamber. Chief Justice Goss thanked Governor McMullen for bringing the nominee to see the court.

From the supreme court room the party was taken to the completed legislative chambers thence through the rotunda where trophies of the civil and Spanish-American wars were viewed and then out of the building. On the front steps Governor Smith and Governor McMullen posed for pictures together, after which the presidential nominee and his party were conveyed back to the station.

SMITH ANSWERS EIGHT QUESTIONS

Omaha, Neb., September 19.—(AP)—In winding up his address in Omaha last night, Governor Smith answered eight questions dealing with prohibition, farm relief and the tariff, which he had been asked in a full-page advertisement carried in the newspapers and signed by ten Nebraskans. They styled themselves "citizens of both parties," but Arthur Mullen, democratic national committeeman from Nebraska, said all were republicans. Their names are A. W. Jefferis, Wayland Magee, Harry E. Sackett, Norris Brown, Ernest M. Pollard, Clarence a Davis, Fred Wead, Charles E. Sandall, E. O. Brown and L. R. Slonecker.

The text of the questions as read and the governor's replies follow:

Q.—"What specific federal legislation do you propose for farm relief?"

A.—"If these gentlemen had read my speech of acceptance there would be no occasion for that question. I made that clear in Omaha tonight, that the legislation working out the principle of lifting the surplus is to be handed to a commission to be worked out during the winter."

Liquor Question.

Q.—"Do you believe the country will be more prosperous with liquor or without. Why?"

A.—"Well I assume that this is an intelligent group of men that have an understanding of what is going on around the country. Nobody, no living person, no matter how wise no matter how well informed, no matter how farseeing could make any answer to that question, because there has never been liquor out of this country."

Q—"Do you believe that liquor is the great issue in this campaign?"

A.—"I certainly do not."

Q.—"How can you square your support of democratic candidates for congress pledged against liquor with what you say you will do for liquer?"

A.—"Why, I don't know what idea these men must have of the debates, the platform and the speeches of acceptance. If they paid the slightest attention to anyone they could not ask that kind of a question, because there is nothing that the president can do about liquor. All he can do is recommend to the congress, and he can assume the leadership of the American people in an effort to show them that his recommendation is right. That is what I propose to do, and let the American people make the decision as they will have to do."

Up to the Individual.

Q.—"How can I support a dry democrat candidate for congress?"

A.—"That question came up in the national convention, and the national convention deliberately, through the report of the committee on credentials, left every democrat in the United States free to express his own individual opinion of what he thought on that subject."

"Now, you have an admirable, scholarly gentleman running for United States senator here, Mr. Metcalfe. I understand that Nebraska is dry, but I would never ask Mr. Metcalfe to turn his back on the people of his state until such time as he can come out here and convince them that they are not tackling the problem the right way."

Q.—"How will your proposal for the sale of liquor in a few states meet your issue of personal liberty in the other states?"

A.—"The prevention of the sale of liquor is in the exercise of police power, and I have clearly showed that if a majority of the people of a given state voted for the exercise of that police power in that direction they should get it to the limit.

"On the other hand, following the well-defined Jeffersonian principle of state's rights, the state that does not want the exercise of that police power ought to be in a position, through a majority of the people to say so.

Waterway Issue.

Q.—"Are you still personally opposed to the St. Lawrence waterway?"

A.—"Why, if the gentlemen had just looked at my speech of acceptance, they would have seen that I made as clear a declaration on that as any man could make. I frankly said to the American people that while I was the governor of the state of New York, I favored the all-American route, because it went through that state, but inasmuch as the figures affecting the St. Lawrence canal, as well as the all-American route, are disputed by some eminent engineers, I am willing to leave it to congress, after a study of the matter."

"Now No. 7 is something of a tricky question. It says:

"'You have stated that the Underwood tariff law fulfills the pledge of this year's democratic platform.'

"My answer to these distinguished gentlemen is that I never said that and I challenge them to find it in any public paper of mine."

The last one, No. 8, is this:

"'Are you in favor of higher food prices in the city, or lower food prices on the farm?'

"My answer to that is that the farmer can get the full benefit of the value of his crop without increasing the price in the city."

MRS. COBB QUITS W. C. T. U. POSITION

John R. Slater, chairman of the democratic national campaign in Georgia, Wednesday announced that Mrs. Betty R. Cobb, of Carrollton, legal adviser of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Georgia, had resigned position with the organization in a letter to Mrs. Marvin Williams, president.

The announcement said she wrote that she would have registered a protest had she attended a meeting of the board at which decision was reached to support the presidential candidacy of Herbert Hoover.

It was added that Mrs. Cobb now has volunteered her services to the democratic campaign organization of the state, and that she is actively engaged in work of the women's division.

Her letter to Mrs. Williams stated:

"Permit me to tender to you my resignation as legal adviser to the W. C. T. U. of Georgia.

"I have greatly enjoyed my connection with this band of earnest Christian women, but finding myself at such variance with the present political policy of the organization I feel that the only honest thing for me to do is to resign.

"My position as legal adviser gave me, as I understood, a vote on the executive board. I was not called to the meeting of this board when the vote was taken to bolt the democratic party and support Mr. Hoover. Had I been present I would have been forced to have differed with you, and I desire now to register my protest.

"I do not agree with Mr. Smith in his stand on the eighteenth amendment, but I am at greater variance on other issues with Mr. Hoover and the party whose tool he will be. And realizing that we are not only voting a man into office but a party into power, I am forced to stand by the party in which I honestly believe.

"My admiration is challenged by the work that has been done in the past by the W. C. T. U., and had it seen fit to have continued to fight for sobriety and righteousness within our own party I would have been glad to have continued to serve it; but I cannot even 'hold the coat' of the pharisaical republicans and the religious bigots of America as they stone to death the party of my fathers."

RED MEN TO ADOPT BIG CLASS SATURDAY

A regional meeting of the Improved Order of Red Men will be held Saturday night at the Wigwam, 199 Central avenue, S. W., according to an announcement Wednesday by Newman Laser. The meeting is called for the purpose of holding a big class adoption in honor of the Great Sachem of Georgia, John C. Cook, in whose honor the class is named.

Tribes from all over the state will have a total of 100 palefaces present for the purpose of receiving the degrees of the order, which will be conferred in full dramatic form by three of the best degree staffs in the state.

The activities will start at 5 o'clock, with a meeting of the executive committee. At 6 o'clock a buffet luncheon will be served by the committee in charge of arrangements. At 6:30 o'clock checking of palefaces for the degrees will take place. It is requested that all candidates expecting to take the degrees present themselves promptly at this time.

Comanche Tribe No. 6 will have charge of the meeting and will open the exercises at 6:30 o'clock. At 7 o'clock the class adoption will take place when the adoption degree of the order will be conferred by Powhattan Tribe No. 8 degree staff under direction of J. H. Brown, director of the staff. At 8 o'clock the warrior's degree will be conferred by Appalacha Tribe No. 31 degree staff under direction of J. B. Davenport, director of the staff. At 9 o'clock the chief's degree will be conferred by the degree staff of Natahalie Tribe No. 98, under the direction of G. E. Hicks, director of the staff. Upon completion of the degree work the meeting will be given over to addresses by the great chiefs and others.

State Fiddlers To Seek Crown Of John Carson

Fiddlin' John Carson, champion fiddler of Georgia and proud wearer of the official gold medal for 1927, will defend his title at the fifteenth annual convention of the Georgia Old Time Fiddlers' association, it was announced Wednesday by Virgil W. Shepard, secretary of the association.

The convention will be held at the auditorium on Friday and Saturday nights, September 28 and 29, and Mr. Shepard announces that between 50 and 75 fiddlers and banjoists will compete for the championship title.

Fiddlin' John Carson is perhaps the most widely known "country fiddler" in the United States, due largely to the phonograph records he has made for one of the large companies, which have been given national distribution. The fame these records brought him resulted in his being given engagements in many states, and he has carried his "home made" Georgia songs all over the country.

Mr. Carson is only one of a group of "record artists" who will furnish entertainment for the lovers of fiddle music and homely song at this year's convention. Mr. Shepard says that virtually every widely known fiddler in Georgia is among the entries for the approaching contest.

GOLF COURSE BATTLE TO BE AIRED TONIGHT

Another airing of the controversy as to whether the John A. White park should have an 18 or a 9-hole golf course is slated for 7:30 o'clock tonight at the English Avenue school. The meeting has been called by the Fifth Ward Civic league.

Trammell Scott, of the Municipal Golfers' association, will contend that the tract should be devoted towards development of the 18-hole course, while L. L. Wallis, superintendent of parks and playgrounds; John A. White, councilman from the fourth ward and chairman of the parks committee of city council, and other members of the parks committee will hold that only a nine-hole course should be constructed and that the remaining space should be devoted to a playground.

CITY CLUB TO HEAR DR. W. A. SHELTON

Dr. W. A. Shelton will be principal speaker today before the City club, which meets for its weekly luncheon at the Nell-Rose tearoom, it was announced Wednesday by the secretary.

The Literary Digest is Now Polling the Nation and Will Tell You Before Election

WHO WILL BE PRESIDENT

Secret Ballots Are Being Mailed Individually to More Than

NINETEEN MILLION VOTERS

The Returns, from All the 48 States, Recorded from Week to Week in The Literary Digest, Will AGAIN Show, as They Did Four Years Ago, with Almost Unerring Accuracy, Weeks Before Election, Who Will Be the VICTOR. Also

How The South Will Vote - The Farm States - The Industrial East - The Pacific Coast

THE LITERARY DIGEST, at its own expense, wholly independent of any party, organization, persons, or policies, and with the absolute impartiality which is now universally recognized as its unvarying policy, is mailing individual Secret Ballots to Nineteen Million Six Hundred Thousand men and women voters of all classes and occupations throughout the United States—more than two-thirds the total Presidential vote of 29,091,417, cast in the last national election, in 1924.

Every ballot is mailed in an envelope, personally addressed, and delivered through the United States Post-Office directly to the voter addressed. Return postage on the ballot is prepaid, and the voter has only to place a X before the printed name of whichever one of the Presidential Candidates he wishes to vote for, with no mark to identify the voter, and then drop this Secret Ballot in the nearest letter-box or post-office. Thus every vote cast is the absolutely free, uninfluenced, secret choice of the voter, unknown to anyone but the voter himself or herself.

How Will GEORGIA VOTE?

Secret Ballots are Being Sent to 210,397 Citizens in Georgia and the Returns will be Tabulated from week to week

The 19,600,000 Ballots are mailed to ALL CLASSES OF VOTERS in all States and all communities in the Nation. They include business men, railroad conductors, engineers, firemen, trainmen, bankers, maufacturers, clerks, carpenters, plasterers, plumbers, contractors, painters, mechanics, builders, coal miners, printers, superintendents, steel-workers, policemen, letter-carriers, workers in every trade and branch of industry, both union and non-union, professional men and women of all classes, including lawyers, doctors, clergymen, authors, actors, newspapermen, dentists, teachers, architects, musicians, housekeepers, etc., in short, all the classes of men and women who make up the voting population of the Nation.

THE LITERARY DIGEST'S great National Polls, because of their "almost frightful accuracy," have come to be one of the most important features of the country's political life, and the results of this greatest of all such Polls will be awaited with intense interest by millions of citizens, including all political leaders, and the candidates themselves.

Read the First Significant Returns in This Week's "Digest"

AT NEWS-STANDS 10 Cents OUT TO-DAY AT NEWS-STANDS 10 Cents

Beginning this week, SEPTEMBER 22d, the returns from this great National Poll will be recorded, summarized and analyzed, State by State, through successive numbers of THE LITERARY DIGEST up to Election Day. After that, full reports and comparisons of the official vote will be made. Digest readers, of course, will get these reports first and in the most complete details.

At the same time, and all through the year, THE LITERARY DIGEST will be gathering carefully and reporting all the facts and opinions on all sides bearing upon the great problems and issues which are being discussed and which must be settled by the people in the election and acted upon by Congress in the months to come. THE LITERARY DIGEST is wonderfully equipped for this service by a system built up at great expense through many years of careful work, and reaching into thousands of newspaper and periodical offices in all parts of the world. The reader can depend upon it with absolute certainty to reveal, from week to week, free from all prejudice and partizanship, the real state of the Nation's mind, the real facts affecting all issues, and the progress of all the great problems of the world toward settlement.

THE NIGHTMARE

By GERALD MYGATT

SYNOPSIS.

Patricia Shane is being entertained in one of New York's night clubs by Fanning Eddgar. She is annoyed by the insulting stare of a hawk-nosed man on the opposite side of the room. In avoiding the stranger's eyes her glance rests upon a good looking young chap seated near the hawklike creature.

At the table with the Hawk are a blonde, coarse looking woman and a slight young fellow who appears to be drunk. The three are discussing Patricia. A moment or two later the head waiter calls young Eddgar away to meet a friend.

INSTALLMENT IV.

THE HAWK MAKES A MISTAKE.

Patricia looked down at her rather lovely slim white hands, wondering idly whether typing actually made them slimmer or heavier and at length deciding with comforting secret satisfaction that typing didn't make any difference at all. Typing did make the forearms better though, somehow tightening the wrist muscles and improving the taper up toward the elbow. That is, some of the girls said so.

She thought about this casually for a moment and then her thoughts drifted vacantly, as drifting thoughts will—from her hands to nothing much, from nothing much to the queer half of human profile of Fanning's napkin as it lay there tossed on the tablecloth, from the napkin to nothing much once more, and from nothing much to a blur of that vague egocentric sort of dreaming in which the mind indulges when it ought to be resting and doing nothing.

Young Eddgar must have gone a full two minutes before Patricia consented to let her gaze trail negligently toward the corner where sat the young man of the straight back, the bronzed skin and the sunny crinkling smile. Naturally, she didn't really look at him; that is, not directly. She had to look somewhere, and if it so happened that she looked near him or past him or perhaps just brushed him with her eyes—well, certainly there was nothing unmaidenly in that.

"Now, why should I be so darned self-conscious all of a sudden about looking at a boy?" Patricia asked herself this question with a tweak of annoyance, reddening a little as she did so. "I've looked at thousands of 'em," she informed herself stoutly. "Yes, and I've flirted, too." For a moment she made herself feel quite proud that she had flirted; she even managed to smile with a certain zest at 1, r best recollection of the flirting process, which in Patricia's mind brought back a picture of a half dozen girls at one of the tables in the Spearhead pharmacy exchanging smiles with those rare spirits of the Norfolk County Military academy who had dared break bounds and steal in to savor the Saturday afternoon delights of the county's somewhat rural metropolis. Of course, you met them all at the Thanksgiving hop anyway, but still it was flirting to smile at them. Ask any local church woman if it wasn't! And even once or twice since she had been working in New York—well, Patricia was a girl and entirely human.

It was upsetting therefore to find herself so extremely conscious of the good looking boy in the corner, till she remembered with sudden relief that the only real reason she had noticed them at all was because of the obvious comparison between his wholesome, almost radiant masculinity and Fanning Eddgar's less convincing imitation of the same thing. But just as she had this fact catalogued and filed away she upset the whole apple cart of her own reasoning by making a little face and saying to herself, "He hasn't looked at me once—not once." And it was just about then that Patricia caught her breath—or it seemed like catching her breath—because the truth abruptly occurred to her, and the truth was that he was a peach, and she wanted just terribly to have him look at her, and she knew she would never see him again, and it was just too bad, because . . . . because. . . .

She smiled a twisted smile and wished she was in a movie—not sitting in a movie theater but in the picture itself, in the story itself. "In the movies," thought Patricia bitterly, "in the movies and in stories it always comes out right. He'd be watching me all the time, and all the time he'd be thinking how beautiful I was or something, and then I'd faint or something—Oh, shucks! Fat chance. Oh, well," and she sighed a little sheepishly, "Fanning will be back."

She was vacantly studying her hands again when a shadow fell upon the table less a shadow, perhaps, than an aura. Patrician smiled automatically and looked up to ask Fanning what had kept him so long and who was it and what had he wanted anyway. Fanning's name was actually upon her lips. She started to say, "Well, Fanning," and then she stopped very suddenly and didn't say anything.

Because the man standing over her, smiling and bowing and rubbing his hands together, one against the other, was nobody else but the hawk-nosed, black-browed man from across the room.

Patricia's eyes photographed him instantaneously and for a perceptible space of seconds her retinas and brain lobes were occupied with developing and printing the picture. A big man he was; bigger than she had dreamed as big boned as her own father, who was an inch or so over six feet. Evening clothes glossy but mussy. Two diamonds or imitation diamonds in his shirt front; they glittered. His eyes glittered, too. Black eyes. Black eyes that seemed to bulge out, although they really didn't bulge. Maybe the lids opened wider than most people's. Heavy eyebrows, very black. Hair thick and black and dark and rather nondescript. The mouth and chin, oddly enough, didn't seem to photograph at all, though Patricia's memory print recorded a dark mustache. But the nose, the nose photographed itself indelibly. It was a long nose and narrow, with two distinct hooks in the line of the bridge. It was the second hook, down near the narrow tip, that gave the whole face its hawk-like appearance. There was something about the man that made Patricia's skin go a little creepy.

Now she was staring at him blankly.

"I beg your pardon," the man remarked in a suavely modulated voice, "but aren't you here with Mr.—er—Eddgar?"

"I think," said Patricia icily, "I think you have made a mistake." She, too, kept her voice in hand.

Said the man with a peculiar smile, "You have a charming speaking voice. Miss—er—Miss—well, what does it matter? We were speaking at our table of your appearance—I believe this is your first time here, isn't it?—and my companion, Mademoiselle De Suisse, expressed herself as being anxious to meet you. You see—"

Patricia said, "Go away, please."

The man smiled down at her. "O, why," thought the girl agonizingly. "O, why doesn't Fanning come back?" Still the man smiled, again measuring her with his erstwhile calculating, appraising leer. Without actually moving he seemed to move closer. Perhaps his eyes moved closer.

He said, "But your friend, Mr. Eddgar seems to have left you alone."

"Please, you leave me alone, too," said Patricia. She was not talking the way they do in books or on the stage. She was talking, she knew, like a boob. But somehow the words wouldn't come the way she wanted them to. As a matter of fact her thoughts wouldn't come the way she wanted them to. It was as if she was paralyzed, incapable of thought, incapable of coherent speech. Oddly she remembered the night when that boy from Kentucky had taken too much to drink and then boasted of his capacity and then tightened the strings of a ukelele until the neck of the ukelele broke. Crack, it went, and broke. Now, all at once, she knew how that uke must have felt.

Patricia rubbed one of her hands across her forehead, and made the disconcerting discovery that she was standing up, leaning back against the wall, pulling as far away from the leering hawk-nosed man as she possibly could. She thought: "I must sit down. I must be sensible. I must do something."

It was then that she became aware of another voice. The voice was speaking to her, asking her a question. It came from a person, a man person, who was standing against the other one's elbow.

"Is this man bothering you any?" asked the voice. It was a deep, easy, drawly voice and Patricia's knees bent weakly but comfortably and she sat down. It was good to sit down.

She said: "No, he isn't. I mean he was but he isn't any more. I mean—you see—"

She heard the drawly voice harden and it spoke again, though very quietly. It said, "Trot, you," to the hawk-nosed man; just those two words and nothing more. But for some reason the hawk-nosed man disappeared. Then the owner of the drawly voice sat down in Fanning's chair across the little table from Patricia and the boy of the straight back and the bronzed skin smiled the sunniest, crinkliest smile he had smiled that evening and spoke again.

"The Lord sure sent that polecat straight from heaven," he said. Now he laughed. "Say," he added rather huskily, "all evenin' long I've been studying and studying how I was ever going to make your acquaintance. It had me stumped. I was gettin' real upset, too, because you wouldn't even look my way."

Patricia stared at him and almost gasped.

"Do you mind if I sit here till your friend comes back?" he went on. "It suits me to death and maybe it's better for you. You know, if I was to get up and walk away now—"

"O, please stay," Patricia whispered.

"My name's Kirklin," said the boy. "Jimmy Kirklin. Mother used to call me James, but nobody else ever did, except maybe dad a couple of times when he was real mad. And just nobody ever misters me except the Mex track hands, and I want to forget them for a while. What I'm driving at is—I mean—" He broke off, flushing deeply. Then he burst out with: "Say, honest and true you don't mind my sittin' here?"

PLANS COMPLETED FOR NEW BUILDING

Impetus to erection of a large office building at the corner of Peachtree and James streets, opposite the Candler building, as originally undertaken by Rhodes-Haverty interests more than six months ago, was given with announcement Wednesday of completion of revised plans. The structure is to be one of the tallest in the south, rising 21 stories above the basement, and has been designed for beauty as well as utility.

Principal alterations contained in revised plans announced by J. J. Haverty, vice president of the Rhodes-Haverty Investment company, include addition of four stories to the proposed edifice and elimination of the setback and tower originally planned, by bringing all of the stories out to the same vertical line. The new building will contain approximately 85,000 square feet of floor space, which was the amount announced in earlier plans, and it will be finished in granite and terra cotta. With exception of abandoning set-backs of the upper stories, there will be few changes in structural appearance of the building, the revisions disclosed.

A total investment of $1,600,000 will be represented in the new Peachtree street property undertaking, Mr. Haverty stated. More than half of this will go for construction of the office building. The site, which is included in the investment estimate, has been owned by the Rhodes-Haverty Investment company for some time. It consists of a frontage of 82 feet on Peachtree and 80 feet on Forsyth, extending the full block on James street for 95 feet.

While letting of the building contract is not expected to be accomplished until the middle of next week, it is planned to start actual work on th structure by October 15. All contractors' bids are now under consideration by the owners and the architects, Pringle & Smith. Tearing down of old one-story structures on the future office building site probably will be begun not later than October 1, Mr. Haverty said.

New Way Found To Feed Blood Mineral Iron

A Scientific Feat Heralded as Greatest Benefit in Years to Iron - Starved, Devitalized Systems, Jaded Appetites and Bad Complexions.

One of the problems confronting the medical fraternity for centuries has been that of ways and means of inducing iron into the human system.

So, the medical profession, as well as the laity, welcome the good news that now a way has been found to give the human system its necessary iron, through the stomach, with a "nature" preparation known as "Mineraltone," which comes right out of the heart of the mountains of North Georgia, rich in readily soluble iron and other sulphates, including sodium, calcium, etc., all of which are so necessary to the upbuilding of the system through the blood stream.

If you are one of the many thousands of rundown, tired, underweight and anaemic folks, go to your druggist and get a $1.25 bottle of Mineraltone, with his and our guarantee that you will begin to feel better in three days. Mineraltone is the greatest revitalizing agency ever discovered. It revives lost appetites, strengthens the blood stream, increases energy, aids digestion, adds weight and clears up muddy, pimply complexions. If your druggist is out of Mineraltone, sent direct upon receipt of price. Mineral-Tone Inc., Laboratory 4, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Troubled With Pimples Two Years Cuticura Healed

"My face broke out with red, itchy pimples. The pimples later spread to my back and neck. Later on, after scratching them because of the soreness, they became infected and my face was terribly disfigured, also my back. I could hardly bear anything to touch my back, and could not sleep on account of the soreness. This trouble I endured for about two years.

"I tried many remedies without success. I then bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using them a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) James L. Norton, 2038 Bentalou St., Baltimore, Md., Feb. 28, 1928.

Clear the pores of impurities by daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment as needed to soothe and heal. Cuticura Talcum is fragrant and refreshing, an ideal toilet powder.

FLAGLER TO OBSERVE BUILDING CONDITIONS

A comparative study of building conditions and costs in many cities is being made by T. T. Flagler, president of the T. T. Flagler company, whose construction operations center in Atlanta. He is entering upon a tour which will permit him to make observations in many states as a member of a party of construction experts en route to attend a nation-wide conference to be held at Minneapolis during the week of September 24.

The tour, which is one of several of similar character, and the conference are being sponsored by the Associated General Contractors of America of which Mr. Flagler is a member.

In making the tour Mr. Flagler will be accompanied by a number of other prominent builders, among whom are C. T. Allen, Birmingham; W. F. Creighton, Nashville, and W. R. Richards, of the A. G. C. Washington staff.

Data secured by Mr. Flagler and his associates will be placed before the Minneapolis conference for use in the current campaign to rid the construction industry of unnecessary costs and delays.

The record-breaking volume of construction under way this summer makes a survey of building activities especially appropriate at this time, according to a communication received here from D. A. Garber, Washington, general manager of the national association. "Many conditions needing remedial action become apparent only during the periods of intensive operations," the statement continued.

Included in the list of cities to be visited by the party of which Mr. Flagler will be a member, are Knoxville, Louisville, Cincinnati and Indianapoils.

M'MILLAN HEADS SALVATION ARMY FLORIDA RELIEF

Brigadier Donald McMillan left Atlanta late Wednesday to assume command of Salvation Army relief work in the hurricane-stricken area of Florida, where Salvation veterans of world war service and the Miami disaster of two years ago have been engaged night and day since the storm broke. About 25 Salvationists are now on duty.

Word reaching Col. Chandler, chief secretary of the Salvation Army, here Wednesday indicated that all resources of the Florida division would be inadequate to meet the appeals for help being made on Salvation Army workers now in the area.

All clothing and bedding stored up in Florida points during the summer for winter relief work has been distributed and arrangements made to send additional garments and shoes from Atlanta to provide for refugees whose entire possessions were swept away by flood waters.

Contributions of clothing may be made to the Salvation Army by calling Ivy 2224 for forwarding to the distress area as needed, Col. Chandler stated.

COLUMBIA ALUMNI TO GIVE LUNCHEON FOR ROOSEVELT

Cam Dorsey and Charles Shelton, classmates of Franklin D. Roosevelt, former candidate for the vice presidency, who will begin a nation-wide speaking tour in behalf of the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee with an address in Atlanta Wednesday, have invited all members of the Georgia Columbia Alumni association to attend a luncheon given in Mr. Roosevelt's honor.

Mr. Dorsey and Mr. Shelton attended Columbia at the same time that Mr. Roosevelt was a student there. The luncheon will be held at the Capitol City club at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and Mr. Roosevelt will speak at 7:30 o'clock at night at the city auditorium.

Miss Wright Weds W. B. Warnell At Emory Chapel October 2nd

Cordial interest centers in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Mary Frances Wright, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wylie Wright, of Jackson, and Willis Braxton Warnell, of Charlotte, N. C. The marriage will be solemnized at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, October 2, at the theological chapel of Emory university. Dr. C. M. Woodward, dean of men of Emory university, an uncle of the bride-elect, will perform the ceremony in the presence of the two families and intimate friends. Miss Wright has made her home for the past two months at Emory university.

Preceding the ceremony a musical program will be rendered by Mrs. J. B. McNelley, well-known soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Bryan, pianist, and Miss Agnes Adams, who will render several appropriate selections on the violin.

Mrs. J. R. Mabbett, of Birmingham, Ala., sister of the bride-elect, will be the matron of honor. Franklin Warnell, of Cairo, will act as the best man. The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her brother, William Wright, of Jackson. The ushers will be M. C. Wright, uncle of Miss Wright, and Jerry White.

Following the ceremony a quiet wedding breakfast for the wedding party and family will be held at the home of Mrs. C. M. Woodward, aunt of Miss Wright, on Haygood drive, Emory university. The young couple will leave afterward for a two weeks' wedding trip to North Carolina, and Virginia, where they will visit the Shenandoah valley. They will make their home in Charlotte.

Miss Wright attended school at Agnes Scott college and Southern Methodist university, where she was a member of the Delta Delta sorority.

Mr. Warnell is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Warnell, of Cairo. He is a graduate of Emory university, where he was a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and senior honorary society. He is connected with the Retail Credit company, in Charlotte, N. C. His brother is Franklin Warnell.

Miss Garner Weds Dudley M. Pruitt, Of New York City

An affair of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends was the wedding of Miss Grace Richards Garner, of Atlanta, and Dudley McConnell Pruitt, of New York city, which took place Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of a number of relatives and close friends.

The lower floor of the home was decorated with cut flowers, ferns and tall white tapers, an improvised altar being formed of palms, interspersed with cathedral candelabra and tall floor baskets filled with dahlias and tube roses.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Lillian Smith, contralto, sang "The Day of Golden Promise" and "Beloved, It Is Morn," being accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Felder.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Garner, father of the bride, assisted by Dr. F. C. McConnell, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church.

Miss Mildred Garner, sister of the bride and maid of honor, was gowned in a fall model of beige crepe, trimmed in brown velvet, with hat and accessories in harmonizing shades. She carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses and fern.

The lovely bride entered with her brother, G. Dean Garner, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Judson M. Garner. The bride was beautiful in a traveling costume of wood brown flat crepe, trimmed with brown velvet, and she wore a hat of brown soleil. Her bouquet was a shower of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley.

An informal reception was held immediately following the ceremony, Mrs. Garner, the bride's mother, being assisted in receiving by Miss Juliette Garner, Mrs. B. R. Beck and others. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Garner, of Anniston, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. G. Dean Garner, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Edward Connolly, of Molena, Ga.; Miss Loulie Forrester and Mr. and Mrs. Claud Carson, of Macon.

The bride, who is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Garner, of this city, is known and loved by a host of friends throughout the state, having received her education at Bessie Tift college and Emory university. She is also a recent graduate of the Carnegie Library school, of Atlanta.

Mr. Pruitt is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Pruitt, of Hwangsien, Shantung Province, China, for many years missionaries of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention. Mr. Pruitt made his home with his parents in China until he came to the United States to complete his education. He is an honor graduate of Haverford college and a member of Phi Beta Kappa fraternity.

After a wedding journey to Chicago and other points in the middle west, Mr. and Mrs. Pruitt will make their home in New York city.

A PROTECTING APRON.

6252. Printed linen was chosen to make this practical apron. Being sleeveless it is cool and comfortable, with straps over the shoulders, supporting crosswise yoke bands. Ample and convenient pockets are arranged on the front, and hold the belt. One could make this model in sateen with trimming of cretonne or in gingham with piping in a contrasting color or an edging of rick rack braid.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. To make a medium size will require 3 1-2 yards of 27-inch material. To make yoke bands and belt of contrasting material will require 3-8 yards 27 inches wide. To finish with bias binding as illustrated will require 8 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

Send 12 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date Fall and Winter 1928-29 Book of Fashions.

Mercolized Wax— For Sun and Windburn

For removing tan, freckles, sun and windburn, and for beautifying the complexion, the daily use of pure mercolized wax is recommended. The wax, obtainable at any drug store, is applied to the face, neck and arms, like a cold cream. It flecks the skin off in tiny invisible particles, a little each day, until the entire mask of blemished or discolored skin has been completely removed. The beautiful under skin is then revealed, clear, soft and smooth, with rose petal tints and texture. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines, use as an astringent 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel. —(adv.)

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

BOBBY COON GROWS ANGRY.
By Thornton W. Burgess.

Disappointment often will Make short tempers shorter still.
—Old Mother Natuer.

Inside a hollow log crouched Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. It was a small log and it was a very small hollow. Whitefoot had darted into it through a knothole that was just big enough for him to squeeze through. "It's a lucky thing for me that this old log was right handy," said Whitefoot to himself as he pulled his long tail in after him. "Bobby Coon would have had me, "Im afraid, if this old log hadn't been right here."

A moment later Whitefoot was by no means sure that Bobby Coon would not have him anyway. Bobby had seen just where he went. He came over to the old log and sniffed at the knothole. Of course, he got his nose full of the scent of Mouse. That scent was so strong that Bobby knew that Whitefoot couldn't be very far inside that hollow log. He suspected that it was a small hollow.

"I wonder if I could pull him out of there. If I can once get my claws into him he'll come out," muttered Bobby.

So he thrust in through the knothole one of his paws, which was very like a hand. Then he began to fee about. He felt all around very carefully. Once something smooth and round slipped out from under his fingers. He knew what it was; it was Whitefoot's tail. He knew then that that hollow was so small that Whitefoot was having hard work to keep out of reach. Two or three times he felt the touch of the fur, but there was nothing he could get hold of. It was very exasperating. Yes, indeed, it was very exasperating. He pulled his arm out. "Come out of there!" he commanded. "I'll get you anyway, so you may as well save me the trouble of pulling you out."

Of course, Whitefoot didn't come out. He simply tried to make himself smaller than ever. He was terribly frightened. How he did wish that that hollow was just a little bit larger. If he could only have another inch he would have felt entirely safe. How he did wish he could shrink! Yes, Whitefoot was a badly scared little Mouse.

Bobby Coon reached in with his other arm and felt about as before. He felt and felt this way and that way. As before, he just touched Whitefoot once or twice. And then something happened. Bobby Coon gave a yelp of pain and yanked his arm out of there in a hurry. Whitefoot had bitten one of Bobby's fingers. Yet, sir, Whitefoot had used his sharp little teeth.

I wonder if I could pull him out of there."

My, such a rage as Bobby Coon flew into! He snarled and growled and threatened to do all sorts of dreadful things to Whitefoot. But Whitefoot noticed that he didn't put his arm in there again. Then Bobby began to claw at that old log. He was trying to tear it apart. But he soon found he couldn't do this. That old log was not old enough and decayed enough. Then he tried to roll it over. He thought there might be an opening on the under side. He pulled and he hauled and he hauled and he pulled. As I said before, the log was a small one. Bobby found that he could move it. It wasn't heavy. Presently it suddenly rolled over so that the knothole was down against the ground. Whitefoot was a prisoner.

"If I can't get in you can't get out," growled Bobby Coon, and licked the finger that Whitefoot had bitten. Then very very satified with what he hoden, Bobby Coon headed for the Laughing Brook to wash his hands, for you know Bobby Coon is very neat.

"I'll come back by and by," muttered Bobby to himself, "and have another try for that Wood Mouse."

Weatherman Aids Merchants
:: SUMMER STRAWS ARE SCARCE ON PEACHTREE ::
In Putting Felt Hat Week Over

BY LOYD A. WILHOIT.

The big wind down south was only a stiff breeze when it reached Atlanta, but that was potent enough to make official "felt hat week" here a howling success.

Such summer straws as survived the waning season were snatched away and blown from view by the crisp fall winds, and felts held undisputed sway on Peachtree.

In all shades of tans and grays, they lorded it magnificently over the occasional straw that seemed to shrink from public gaze and was as rare as hip boots on Broadway.

Merchants report that the demand for felt hats of the snappiest style and latest shade is brisker at this season than at any time in the past. They have big stocks of the new fall fedoras on hand, and customers are going through the throes of choosing to suit their personal beauty with gratifying regularity.

If ever a specially-proclaimed "week" went over big, it's this year's felt hat week. The merchants did their part nobly, and in addition found the weather man a potent ally in putting the event over the top.

West End Theater Holds Second Junior Matinee Saturday

West End will celebrate its successful inauguration of junior matinees at 10 o'clock Saturday by the announcement of a splendid program which will appeal to all juniors and adults as well at the West End theater. Rex, the "king of wild horses," will be seen in "Wild Beauty." This film was the chief favorite of all the young people who have seen the programs given at the Palace theater this summer. It has been selected for the opening program at the West End theater for this reason, because of its general appeal and because it has not been given before in this locality.

Especially attractive will be Baby Peggy in "Little Red Riding Hood." This delightful fairy story has scenes in color, and follows the old tale closely.

The prolog features Gloria Matthews and Sarah Dunn in an old-fashioned minuet, while everybody will have an opportunity to take part in community singing, under the direction of R. Landers, choir leader of Gordon Streef Baptist church. Music will form one of the most attractive parts of the programs during the coming year at the junior matinees.

The program starts at 10 o'clock, and lasts till 11:30, giving parents, accompanying children, an opportunity to do their Saturday buying. Admission is 10 cents for juniors and 20 cents for adults. Nursemaids are admitted.

Mrs. Elijah Brown To Be Honored.

Mrs. Elijah Brown will be the central figure at the party given Friday afternoon, September 28, by Mrs. Homer Carmichael at her home on Piedmont avenue, as a welcome to Mrs Brown, who spent the summer in European travel. The guests will include members of Mother Howard's Bible class, of which Mrs. Brown is teacher, and which was taught by the late Mrs. Chessley B. Howard, Sr.

The Bible class meets at Mrs. Brown's home on Piedmont avenue and is nondenominational. The membership including Mesdames Fort Adams, W. W. Anderson, Montague Boyd, Lee Barber, Ralph Barnwell, G. W. Cole, Homer Carmichael, Grady Clay, Thomas Connor, George Damour, Frank Davis, W. T. Dent, John Fitts, Walter Holmes, Trimble Johnson, R. T. DIET AND HEALTH
BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ROMAN METHOD FOR REDUCING NOT GOOD FOR MODERN FOLK.

"I have a friend who reduced by vomiting after each meal if she had overeaten. She isn't so well now, but she did get thin. Is this a good idea?
"N."

This method of inducing vomiting after a meal is called the Roman method, because at the ruins of the Roman banquet halls were found rooms which were believed to be vomitoriums for the relief of those who had overeaten.

You say your friend is thin, but she is not well, so you see this method was evidently bad for her. In fact, it is bad for everyone. If practiced often enough, it establishes a habit of reverse peristalsis and the victim finds that after awhile it may be impossible to keep any amount of food down. A chronic inflammatory condition of the stomach may develop and the victim will suffer from a deficiency disease.

High Colonic Irrigations, Cathartics and Drugs.

Just as bad is the use of the high colonic irrigations for reducing, for that removes the food before the blood has had a chance to abstract the nourishment, and a deficiency disease may result, as well as chronic inflammation of the intestines. The habitual use of cathartics comes in the same category.

Drugs for reducing, as common sense must indicate, are dangerous. There are only three safe methods of reducing:

1. Increase the physical activities to care for the excess food intake and a little of the excess body fat.

2. Lessen the food intake so that the body fat has to contribute for some of the energy needs.

3. A combination of the two methods. This is best. Our pamphlet on the subject tells you how to do this scientifically so that while the body bulk is lessening there is an increase in health and strength.

Fake Cancer Treatment.

"I bear in my body the marks of a modern miracle—Petersizing! Upon taking thought—and lo! many calories also—behold the additional cubits. I did weigh 91 pounds, but now I weigh 125, a gain of 34 pounds. I have tried all my life to gain before, but without success.

"Is the—— treatment for cancer good? I have a friend who is about to try it for that. I wasted some money on it, trying to gain, but never did gain an ounce of weight or strength.

"Does milk of magnesia make milk more digestible? MRS. M."

That contraption you mention has been examined by many scientific societies and has been absolutely condemned. You won't find this method indorsed by any scientific physician, irrespective of what you have heard. Its "inventer" died of one of the diseases it is supposed to cure. Treating cancer with it is courting death.

The sooner a beginning cancer is removed by a competent surgeon by the known methods—X-ray, radium, surgery, etc.—the less danger there is of the cancer cells distributing themselves throughout the body and the cancer going on to the inoperable stage.

No, milk of magnesia doesn't make milk more digestible.

Thanks for letting us know your good results in gaining.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL
BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

PUT SELF-STARTER ON THE GIRL.

"Mother wants me to become a school teacher, but I don't want to be one because I don't like teaching."

This sounds very familiar. Why is it that mothers want daughters to become school teachers and why is it lots of girls don't like teaching?

Very likely mothers see teaching as a line of work for which the preparation is definite, the remuneration fairly ample, and the tenure permanent. Some mothers think it is a genteel job; some believe that anyone can teach; some like to feel that there is a teacher in the family; some, and I fear this constitutes the majority, decide that their daughter is to be a teacher because it is the easiest way out of the big problem of finding a proper vocation for the girl.

If a girl shows no special talent then of course make her a teacher. If she is "too good to be a stenographer," then shove her into teaching. If the mother wants her daughter to live in the home town, send her off to a normal school and expect her to get a job in the home city.

May heaven help the schools if the teaching corps is to be filled up with young women whose mothers have settled their daughter's vocation. Teaching is not a thumb twirling job to be endured while sitting around waiting for the wedding ring. Teaching is not a vocation for daughters whose mothers want them to be in something genteel. Teaching is not a vocation to supply town girls with home jobs.

Teaching is a profession requiring initiative, involving freedom to use one's own ideas, and to use one's personality in putting over the job. A teacher deals with humanity in its plastic state and is largely instrumental in shaping the ideals and ideas of youth. In teaching there is an endless variety of approaches and responses to keep teachers alive. Splendid opportunities for outside contacts, continuous employment and financial recognition for quality and service.

If a girl does not want to go into teaching this fact settles it. Mother's initiative and mother's personality should not count. There is no use in mother trying to act as a self-starter for her daughter in the business of teaching. Let the girl choose something in which she can throw her mind, body, and soul and start herself in a chosen vocation.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.
Love Moves On.

We are a young couple and very much in love, but don't want to be married for two years. What can we do to keep up our interest in each other? And if two people are really in love will they stay that way through a long engagement? FIANCEE.

Answer—Everything moves. Good things move forward as trees grow upward. Love cannot stand still or merely sit. If you do nothing but kiss, hug and sigh you will soon be grunting and groaning. Be snappy, have something to say to each other, hike together, read, be interested in each other's vocation, plan a future, then your love will not die if you do not wait too long. Nature intends love to move forward into marriage, children, mortgages, debts, joys, trials, putting the cat out, washing milk bottles, and having faith and understanding in each other through deeds and not merely through words of love.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON
BY MOLLIE MERRICK

Hollywood, Cal., September 19.—You can specialize in beauty or ugliness; in grace or disgrace, in Hollywood. Any one of these talents pay well.

But your beauty must be of the camera kind. Your ugliness must make people laugh or move them to pity. Your grace must be the grace of Vilmy Banky, and your disgrace, to be marketable—but why the reduudant?

Clara Bow made "it" pay—and pay high. In the same way, Adolphe Menjou discovered that if he looked slightly bored and raised one eyebrow the entire world took him for a sophisticated gentleman—a guy who knew his endives, so to speak.

Theda Bara started vamping. It was as old as Lilth, but people hadn't yet gotten to the point where they discussed it—to say nothing of applauding it. Theda Bara taught them to appreciate the siren. They have been busy appreciating her ever since, both in movie and private life.

Charlie Chaplin came along and taught them that comedy was really the shabby exterior of a cloak whose lining was sadness. May McAvoy proved that a girl may be blue-eyed, blonde, good, and register absolute innocence without the least boring her public.

George Bancroft taught the world that there is sentiment and loyalty in the big, rough, tough-looking guy whom you'd never suspect of anything softer than a clout in the jaw.

Monsieur August Tollaire spent a good many years raising a beard. Movies were invented just in time for Tollaire to capitalize on many years' accumulation of chin whiskers.

* * * *

A gentleman who shall be unnamed, but who undoubtedly knows more about stills than anyone else in these parts, supplied the technical direction when Emil Jannings was making a picture whose lietmotif was bootlegger.

Very quietly he slid through the studio gates each day and gave his expert advice. Some of the boys gathered round to listen respectfully. Here was a real artist in a world of make-believers.

The gentleman accrued more than the pay check. He made a lot of friends. And in his business, good friends are good customers.

Down in Taos, N. M., Elizabeth Pickett, of the famous Kentucky Picketts, is supervising a picture which she wrote—a story of redmen facing this modern world, made for whites.

It is the first all-color and all-sound picture to come out of Hollywood. And Elizabeth Pickett writes me that they have succeeded in getting the Navajo Indians to do their famous fire dance, for the first time in motion picture history.

Navajo Indians, their bodies coated with white clay, dance through a wall of fire which roars sometimes 50 feet in the air. Think of this in color, with an entire hillside lined with redmen huddled silent in their blankets. In full war paint. The full moon kindly agreed to be in on the scene, it seems. Victor Schertzinger, the man who wrote Marcheta and numerous other successes, is directing.

The history of directors generally proves that these men are capable of several vocations. In the good director many arts meet. This Indian movie, which will bring Richard Dix back into the role of the redman which he plays so well, is unusual from every angle. The most patrician woman in motion pictures wrote it, and the most versatile song composer in the business is behind the megaphone. We shall see.

* * * *

"What do you think about me?" said the great motion picture actor to the young woman he found next him at dinner.

"I think you've led a very interesting life," she hazarded.

"My eyes have told you so?"

"No . . . under your eyes."

"How often I wish I could tell my women patrons"
Says a beauty specialist

If women only realized how often they are in danger of offending others! This new discovery, which neutralizes odor* in sanitary pads, removes all fear of such offense.

ONE woman cannot always speak freely to another on so delicate a subject as this. And often women suffer needless fear, needless self-consciousness today. Because a new process, developed and patented in Kotex Laboratories, acts in a most remarkable way to end all odor while Kotex is being worn. There is no further need for the feeling that one may be annoying others in this way.

The new cut, non-revealing

A certain bulkiness associated with old-fashioned methods has been overcome, too. Each pad is rounded and tapered in such a way as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection.

You may add or remove layers of filler as needed—a thing all women appreciate. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Buy a box today, at any drug, dry goods or department store . . . 45c for a box of twelve. Supplied, also, in rest-room vending cabinets.

*Kotex is the only sanitary pad that deodorizes by a patented process. (Paten, No. 1,670,587, granted May 22, 1928.)

Deodorizes . . . and 4 other important features:

1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pliable filler absorbs as no other substance can;

2—Corners are rounded and tapered; no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown;

3—Deodorizes—safely, thoroughly, by a new and exclusive patented process;

4—Adjust it to your needs; filler may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required;

RADIO-ING THE AIR WAVES

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

In keeping with the advent of cooler weather, radio talk will take on an arctic tinge tonight when Commander Donald B. MacMillan, noted polar explorer, will feature wireless entertainment on Thursday.

Commander MacMillan, just returned from 16 months in the arctic regions where his expedition was ice-bound, will make his first public appearance in the Crystal studio tonight. With Alexander Kirilloff's Russian Balaika orchestra appearing in the Orchestras That Differ program, Commander MacMillan will speak through the NBC system at 7 o'clock. A group of famous explorers will greet Commander MacMillan before the microphone and he will give his first interview to the press at that time.

Lillian Eichler will give a short talk on "Etiquette" during a program of the Parnassus Trio to be broadcast from the Crystal studio at noon, Thursday. Olga Serlis directs this feminine trio which is heard every week-day morning through WEAF and associated NBC system stations.

The Maxwell House Concert orchestra, directed by Nathaniel Shilkret, will broadcast from the Radio World's Fair tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The Maxwell House concert is heard through 29 stations of the NBC system as far south as WJAX, Jacksonville, Fla.

Solid Carload of Imports, First Consigned To Southern Store, Is Received for Rich Sale

L. P. Bailey, receiving manager of the M. Rich & Bros. Co., and Collector Sessions, of the local federal customs office, in company with a group of railroad officials, opening the solid carload of imports received Wednesday by Rich's from Germany for the local department store's annual Harvest Sale, begnning October 1.

The first solid carload shipment of imports to a southern department store Wednesday rolled into Atlanta, consigned to the M. Rich & Bros. company, it was announced by officials of the well known department store.

The carload of imported goods and novelties immediately was unpacked in the presence of federal customs officials and its contents stored away in preparation for the annual Rich Harvest sale, which begins October 1. Officials of Rich's stated that this is the first of a series of similar import shipments which will reach Atlanta between now and the last of the month to be included in a store-wide sale for which elaborate plans have been made.

The first car contained a wide variety of merchandise consigned to Rich's by its German concessionaire, L. S. Mayer, with offices in Berlin and Frankfort. Among the items were interesting household linens, towels, beautiful wool tapestries, wool scarfs, shawls and mufflers, straw and rattan and wood baskets, novelty cigarette cases, dolls, mechanical toys of all kinds and numerous other articles.

All were assembled from German manufacturing centers and consigned directly to the Rich company.

Unusual Beast Presented In Animal-Naming Contest

You've been having a lot of easy ones, kiddies, but today's animal is a little bit out of the ordinary. But even at that you should have no trouble in naming it if you're at all familiar with crossword puzzles. This animal's name is one of the old standbys in crossword puzzles.

That ought to give you a hint. And now you can sit down, name the animal, tell what country he is a native of, tell what species of animals he belongs to and then write a story essay of less than 200 words telling whether he would be an interesting animal for our zoo at Grant park, and why.

These two are just a sample of the many new and interesting animals you will see in "Simba" and, furthermore, if you name one of the animals in The Constitution's Simba contest, and answer the other questions, you may win one of the 25 pairs of tickets to see "Simba" next week at the Erlanger theater.

This is No. four. You can name this animal, or you can look back to Sunday in The Constitution and name any one of the animals whose pictures have been published. It is not necessary to name all the animals. One is enough to win. Pick out one you know particularly well, and go to it!

Attach this coupon filled out, to the manuscript containing your name and address and mail it to the Simba editor of The Constitution.

"SIMBA" CONTEST

1. Name of animal.....
2. In what country does this species live?.....
3. To what family of animals does it belong?.....
4. Would this be an interesting animal for our zoo and why? (Essay less than 200 words.)

FIRST FORESTRY FAIR OPENS AT WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., September 19.—(AP) Telling the story of the importance of forests as natural resources, the Georgia Forest fair, first event of its kind ever held in this country, opened here today with exhibits from 17 states on display.

Despite the fact that the success of the fair was threatened by the storm which swept this section Monday night and Tuesday morning, present indications are that the event will be well attended, officials state.

The program for the opening day of the Forest fair was suspended because of unsettled conditions resulting from the storm. Governor Hardman, scheduled to deliver the opening address, was not present, storm warnings having prevented his coming to Waycross.

State Forester B. M. Lufburrow, who accompanied the motorcade which made the trip from Atlanta to Waycross for the fair, said that they had found the roads leading into Waycross in good condition despite rains which accompanied the storm.

SENATOR R. L. OWEN SPEAKS HERE FRIDAY

Former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, for sixteen years a democratic member of the United States senate, who is touring the south in opposition to the candidacy of Governor Al Smith, of New York, for the presidency of the United States, will deliver an address in the Atlanta theater at 8 o'clock Friday night under the auspices of the anti-Smith democratic party of Georgia, Barry Wright, chairman, announced Wednesday.

At the invitation of Mr. Wright, Senator Owen planned to stop in Atlanta for the address on his way to Jacksonville, Florida, where he will speak against Smith Saturday. A group of anti-Smith democrats in Atlanta will form a reception committee.

Mr. Wright announced that owing to previously arranged plans the auditorium was not available for Senator Owen's address and that since a large audience was expected the Atlanta theater had been obtained.

MRS. ALLBRIGHT HEADS NEW GROUP

Mrs. W. A. Allbright, Atlanta, was named president of the new international organization of Atlanta church women, which assumed organized form at a luncheon Wednesday at Emory University. Mrs. Allbright is acting president of the Woman's Missionary societies of the North Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

The vice president of the organization is Mrs. Henry W. Davis, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council of the Episcopal church. Mrs. B. L. Bugg, prominent Baptist worker, and Mrs. E. C. Quick, of the Christian church were named treasurer and secretary of the new association. Mrs. Hugh H. Harris, of Emory, was elected chairman of the department of Religious Education.

The new association, the purpose of which is to co-ordinate the women's work in all churches of all denominations in Atlanta came as a result of the Interdenominational Training school, which began Monday and will close Friday. Mrs. John Ferguson, of New York, president of the National Commission of Church women, was present at the luncheon Wednesday and aided in the formation of the new group. The Atlanta division will be affiliated with this commission in the future.

Six denominations already have signified their desire to belong to the organization and have become charter workers. They are Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregational, Lutheran, Christian, and Episcopal.

The training school will be continued today with the regular classes. The luncheon program will be sponsored by the Episcopal church. At 8 o'clock tonight the training school will hear Mrs. Ferguson lecture on her recent trip to South America. This will be held in the theological chapel at Emory.

Now You Can Reduce 2 to 4 Lbs. in a Night

Lose Weight Where You Most Want To

Fayro reduces weight generally, but you can also concentrate its effect on abdomen, hips, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Weigh yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself food you really want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath in the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. Inside each package you get an interesting booklet, "Health and Open Pores."

Eat what you please

Wear what you please

Do what you please

Take no risky medicine

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Fayro baths in the privacy of their own homes.

Fayro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and Continental Europe. For years the spas and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well-groomed men.

Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

The Hot Springs Are Now Brought to You

Painstaking analyses of the active ingredients of the water from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice and enjoy the pungent fragrance of its balsam oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating perspiration forces lazy body cells to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Add Fayro to your bath at night and immediately you will lose from 2 to 4 pounds in an easy, refreshing and absolutely harmless manner.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh you and help your body throw off worn-out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

HERE'S PROOF
Read what Fayro Baths have done for others.

"Three Fayro baths reduced my weight 11 pounds in 8 days. I feel better than I have felt for years."

"I weigh 16 pounds less and feel younger and sleep better. Fayro is wonderful."

"My double chin vanished in the magic of Fayro baths."

"My hips were always too prominent until I commenced Fayro baths. I have lost 12 pounds."

"Thank you for Fayro. I lost 14 pounds in three weeks; feel better and certainly look better."

"Since childhood my thick ankles have always been a source of embarrassment. Fayro baths have reduced them beautifully. Thank you very much."

For obvious reasons, names are not quoted, but every letter published has been authorized and names and addresses will be given on request.

If each healthful bath of Fayro does not reduced your weight from 2 to 4 pounds, we will refund your money without a question. You risk nothing.

For Sale at Jacobs' Drug Stores and at all drug and toilet counters.

If your dealer is unable to supply you, Fayro will be mailed direct in a plain, unmarked package upon receipt of price. Fayro Laboratories, 821 Locust St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

RADIO APPARATUS IN WIDE DEMAND

BY MARTIN CODEL.

(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

New York, September 19.—Baseball and football, added to politics, are serving to create an unprecedented demand for radio apparatus. This is the report brought to the radio world's fair by manufacturers and dealers from all parts of the country.

Even more than prize fights, the apparent favorite among the sports described by radio, the autumnal crop of events is leading people to replace their old receiving sets or buy their first sets in greater numbers than ever before. Joy within the industry, which looks to a record market, is unbounded as the 1928-29 market is surveyed.

Radio advertising accounts are swelling. Leading set, tube and arts factories anticipate running full blast well beyond the Christmas season. There is much backslapping and handshaking, here at the season's most important radio exhibition, over trade prospects that have already begun to bear substantial fruit.

It is a unique industry, based upon many intangible values, this business of radio. Summertime finds it in lull. But, even then, let a prize fight be scheduled, like the recent Tunney-Heeney affair, and every local dealer finds business picking up. Rundown sets are reconditioned. New sets are bought. Early fall, however, marks the real beginning of the radio season.

34 RADIO STATIONS WILL BROADCAST SMITH'S SPEECH

New York, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Thirty-four radio stations will broadcast Governor Smith's address from Oklahoma City tomorrow night in a nationwide hookup. The stations follow:

WEAF, New York; WBAP, Fort Worth, Texas; KGO, Oakland; KPO, San Francisco; KOMO, Seattle; KGW, Portland, Ore.; KHQ, Spokane; KFI, Los Angeles; WEEI, Boston; WTIC, Hartford; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester, Mass.; WCSH, Portland, Maine; WRC, Washington; WGY, Schenectady; WGR, Buffalo; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WSAI, Cincinnati; WGN, Chicago; KSD, St. Louis; WOC, Davenport, Ia.; WHO, Des Moines; WOW, Omaha; WDAF, Kansas City; KVOO, Tulsa, Okla.; WFAA, Dallas, Texas; KPRC, Houston, Texas; WOAI, San Antonio; KOA, Denver; WTMJ, Milwaukee; WRHM, Minneapolis; WHAS, Louisville; WMC, Memphis; WBT, Charlotte.

NEW YORK CANDIDATES ARE RENOMINATED

Albany, N. Y., September 19.—(AP) Tabulation today of virtually complete results of contests in the state primary election held yesterday indicated general party organization control in the state and revealed that candidates seeking renomination were successful almost without exception. In a group of 18 contests involving renominations, the incumbents were successful in all but one instance.

Organization nominations were pronounced in upstate New York. There three out of four contests for republican congressional nomination resulted in the naming of organization designees. The nomination of Representative S. Wallace Dempsey, of the fortieth district, comprised the only semblance of an upset of organization hopes.

A hotly contested four-cornered fight for the democratic nomination for president of Queensborough, New York city, was won by Bernard M. Patten, interim incumbent, who was appointed five months ago after the resignation of Maurice E. Connolly during investigation of alleged irregularities in $16,000,000 worth of sewer construction.

NAME CHARLESTON RECTOR AS BISHOP OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Florence, S. C., September 19.—(AP) The Rev. Albert S. Thomas, rector of St. Michael's church, Charleston, will succeed the late William A. Guerry as bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of South Carolina, having been elected on the fifth ballot to the office by a special convention here yesterday.

The question of reuniting the two dioceses of South Carolina and upper South Carolina was not brought before the convention, it being understood that the proposal of reunion had gained so little support that the matter was dropped by tacit consent.

GERMAN DIRIGIBLE COMPLETES FLIGHT

Friedrichshafen, Germany, September 19.—(AP)—The huge dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, which was given its first test flight at Friedrichshafen yesterday, is now being prepared for another trial flight tomorrow.

Dr. Hugo Eckener was well content with yesterday's performance of the dirigible which was built expressly for trans-Atlantic service.

MRS. PENICK DENIES 'PRAYER' FOR HOOVER

Eatonton, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The recent meeting of members of the Putnam county Baptist mission workers did not call on the membership to "fast and pray for Al Smith's defeat," Mrs. Carrie Marshall Penick, one of the leaders of the society in this county, declared in a letter to the editor of the Macon Telegraph.

"These prayer services were statewide and for state missions and not for the election of Hoover," Mrs. Penick wrote. Her letter follows:

"Editor Macon News:

"Your issue of September 13, 1928, carried an article entitled: 'Putnam Baptists Fast and Pray for Al Smith's Defeat.' This article stated that the meeting was held at Harmony Baptist church. I am a member of this church and was present at this meeting. The call to prayer was issued by the president of the local missionary society in compliance with a statewide call for state missions.

"The announcement of this meeting was only read by the pastor, Dr. Scott Patterson, and not given by him, as this meeting was for ladies only as we have no male members in this society.

"As a result of this call several ladies of Harmony Baptist church met at the church on last Thursday to observe an all-day prayer service for state missions. These prayer services were statewide for state missions and not for the election of Hoover as president of these United States. I was the author of one of these prayers and being the daughter of a Confederate soldier who fought four years in the civil war, I could not offer a prayer which, if granted, would practically undo all that my father fought for.

"This meeting was not a fast-day meeting. If so, I would like to fast always. The menu included ham, fried chicken, candied potatoes, baked pears, baked apples, cake and sandwiches.

"This meeting was not political in any respect and politics was not mentioned nor discussed and since Harmony community is almost 100 per cent for Al Smith, I ask that you please publish this correction and put it on the front page of your paper just as you did the above named article.

"Yours very truly,
"Mrs. Carrie Marshall Penick."

Kid Woodruff Watches Ga. In Practice

Former Mentor Present as Mehre Sends Bulldogs Through Long Workout.

Athens, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—George Woodruff, head coach of the Georgia Bulldogs for many years, watched the 1928 candidates work out on the Sanford field gridiron Wednesday afternoon. Kid Woodruff, as he was called, was one of the most beloved mentors in the south while the Bulldogs were under his charge. He was forced to resign at the end of last season to devote more time to business after he had produced a team that will long be remembered in the annals of southern football.

A good stiff workout was waiting for the Bulldogs when they reported for practice this afternoon. No outdoor practice was held Tuesday on account of a downpour of rain.

Coach Mehre is devoting more time to signal practice and formations each day in preparation for the scrimmage against the Rats Saturday afternoon.

H. F. Johnson, who returned yesterday, was calling signals for one of the four teams which jaunted around the gridiron. The coming of Johnson, quarterback of the Four Horsemen, completes the roster of the Red and Black. He, like most of the candidates, appears to be in excellent shape.

Little more than two weeks remain before the season opens in Athens with the Mercer Bears, and the coaching staff is rapidly rounding the team out so that October 6 will not find the Bulldogs wanting. Hard, steady practices every afternoon between now and then are in order, says Harry Mehre.

Sandlot Champs Battle in Cincy

Cincinnati, Ohio, September 19.—(AP)—Champions of sandlot baseball in Cincinnati and Detroit swung their bats viciously today, and won victory in the fifth round of the National Baseball Federation tournament.

The Cincinnati New Eras, defending champions, trounced Pittsburgh, 7 to 1, disqualifying the Pennsylvanians from further participation. Cincinnati is still undefeated.

The Detroit team, which has lost one game, romped on the Omaha nine, 10 to 2, also the second defeat for the Westerners, who were playing in the national elimination contest for the first time since its organization four years ago.

New Haven and Birmingham, both participating in their first national match, went 10 innings with New Haven winning, 5 to 4. This defeat put the Alabamans out of the race.

Only Cincinnati, Detroit and New Haven remain to take up the battle, the other 15 entries having fallen into two defeats. Only Cincinnati boasts an untarnished record.

Leo Mackey Returned To Nashville Club

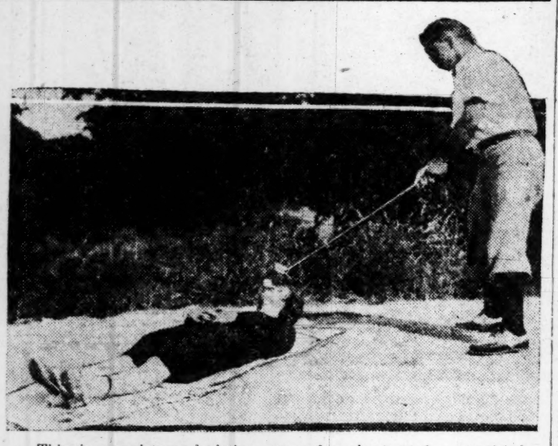

Charlotte, N. C., September 19.—(AP)—Leo Mackey, who closed the South Atlantic season as manager of the Charlotte club, will not manage the local team next year. He was today turned back to the Nashville club of the Southern association from which he was obtained.

Secretary Moore, of the local club, said that no plans had been made for a successor to the former Nashville catcher.

This is no picture depicting a murder about to be committed, though it would be if one of us duffers tried it. It merely shows Jack Redmond, trick shot artist, driving a ball from a tee which Redmond's wife is holding in her mouth. Mrs. Redmond, it would seem, is one woman who has implicit faith in her husband.

The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

FOOTBALL PESSIMISM.

A somewhat puzzled or baffled camp follower wants to know why it is that most football coaches are pessimistic. "Baseball managers are out claiming pennants before the season starts, while football coaches are predicting calamities and catastrophes. Why should one psychology work for baseball and not for football?"

The best football psychology is supposed to bring a team to a mental condition where it can be made to believe that only the hardest sort of fighting will pull it through. An overconfident football team can be landed on its ear in short order and recovery thereafter is none too easy. And football teams after all have a habit of being overconfident. This is one battle that Coach Zuppke, for example, must fight all year. He returns a team of veterans and quite often these veteran teams turn out to be flops. Brown returned most of its veterans last fall and the debris hasn't been cleared away yet. Keying a team up works for one game, but it can be overworked in a hard schedule. A team keyed up one week for a tough fight is almost as certain to slide away at the next start. A set of human nerves can only stand so much stretching and pressure.

This is the main reason why so few teams can slip through a season unbeaten. After winning one hard war any team may break before a weaker opponent by the next Saturday.

The Case of the Army.

The Army team is a star example of this situation. Biff Jones has a strong squad back at work and a strong team coming on. If Jones could put his full strength—mentally, physically and psychologically—into action for any picked game he would be almost sure to win. And he can't afford to loaf against Southern Methodist, coached by Ray Morrison, one of the smartest of the lot. After that he must face Harvard, Yale, Notre Dame, Nebraska and Stanford, in the hardest schedule of the year. The Army has six strong opponents to handle and unless the Army has a fine line of reserve strength the job will be almost impossible. These are all pounding games—games that sap away a world of nerve reserve. And when a football team loses its supply of nerve reserve it is about done for that selected date.

Princeton and Ohio State.

Here are two teams that may put on one of the most important sectional battles of the year. Both have possibilities of high ranking in their different reservations. If Ohio State can snap out of its internal troubles the material is there to go quite a distance. Princeton is almost certain to be one of the best teams in the east and Ohio State has its chance to stay level with the best in the west. If they get away nicely before they meet, the Tiger may play before a bigger gathering than the Princeton-Harvard game ever drew, up to 70,000 or 75,000 souls.

SPORTRAITS

GORDON COCHRANE

Gordon Cochrane, an important factor in the Athletics' winning drive, has earned himself the title of the American league's best backstop.

Mickey Cochrane is a product of Boston college and has been playing professional ball only since 1924. The A's got him from Portland Pacific Coast league for $50,000. Almost immediately upon his arrival in Philadelphia Cochrane became first-string catcher.

Much of the success of the A's pitchers is attributed to Mickey's fine work behind the bat.

Today's Golf Menu.

Three of the finest putters in the amateur last week at Brae Burn were Bobby Jones, George Voigt and Dr. Willing. And it was noticeable that each one of this trio gave the appearance of a light, easy grip. There was no clutching the shaft of the putter—no jabbing or stabbing. They seemed to let the putting blade float through the ball. There was no sign of flabbiness or looseness, but what might be termed a lightness of touch that can only come from a light grip.

This lighter grip where the clubhead is allowed to drift on through also cuts away the tendency to move the body or lift the head. Tenseness in the hands leads to tenseness in the body and this results in body action of the damaging sort. Jones and Voigt are two of the best putters that ever came into golf. And both are alike in all the fundamentals that make for putting success.

Mack's Crew Has Everythin' That's Needed

Athletics Would Look Fine in World's Series; But They Must Overhaul Yankees.

BY GEORGE MORIARTY.

(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

The Philadelphia Athletics, who cavort under Connie Mack's guidance, have everything needed for keen competition in a world series. A just analysis grants them speed, power, intelligence and courage. The last requisite is theirs for the relentless battle they have staged in the last two months of the American league race. But they must overhaul the Yanks in 10 days.

While an inferiority complex seemed to grip them in two-thirds of their conflicts with the Yankees, that means nothing in a series wherein they will meet an entirely strange team. The Philadelphia club has a smashing, straight-away attack, but it can be diversified suddenly and smartly.

Have the Punch.

The punch is there in abundance, particularly since Mack inserted the youthful Haas and Orwoll in the lineup a few months ago. These two players gave an excellent balance to the team in its relation to age and ability.

Connie Mack is a great manager, and gaze at the array of coaches on the club. While Mack's fine youngsters furnish the perspiration, Gleason, Collins, Cobb and Speaker supply the inspiration.

Weigh the pitching talent. Walberg is one of the great left-handers of the last 20 years. Rommel is the knuckleball king. Jack Quinn is the premier spit-ball pitcher today. Earnshaw, a big, clever and deceptive right-hander! Then there is Orwoll, who when not first-basing can step into the pitching role and do it real justice.

About Mr. Grove.

Now a few words about Robert Moses Grove, left-handed fire ball artist of all time, excepting Rube Waddell. Grove in his element furnishes something new and difficult in the way of speed.

The National league victors may contend that Grove is no tougher than Dazzy Vance, whom they have showered on occasions. But I think they may find a vast difference. Vance is gigantic, and takes a vigorous windup. Grove is slim and wiry and winds up with a deceptive ease that whangs the ball across the plate like a bullet.

The result is that batters are a fraction of a second late in timing and trying to make contact. Other pitchers go to the rubber; Grove, in the true sense of the word, goes to the firing line.

The Great Cochrane.

Last, but not least, Cochrane catches Grove, which makes it a near-perfect battery. In the last 10 years there may have been a better catcher than Cochrane, but I have not seen him. He is truly so much of a standout that he forces Perkins, a great catcher, into second-string duty.

The Mack fly-chasers list as follows: Simmons, Haas, Miller, Speaker, Cobb and French. There is an outfield and something left over. Foxx or Dykes at either first or third, and Bishop and Boley around the pivotal section! Then there are Hale, Hassler and Hauser for emergency.

A team more brimful of talent in world series togs cannot be assembled, unless one resorts to the all-star process of section. Frankly, I am prompted to give the Athletics a big chance to bowl over the opposition in any man's world series.

J. Farrell Eliminated By Youth

National Open Champion Is Beaten in Metropolitan P. G. A. Tourney.

Mamaroneck, N. Y., September 19. (AP)—Johnny Farrell, of Quaker Ridge, national open golf champion, was the third golfer of that title to be eliminated from the Metropolitan Professional Golfers' association championship, going down before youthful Tom Creavy of Bonnie Briar on the nineteenth hole in their third round match today. Two former open champions, Cyril Walker and Jim Barnes, were defeated in the first round yesterday.

With a strong wind blowing and rain half flooding the greens, good golf was impossible, but Creavy played surprisingly well under the conditions. Going out in 37, he reached the tenth hole four up on the champion only to have Farrell stage a rally and win five holes in succession. Creavy squared the match by winning the sixteenth and took the extra hole with a 5 to Farrell's six.

With the young Bonnie Briar pro in the semi-finals are Gene Sarazen, 1922 open champion, who defeated Henry Ciuci, of Mill River today, 2 up; Charley Mayo, Pomonok veteran, who eliminated Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, by the same margin, and Craig Wood, of Forest Hills, who put out Alex Watson, of Mount Kisko, by two and one.

JAKE SARTAINE TO OFFICIATE AT BOUT HERE

Jake Sartaine, member of the Atlanta police force and former heavyweight fighter, has been secured to referee the three principal matches on the fight program at the city auditorium Friday night, so Promoter S. C. Roby announced yesterday.

Since dropping his fight name of Jack Denham and his activities in the squared circle, Jake has had considerable experience as a referee. Both Promoter Roby and members of the Atlanta boxing commission are confident that he will give satisfaction in his work Friday night and that he will keep the rival fighters moving at a rapid clip.

"Fat" Elrod, who is a familiar figure at all athletic contests around town, has been retained as the official announcer and it is a matter of record that none of the fans will have any trouble keeping up with the progress of the matches and the identity of the fighters.

Sartaine will go into the ring with orders to tolerate no slowing up on the part of anyone of the scrappers. He will have full authority to stop any match and in addition members of the boxing commission will be on hand.

It is the general opinion among fans that Sartaine will have to toll the fatal count of 10 over more than one of the fighters on the Friday night program. Particularly does that belief apply to the 12-round main event, in which Clem Johnson and Roy Clark clash. They are heavyweights and will be put to a real test Friday night.

Speedy action and clever boxing is expected to result from the 10-round match involving Cecil Flowers, brother of the former middleweight champion of the world, and Battling Kennon. They are middleweights.

A grudge match is due when Kid Macon and Roy Dunn mix in the other 10-rounder on the program.

Charlie King and Charles Booker will meet in a six-round match and another bout of the same length is booked between Tiger Taylor and Cowboy Kid. A battle-royal will open the program.

Battle Still Rages In International Loop.

New York, September 19.—(United News.)—The Buffalo Bisons, with a record of 89 victories and 76 defeats, hold a half-game lead over Rochester in the International league pennant race.

Rochester has won 85 games and lost 73, and Toronto, in third place, two games behind Buffalo, has won 86 games and lost 77. As the International season comes to a close Sunday, September 23, it looks like a battle to the finish between the three leading clubs.

AN ALL-AMERICAN

BY BEN COTHRAN

As Mr. Tubby Walton, the sage of Whitehall street, so aptly expresses it, "Frost is drawing nigh and it's gettin' close to hog-killing time. The boys are forgettin' about the record their nine piled up this summer and they're talking about all-American players right now. So, buddy-boy, fall is nigh upon us."

Mr. Walton, who dispenses homely philosophy and cheeriness along with his home-cooked food down on Whitehall, was talking all-American talk himself last night while this correspondent was engaged in taking care of several oysters.

Ordinarily we care less than that about these all-star selections that flood the country at the end of every football season. We look upon it as a useless expenditure of type. However, this thing of Tubby's was different, and it's the first all-American of the year.

Tubby was speaking of the football team they're getting together out at the University School for Boys. In a few more lines we think you'll agree. The first string eleven, as it now shapes up, is represented by seven nationalities. First off, there's a center by the name of Theodocian, and a halfback named Zalumis whose ancestors helped create the beauty of ancient Athens. Then they have a hustling bundle of compact flesh at guard by the name of Braunstein. A big, bulky Irishman named Grogan operates from the position of half back.

Dutchman At End.

At one of the ends is a calm, cool Dutchman by the name of Jordon. Next to him is a tackle, Jacobson, a Swede. The other tackle is Jonier, a Frenchman. The United States is represented in the personages of Nix, guard, and Merrill Carpenter, quarterback, who are co-captains; Green, a tackle and Thaxton a full back.

And out of this cosmopolitan bunch, Flake Laird, so Tubby informs us, is molding a good football team. "They ain't very big," says Tubby, "but they're hustling. Fast. Just like a bunch of rabbits. They've got a hustling club out there and you ought to see 'em run. Those boys are liable to bust loose around here this fall with that all-American lineup they have. And if it ain't an all-American team, I've never seen one."

We were inclined to agree with Mr. Walton.

Preps Hard at Work

All of the preps have settled down to earnest endeavor on the practice field and it won't be long before they're raising their usual rumpus on the city grids. Tech High, Boys' High, University and G. M. A. seem to be the strongest of the town. An influx of tough, seasoned material at the College Park military institution has caused hope to rise anew in the breasts of the school's supporters.

The first game is set for Wednesday, September 26 when the Tech High Smithies open an ambitious schedule, playing Baylor, of Chattanooga. Tolbert's eleven faces a tough bunch of opponents this year as it usually does but he has a wealth of material on hand, the squad has been hard at it for some time and should have a successful year.

Shorty Doyal, at Boys' High, has a number of men trying for places on his squad and should turn out a strong team. Marist, Fulton High, Decatur and East Point are all hard at work and it looks like a good year for the lads who furnish the material for the grist-mill of college football.

Y-Church Loops Form Tonight

Basket ball teams sponsored by churches are invited to attend the meeting of the Y-Church Athletic association Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. when the leagues will begin formation.

With the large number of teams entered in the five baseball leagues with few exceptions returning for the indoor game, indications are that three eight-club loops will be formed.

Only teams sponsored by churches are eligible for membership in these leagues and to them an invitation is extended to join the association at this meeting.

Manager Signs.

Columbus, Ohio, September 19.—(United News.)—Manager Nemo Leibold, of the Columbus Senators, signed a contract today to manage the Columbus team for another year. The signing of the contract by Leibold ended the rumors that officials of the Cincinnati Reds, owners of the Columbus team, had planned to replace him.

PRINCETON IS LACKING IN RESERVES

BY EDWARD J. NEIL,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Princeton, N. J., September 19.—(AP)—The 50 candidates for Princeton's football eleven branched out today into the remnants of the west Indian hurricane and seemed scarcely aware of the swirls of sheet rain and biting wind, mean as the meanest football day on record. The husky youth of Princeton tackled, charged machines and dummies, hurled forward passes through the mist and even played a game of "touch" football.

Although Coach Bill Roper was not here to see it, the day provided his assistants a chance to work with flying footballs under the worst possible condition and flying footballs this season appear to be the major Princeton hope for another great eleven, for although good men will be available for every position, there is a decided lack of reserve material.

The team has lost Earl Baruch, quarterback last season, who could kick, pass, run and plan his attack with the best in the country. Although Baruch failed to return to College, Mike Miles, smashing defensive back, the brilliant Ed Wittmer and sturdy Jack Norman are back in Orange stripes. Phil Strubing can take Baruch's place but the reserve material, aside from Scarlett, Jones, Requardt and a big, rangy sophomore, Holmes Bennet, is unconvincing.

After only three days of practice the line is an even greater problem. Captain "Chuck" Howe, a great center last year, will play guard, with the center post left open to his former understudies, Caldwell and Taylor. Bill Barfield and Jack Whyte, varsity tackles, haven't appeared for practice yet. Whyte broke a wrist in a recent automobile accident. Again substitutes must make the grade in the tackles berths and fill the vacant guard post. Roper has two fine ends in Johnny Stinson and Newman Lawler, with plenty of reserves.

Not the least of Princeton's problems is a schedule that packs Cornell, Ohio State, Yale and Navy into the final month of the season. The Tigers, taking the first two in stride, must cut loose with everything they have against the Elis, and leave the battle with the Midshipmen resting on the laps of the football gods.

N. C. State Works Hard on Signals

State College, N. C., September 19. (Special.)—The 1928 North Carolina State college football varsity, which opens its season here on Friday, September 28, against Elon, will know its signals and plays, if nothing else.

That was the impression one gained today as Coaches Tebell, Slaughter and Sermon put the 50 candidates through a long signal drill. Workouts this week were cut down to only one a day, as upper classmen started their classwork. Scrimmages in the late afternoon are becoming a regular part of the program. The squad appeared today as having grasped the fundamentals of the game thoroughly. Spring practice put the players in good shape also.

Spear, Waddy Show Up Well In Line Play

Freshmen Begin Long Grind Under Tutelage of Clay; Large Squad Turns Out.

BY HERBERT CLARK.

The squad which is to bear the hopes of Georgia Tech on its brawny shoulders during the coming grid campaign had what may be termed another one of those sessions on their playground at the flats Wednesday afternoon, the coaches putting their charges through a stiff scrimmage, which lasted for almost two full hours.

The master minds were holding another laboratory session, and had every man on the squad in the fray in any number of combinations. The linemen were the big stars of the day. The two Franks, Waddey and Spear, who were holding down the right side of one of the best forward walls which took part, were breaking through and spoiling some perfectly good attempts at ground-gaining by the best the Jacket stable of backs has to offer with regularity. Coot Watkins, playing the other tackle on this line, was also a bugbear to ball-carriers, while his opponent, Vance Maree, managed to block several attempts at place-kicks which were tried after one of the touchdowns put across by the first string backfield during their stay in the game. This line-up of backs, the same as that which graced the list of starters in last year's forays, was able to get along quite well in spite of numerous failures due to too much strenuous opposition, and "Stumpy" and his co-partner in the stepping game, Warner Mizell, the "Miami speedster," put the pellet on the right side of the goal line after fooling around in the center of the field for a while. Mizell showed the best form of the day among the backs.

New Material.

After this first score, the regulars were taken off the field, though most of them made reappearances later. The powers used all the material at hand in formulating new combinations. The lines offered showed up rather weakly, due probably to lack of experience in playing together, since their composite parts have proved of first quality stuff in other company. The stands were alive with the name of little Buck Flowers in the last few moments before the final whistle blew when the graduate from the rat squad of last season put on an almost single-handed march of about 60 yards for a score on a fighting Black Devil line.

Up on Clay field about 90 members of the class of 1932 were consigning their souls and bodies to the gentle mercies of Coaches Robert Alva (Kid) Clay, Mack Tharpe and Roy Mundorff for the ensuing three months as the dead-line for the call-out of the yearlings was crossed yesterday. The fact that he has recently acquired a bride has not altered the temper of Mr. Clay. Nor that of the other groom, Mr. Mundorff. And Mack has not changed over-much. So the rats therefore caught a concentrated dose of poison.

Grass Drill.

Mack Tharpe, who is the physique builder on the upper field, started the boys off right with a stiff session of body breaking. The staff then got together and sent the squad through a drill consisting of running down a ball which had been tossed out on the sward and engulfing it in a potent clutch. Quitting time was announced after the freshmen looked sufficiently wornout.

The men at the helm for the Junior Jackets were well satisfied at the quantity of this first day's turn-out. The squad will not produce as heavy a team as that which reported at this time last year, but the powers plan on a light, fast outfit with plenty of fight, and express no doubt of their ability to fulfill this prophecy.

Birmingham and Memphis Resume Play-Off Today

Roy, Griffin Are Expected To Be on Slab

Scene of Series Shifts Friday to Memphis for Two More Encounters.

Birmingham, Ala., September 19.—(AP)—With Birmingham holding a one-game margin, the Barons and Memphis Chicks will resume their series here tomorrow to determine the winner of the Southern association championship, the winner to meet Houston of the Texas league for the unofficial southern crown.

Luther Roy, righthander, is due to hurl for Birmingham, while Clarence Griffin, southpaw, is regarded as certain to start for the Chicks.

Roy has been unusually effective in the Birmingham park this season, winning 18 games on the home lot without a single defeat.

The Chick lineup probably will be strengthened with the return of Manager Doc Prothro, who was out of yesterday's game with a charley-horse. Prothro is expected to go back to his place at third base.

Berger, catcher, also is expected to be in better condition for tomorrow's game, having been suffering with a boil on his throwing arm previous to the first tilt.

Birmingham is still minus the services of Big Bill Morrell, pitcher, but the regular starting lineup of the Barons will take the field behind Roy in tomorrow's game. With the exception of Prothro, the Memphis lineup also probably will be unchanged.

Following the game here tomorrow the two teams will entrain for Memphis where games are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. A coin will be tossed here tomorrow to determine where the fifth game will be played if the series goes to the limit.

Closest Race.

The International league race, the closest in the history of the organization, was featured two weeks before the finish by two clubs tied for second, Buffalo and Toronto, being only half a game behind the Rochester Red Wings in first place.

Miller's Body Here

The body of Walk Miller, nationally known manager of fighters and former mentor of the late Tiger Flowers, who died a violent death in New York last Sunday, was brought to Atlanta Wednesday and will lie in state all of today at the Awtrey and Loundes funeral parlors, according to Burt Miller, brother of the deceased promoter.

The funeral will take place Friday from the funeral home and burial will be in Crest Hill cemetery in the Miller lot. The final rites will be attended only by the family of the deceased and a few close friends.

VANCE STARS AS GREY SOX WIN AGAIN

With Vance in the pitcher's box hurling airtight baseball, the Atlanta Grey Sox handed the Cleveland Indians a 6-0 defeat at Spiller's field Wednesday afternoon.

The Sox hurler allowed the visitors only six scattered hits and was never in danger. His teammates hopped on the offerings of Williams for 12 bingles. Wednesday's victory gives the locals two straight wins over the Negro National league champs. The final game of the series will be played at the Dell this afternoon at 2:30.

Jones, at third base for the Sox, turned in a good day at the bat, his longest hit being a triple. The Grey Sox bunched hits in the first inning and tallied one run to take the lead which they never relinquished. Another was added in the fifth, three in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Atlanta .... 100 010 31x—6	12	2

Batteries: Cleveland, Williams and Charleston; Atlanta, Vance and Hayes.

Maybe.

Joe Dundee says he won't fight anyone for the championship ahead of young Jack Thompson, the negro welter who won by a knockout in a non-championship fight in Chicago.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS

Four in Two.

The East Lake Country club, in conjunction with Donald Ross, famous golf architect, has just finished solving the worst cross word puzzle in the history of the game. And it is solved thoroughly.

When the new 18-hole course at East Lake was proposed there arose the question of starting the new course at the clubhouse. The present lay of the ground with the clubhouse in the middle of the old course presented a huge problem for President Scott Hudson and his architects to fathom.

It would not be particularly convenient for the new course to be mapped out on the far side of the road that parallels No. 4 and necessitate a long walk to the first tee so they had to interweave the old and new layouts. It was necessary to build all 18 holes of the new course on the south side of the road that now bounds the course on the south and this course may be used as a unit if there is any necessity for separating the two courses from each other.

Under ordinary circumstances the two courses will be interwoven and both No. 1 tees and both No. 18 greens will be at the clubhouse or near it.

The plan is to play the course as follows: The new course will be started with No. 1 at the old No. 7. No. 2 will be No. 8 on the old course, No. 3 will be the present No. 4. Then all holes from 4 to 16 inclusive will be on the new ground across the road. No. 17 on the new plan will be the present No. 5 and No. 6 will be the home hole. A bridge will connect No. 6 green with the present bridge that goes from the clubhouse grounds to No. 7 tee.

The other course will begin at the present No. 1. Then will come the present No. 2 and 3 and the next five holes will be on the new layout across the road. No. 9 will come back to the present No. 9 and the last nine will be across the lake on the present site of the back nine.

Thus it is that Mr. Hudson and Donald Ross have made four golf courses in two. If it becomes necessary to shut off one of the courses for tournament play the old layout may be used as it now stands and all non-tournament play sent to the new course across the road.

The plan now is to have two sets of tees on both courses, one set making the courses from 6,100 to 6,300 yards in length and the other from 6,700 to 6,900 yards in length. With this arrangement the play will be alternated at different lengths on the two courses so that players may play either the long or the short course as they choose.

Clan McGraw Opens Crucial Series Today

St. Louis Cards, Two Full Games Ahead, Play Giants in Twin Bill at Polo Grounds.

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, September 19.—(AP)—Another crucial series was imminent in New York tonight—with rain a threat. Leading the Giants by two full games, the Cardinals were already upon the battleground, prepared to meet the Clan McGraw at the Polo Grounds tomorrow in a gala doubleheader which may go far toward deciding the ownership of the National league pennant for 1928.

Although the tension was not so great as 10 days ago when the veteran Cornelius McGillicuddy invaded the Ruppert Stadium to have it out with the Yankees, preparations were being made by club officials and police authorities for the greatest National league event in this city since the Pirates came to town to prove their case against the Giants late in August of 1925.

No all-night line was in prospect at the Polo Grounds, probably because the weather was inclement, and reserved seats were still to be had, but all club officials expected the historic baseball stadium to be "comfortably filled" at 1:45 o'clock tomorrow when the first game of the crucial doubleheader is started. The capacity of the Polo Grounds for a non-world series game is somewhere around 55,000.

Rain Threatening.

The threat of rain remained in the air tonight as the tail-end of the Florida hurricane blew itself out about the housetops after having swept the entire National league schedule into the discard this afternoon. Rain and cold might dampen the ardor of the fans considerably as it did back in 1919 on the second day of the famous Cincinnati-New York series, which consisted of three consecutive double-headers.

John McGraw was ready and waiting with Larry Benton and Joe Genewich, while Bill McKechnie was prepared to counter with Wee Willie Sherdel and old Alexander the Great—or perhaps the veteran, Clarence Mitchell, long famed as the only left-handed spit-baller in captivity and an arch-nemisis of the Giants.

If rain should force a postponement, which seemed not improbable this evening, the Giants and the Cards could lock horns twice on Friday, an open date in the schedule, and wind up the current segment of their series on Saturday as advertised. The Redbirds are to return here on Sunday, September 30, to close the season at the Polo grounds.

All American league clubs enjoyed an open date today and consequently the Yankees remained two games ahead of the Athletics and no doubleheaders were piled up. The National league, however, had every intention of playing four games in three cities and had to rearrange the schedule quickly when the baby hurricane descended upon the east.

The Boston Braves now face three double-headers in three days against the Cincinnati Reds, but the Braves would just as soon lose them in pairs as singly. Further rain in Boston would wash games permanently from the schedule of the rivals.

The Cub postponement in New York today probably will be played off next Thursday, when the Cubs return to the Polo grounds to complete their series. The Phillies already have announced a double-header with the Pirates for Saturday to make up for today's rain.

Giants Vow That They'll Beat Cards

Clan McGraw Ready To Do or Die in The Battle of Coogan's Bluff.

BY WALTER TRUMBULL.

New York, September 19.—From the New York Giants' clubhouse came this morning the sound of determined voices. The words, as caught by your correspondent, ran in some such manner as this:

"Ere the evening star tomorrow shall glisten on the brow of Coogan's bluff, either we have won a couple of battles or some more pitchers will have died in battle harness for John McGraw and Charlie Stoneham. And, moreover and most important, any iden, chance or probability of world's series dough will have vanished like a wisp of smoke, or the lady the master of magic locks in the trunk."

It seems as if New York this season has enjoyed just one crucial series after another. The crucial series between the Yankees and Athletics grew a bit less crucial after the tnird game, but this series between the Giants and St. Louis promises to be very crucial indeed. That double-header tomorrow should draw a great mid-week crowd.

Two Games.

It happens, as all you fans know, that the Giants and Cards now stand just two games apart, with the Cards occupying the front position. Could McGraw lead his young men to a glorious victory, or rather two victories, glorious or otherwise, tomorrow, the National league race would be closer than Damon and Pythias.

The chances are that the rest today didn't do the pitchers any harm, so they may be expected to be in there doing their best. Rain today was a bit of a relief. Rain tomorrow, from a New York angle, would be a catastrophe.

Yet, if they didn't need these games to pull even, the Giants might not be unduly joyful over the prospect of facing Sherdel and Alexander. Sherdel is a most annoying southpaw and I believe that Alexander might prove a trial to most batters pitching with either hand, or both.

Alexander Stubborn.

Alexander should rightfully have been in some old man's home or sailor's snug harbor these seasons past but is a stubborn old party with little consideration for others. For an open fire, slippers and a good book, he cares little or nothing. Instead of dozing gently in the western sunlight, he skips around in a manner ill befitting his years. He has, to be sure, a kind heart, frequently staying up and putting the youngsters to bed.

But he doesn't carry that kind-heartedness to the ball ground, unless, of course, I misjudge him and his real object in keeping runners off the bases is to see that they don't overexercise. Well, anyhow, he is likely to be out there tomorrow with his cap pulled low over one keen eye and a swelling in his cheek caused by that noxious weed known as tobacco.

At the most thrilling point of a world's series game the old gentleman once held the suspense by walking to the bench to borrow what he described as a "chaw." He then ambled back to the hill and, in a bored manner, struck out the batter.

Disrespectful Giants.

Still, these present Giants have no great respect for either southpaws or age. They even appear to think that they will drive Mr. Sherdel to the showers and go so far as to say that they will knock Mr. Alexander's block off. They are bold and brash young men. But they beat Grimes, and that was a feat in itself.

One thing which adds to the confidence of McGraw's players is that the Cards haven't been so terribly tough for them this year. Out of the 18 games between New York and St. Louis, the Giants have won 11. Tomorrow they expect to prove that 13 is a luck number.

Then, too, the Giants have Larry Benton to shoot against Alex the Great. Benton is fairly great himself. He is about the best looking pitcher McGraw has had since the days of Matty and Rube Marquard.

One thing the Giants would like to do before the Cards leave town is to beat that other relic, Clarence Mitchell. He has been spitting on the ball—not a cleanly habit in itself—and then heaving it left-handedly in such a manner as to make New York's noblest resemble a school of suckers. They feel that they owe him a great deal. Mitchell probably will pitch on Saturday and if anything befalls him between now and then the Giants hope it will be serious.

Suzanne Lenglen Hopes She'll Never See Racquet Again

Nice, France, September 19.—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen, the great woman tennis player, who turned professional in August, 1926, today renounced the game forever. She also took a flight at mongers of marriage rumors.

"I shall never play tennis again, either as an amateur or as a professional," she said. "I have completely given up the game and I do not care whether I ever see another racquet."

Baldwin Baldwin, grandson of E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin, of California, and Mlle. Lenglen returned a few days ago from an automobile trip to Germany. Their names have often been coupled in wedding gossip. On this subject she said today:

"Any true statement respecting marriage will be given to the newspapers by my family in the usual fashion, should I ever contemplate such a step."

Successful 1928 Football Season Is Seen in East

Many Good Teams Make Going Hard

Coach Roper, of Princeton, Gives Low-Down on Conditions in East.

BY W. W. ROPER.
Princeton Football Coach.
(Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

The 1928 football season in the east promises to be very successful, with plenty of high-grade teams supported by splendid individual players and excellent coaching.

The Army-Navy climax game will be missed, but in its place the Army plays Stanford in New York, while the Navy and Princeton meet in Philadelphia. This is the first time an eleven from the Pacific coast has come east, and the Stanford-Army game will give a pretty definite line on how much of a handicap the trip east is.

Yale has lost "Tad" Jones, much to everyone's regret. Jones was a great coach and had a splendid influence in the game. Yale and Pittsburgh had the best records in the east last fall, and both will have strong teams again this year.

Bruce Caldwell, who unfortunately was kept out of the Harvard and Princeton games, has been graduated. Captain Webster, who played a great game at guard for Yale, and Scott and Fishwick, two high-grade ends, also have been graduated.

Yale Nucleus.

As a nucleus Coach Stevens has Eddy, tackle and captain, and Charlesworth, a veteran center—two outstanding linesmen last year—with Hoben, a heavy quarterback, and Decker and Garvey in the backfield. As I see it, the greatest problem facing the Yale coaches is to develop two first-class ends.

Dr. Sutherland makes a practice of turning out strong teams at Pitt. This year should be no exception, even though Pittsburgh opens the season minus Gibby Welch, its outstanding player. Aleck Fox, captain and guard, is a stellar linesman. Parkington, fullback, and Edwards, quarterback, are veterans. While last year's Pitt team had a lot of seniors, the freshman team was unusually strong. Hood, from Bellefonte academy, will bear watching.

On paper Harvard seems to have better material than for several years. For the last two seasons Eddie Casey has been turning out high-grade freshman teams, having lost only one game in two years. This material, seasoned by a year or two of varsity experience, should make itself felt this year.

Good Players.

Captain French at halfback is a fine player. He is supported by Guarnaccia, Harper, Porter, Gilligan, last year's freshman quarterback from Exeter, and Batcheler, halfback on last year's yearlings, with a splendid record from Milton academy. I understand that Putnam, quarterback of two years ago, is eligible this fall. In the line Bell, last year's center, possibly may return. The line material doesn't look quite as seasoned as that in the backfield, but there is enough to make a first-class aggressive line.

Dartmouth has a great player in Marsters. Coach Hawley has lost McPhail and Lane, two backfield stars. Captain Black, at full back, has been handicapped in the past by a bad knee. With that all right he should play a great game.

Tuss McLaughry, with Lawson, the old Williams' head coach, who has charge of the line, starts his third season at Brown. Of the veteran "iron men" of two years ago, Cornsweet, captain and fullback; Kavorkin, guard, and Faber, tackle, are left. McLaughry tells me he has a lot of willing sophomores, and I am sure Brown will get out of last year's remarkable jinx and be heard from.

Tuft's Record.

Last fall, of the smaller New England colleges, Tufts had a remarkable record. It was the only team in the country, so far as the records show, to play through the season undefeated or untied. Coach Sampson has lost the bulk of his line, but retains Ellis, an outstanding quarterback, and one or two other good backs.

Last year Wesleyan won the "Little Three championship" from Amherst and Williams. Bill Wood, the coach, is hopeful he will repeat.

Charlie Caldwell, fullback on the Princeton team for three years, is coaching Williams. "Dad" White is back at Amherst.

The Navy seems to be shaping up one of the strongest teams in the east. Bill Ingram is back at the helm. The middies miss Hannigan and Ransford. Captain Burke, at guard, played a great game last fall and unless the responsibilities of his position affect him this year, he should do even better. Lloyd, at end or halfback, is one of the outstanding players of the east.

Army Material.

The Army also has a wealth of veteran material. Harry Wilson is gone, but there are a lot of other good backs to take his place. Sprague, tackle and captain, is the outstanding Army lineman.

I know of no team in the country playing a more colorful schedule than the Army. Yale, Harvard, Notre Dame, Nebraska and Stanford touch pretty much every section of the country. Coach "Biff" Jones faces a real test in keeping the Army team fit for its grueling schedule.

Columbia is an unknown quantity. Charlie Crowley is a splendid coach. If his material comes through he will produce a strong team. Dobie, at Cornell, has been handicapped for the last two or three years by lack of time and inexperienced material. Cornell is likely to stage a comeback, and no one is better qualified than Dobie to get results.

Syracuse and Colgate have outstanding teams. Both have excellent prospects. Hugo Bezdek had a good team at Penn State last fall, and should have a better one this year.

No Reserve at Princeton.

At Princeton we have some first-class first string material, but few capable substitutes. Of last year's eleven, Captain Howe, center; White and Barford, tackles, and Stinson and Lawler, ends, are back. Our problem is to get two guards. In the backfield, Miles, Ed Wittmer and Norman are available. Baruch, quarterback, has left college. Strubing, who alternated with Baruch, is back. Bennett, halfback on last year's freshman team, who comes from Kiski, will be tried at quarter.

The Princeton schedule is a hard one. We have departed from our time-honored custom, and meet the Navy after the Yale game. This is an experiment, and I have no idea how it will work out.

Prospects are rosy at the University of Pennsylvania. Coach Young has a great player in Captain Paul Scull, a hard running halfback, and the best drop-kicker in this section of the country. In western Pennsylvania, W. & J. loses Amos, a great back. Carnegie Tech had a championship freshman team last year, and should be strong this fall.

ANDY PAYNE SAVES HIS DOUGH

Bunion Derby Winner Turns Deaf Ear to Those Who'd Help Him Spend His $25,000 Prize Money; Prefers to Work on Dad's Farm and Await Chance to Make More Coin.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Constitution.

Foyil, Okla., September 19.—Although it has been more than three months since he won C. C. Pyle's transcontinental foot race, Andrew Payne, of here, still has intact the $25,000 he was awarded for first place. He still has this money despite the numerous offers he had had from business men both in and out of the state to double or triple his money by fortunate investments.

Even though Andy will not be 21 years of age until November 17, and has some Indian blood running through his veins, no one has appeared in court asking to be appointed his legal guardian.

The town of Claremore, located eight miles from the Payne home, is the home of famous radium baths. One hotel offered Andy his meals free if he would make the hotel his headquarters, while the operator of one of the bathhouses urged him to accept 21 free baths.

But to all of these importunities, Andy has turned a deaf ear, waiting until he became of legal age so there would be no question as to his right to spend the $25,000 he won by racing 3,000 miles.

Andy spent the summer on his father's farm, helping with the farm work and tapering off from his strenuous race. His trainer, Tom Young, has been with him constantly.

While Payne is spending more time with farm work and less with his running, there is every indication that the sport world will hear of him again soon for both C. C. Pyle and Tex Rickard have visited him and talked over plans for this fall and winter.

Among the possibilities that may develop are demonstrating before high school and college audiences, touring the country and challenging local runners and challenging winners of the Olympic races.

For the present at least Andy is not considering entering college, although he has had numerous invitations. He believes that his greatest future lies in the direction of foot racing and he intends to stick with it for a while.

Abe Mitchell Out of Tourney

Stoke Poges, England, September 19.—(AP)—Abe Mitchell, famous long distance hitter of the British links, who was favored to win the tournament, was today's victim of another of the series of upsets that have marked the "News of the World" golf tournament here. In the second round Mitchell bowed to an unknown professional, Isherwood, of Warrington, by a margin of two up and one to play.

Mitchell is the fifth noted British pro in the meet to fall in the first two rounds of the event, for which prizes aggregating 1,040 pounds, or about $5,200, are given. In the first round yesterday George Duncan, Harry Vardon, Arthur Havers and Len Holland were eliminated.

Mitchell played indifferent golf on the first nine while his opponent was flashing a great game. Isherwood required only one putt on each of the first six greens, while Duncan putted poorly enough to miss a two-footer at the ninth. The Warrington pro was four up on Mitchell at the turn. On the incoming nine the veteran played a better brand of golf, but was unable to overcome Isherwood's lead.

Victorian Home First In Classic

Whitney's 3-Year-Old With Maiben Up Beats Out Crusader at Havre de Grace.

New York, September 19.—(AP)—Autumn came to the turf with the opening of the Maryland racing season at Havre De Grace today and furnished an opportunity for Harry Payne Whitney to score an impressive series of triumphs. Victorian, Whitney's flashy three-year-old winner of the Preakness, scored an easy win in the feature event, the classic, valued at $2,500, leading the five-year-old Crusader by five lengths.

The Whitney colt, the favorite, made his own race on the heavy rain-swept track and drew away easily when Crusader made his bid at the top of the stretch. Crusader barely lasted to beat out Sun Beau for the place. Johnny Maiben had the leg up on Victorian.

The Whitney stable and Maiben also accounted for the second race when Zoom came up to win in the closing strides from Shipmaster and for one second and two third places in the first, third and fifth races. Maiben rode all three horses.

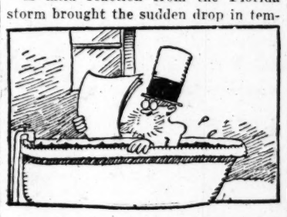

George Hidenberg's Calwick accounted for the Oakdale handicap, $3,000 added, at Aqueduct, coming from behind in the final furlong at the six-furlong event. The Son of Westwick and Calistoca was nursed along back of the pace and had plenty left to beat Chatford by two lengths at the finish. Moonsun took third.

The unexpected victory of Skipaway in the second race at Bainbridge furnished the only feature of the western tracks. Skipaway came home first in the six-furlong dash and paid his backers $71.70 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

First Cold Snap Sounds Knell Of '28 Straws

The season's first cold snap, which sent the mercury to a low mark of 50 degrees early Wednesday, will moderate today under bright and sunny skies, according to the forecast Wednesday night of the government weather bureau here.

A mild reaction from the Florida storm brought the sudden drop in temperature Tuesday night, which was attended by brisk gales with a winter edge to them.

Summer straws and light-weight suits gave way to the fall wind. Merchants throughout the city Wednesday reported a quickened trade in seasonal attire, including such items as felt hats and topcoats.

From a start of 50 degrees, the low mark this fall, the temperature rose Wednesday to 74, while today's extremes will go several degrees above these figures, the forecast says.

Light winds prevailing Wednesday are expected to moderate today. Although the weather bureau declines to predict more than a day ahead, there are excellent prospects for several days of fine weather, it was said.

GROUP "B" FLIERS IN BIG AIR DERBY FILE OBJECTIONS

Los Angeles, September 19.—(AP)—While officials of the national air races were busy today devising plans for future transcontinental airplane derbies and preparing to bid goodbye to the fliers in the Los Angeles-Cincinnati derby beginning tomorrow, the only thorn that grew out of the national meet last week still stuck with them.

The protest of a group of aviators who participated in the class B race of the transcontinental air derby from New York to Los Angeles has not been decided.

The fliers objected to several planes in the race, claiming they were of a construction that gave superior speed advantages. A committee began an immediate investigation but thus far has not announced its findings. Final official standings in the race meanwhile remain in doubt.

Plans are under way to hold at least two transcontinental derbies to Los Angeles each year, on dates that would not conflict with the national air races.

Announcement of these plans were made as a score of aviators prepared to hop off in the Cincinnati derby. Class A planes take the air at 5 o'clock Thursday morning from Mines field and at 6 o'clock Friday morning the class B racers will hop. Entrants in the nonstop flight may leave any time Friday or Saturday.

HERE'S EXHIBIT "A" FOR NATIONWIDE LAWS ON DIVORCE

Columbus, Ohio., September, 19—(AP)—An extradition case involving marriage and divorce laws of five states was heard for the second time today by S. P. Dunkle, executive secretary of Governor Donahey.

California officials wish to take Charles Heflinger of Toledo to Los Angeles where he is charged with bigamy on complaint of Mrs. Clelia Heflinger. She testified today that Heflinger had been married in St. Louis, Mo., but he obtained a divorce in Virginia and married her eighteen days later in Baltimore. They were divorced in Richmond, Va. soon afterward on the grounds that the first divorce was not effective because of limitations fixed by Virginia law.

The two met again in Georgia where she became his wife in common law marriage, Mrs. Heflinger said.

He then left her and was married in Pasadena, Calif. for the fourth time. She charges Heflinger committed bigamy in California.

The case was before the governor four months ago, but the defendant was released in common pleas court at Toledo on a writ of habeas corpus.

JACK DEMPSEY TELLS OF HIS EXPERIENCES BEFORE FOOTLIGHTS

BY WALTER TRUMBULL.
(Copyright, 1928, by The North American Newspaper Alliance and The Constitution)

New York, September 22.—Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor opened here in their fight play recently and naturally Jack did a little work for his Broadway appearance. He did not, however, do his rehearsing at the theater. He did it at Stillman's gymnasium.

When I found him he was sitting on a rubbing table, dressed in the long tights he always has worn in training, and Jerry the Greek was removing the wrappings from those iron fists which had carried the greatest socker of them all to the heavyweight championship of the world.

"I've just been doing a little shadow boxing and punching the light and heavy bags a little. This actor's life," said Dempsey with that contagious grin of his, "is wearing. The show lasts pretty late and then you want something to eat before you turn in, and the result is you never get to bed before midnight and sleep late in the morning. A fellow can't keep in very good condition for a big fight that way."

"How has the show been going?" I asked him.

Show Business Is Okay.

"All right," he answered, "but there is a lot still to be done to it. Mr. Belasco only had a chance to rehearse us for two weeks and there will be more changes before he gets it running right. Mrs. Dempsey's got a tough part. She is great in what they give her to do, but this is a fight show and there isn't a real part in it for her. You know," added Jack, as he held those powerful shoulders for Jerry to drape a bathrobe over them, "Mrs. Dempsey has starred in the movies, but she never had but 16 weeks' stage experience."

Jerry the Greek took a towel and wiped the perspiration from the strong brown neck and black hair as gently and carefully as ever he did when the man who to him is always "The Champ" was training to battle for his crown.

After he figured that Jack had cooled out sufficiently, Jerry stripped off Dempsey's gymnasium suit and began to rub and knead those long, smooth muscles. I was struck again, as always, by the magnificent proportions of that big, tapering body. Dempsey has the finest build I ever saw, and he looks every inch the fighting man. Moreover, he has kept himself in shape.

Has Real Battle.

"I have to," he told me. "This fight scene in 'The Big Fight' isn't rehearsed and with these two boys I have now I have a real battle every night. One of them goes along fairly easy, but the other one swings from the ankle and sometimes I have to sock him in self defense. We use big gloves, but the other night I cut his mouth and he had to have three stitches taken in his eye."

"Please move a little," said Jerry. "This linament I put on the champ now—it stain the clothes."

"Don't you have to take a knockdown in the fight scene?" I asked Dempsey as I moved a little and Jerry continued his rubbing.

"Well," said Jack, "that depends. I don't want to be an actor. I just want to be natural and that's what Mr. Belasco wants me to be—just myself. So if I get a little tired I take the knockdown. If I don't I just step around and mix it. I get too interested sometimes. I didn't mean to cut that boy's eye, but he hit me in the nose and I socked him. He gets excited and trys to make a real fight of it. 'Do you want to get killed?' I asked him the other night. 'You better go down,' I told him."

Jerry by now had finished his ministrations and Dempsey prepared to climb into his gray suit, but there came a knock on the dressing room door. This proved to be Ben Golomb, who had come to fit the red and black fighting pants which Dempsey wears in the show. They proved a bit snug and Mr. Golomb departed to make alterations.

No Stage Fright.

"Do you ever get stage fright?" I asked Jack.

"No," he said. "After climbing into a ring before fight crowds, you don't mind the comparatively few persons in a theater. Besides, I always feel that some of them are my friends and the only thing I'm afraid of is that I won't make good for them. Then, I guess my experience in vaudeville helped me. The hardest thing about the theater is the lines you have to speak. They tell me that I'm doing all right and that everybody out in front can hear me, but you know that most of my life has consisted of action rather than words."

"One thing about this stage work," he added, "is that it keeps you busy. A man has to have something to do, something to occupy his time, or he just rusts and falls to pieces. I don't care about money, beyond what you need to live comfortably, and I don't care for society. I never am comfortable balancing a tea cup on my knee and I notice that most society people want to feel your muscle, just like the rest. I just want friends I understand and who understand me, and enough to do so that I can keep my mind and body in condition. Friends may be highbrows or roughnecks, rich or poor, but you don't think of that. You just think that they're friends, and you like to be around with them."

As Dempsey said that he closed his fist reflectively and I thought to myself that it was a marvel that the managers of the show had got anyone who would stand up the length of time the scene required. As a matter of fact, they did lose one large squad of sparring partners.

Hardest Thing About Job.

"The hardest thing about acting," said Jack, "is not to forget that you are only a character in the play. I have to watch myself. When that guy proposes that I throw the fight I feel sometimes as if I am not the actor, but the fighter, Jack Dempsey, and I feel like taking a poke at him. The lines call for me to speak roughly to him and sometimes I catch myself starting to call him names that wouldn't go before a theater audience. It's the same way in the fight. I have to remember that I'm the hero, not the heavy. I'm supposed to get the sympathy, and what sympathy do I get if I give the audience the idea that I am a big, tough fellow, pushing around some poor guy who hasn't a chance?"

Here Jack indulged in some pretty sound philosophy.

"It's been that way in life," he said. "I always have tried to be gentle and soft spoken, because I knew that physically I was stronger and tougher than most men. I never wanted to be taken for a big bully. I never found that it cost anything to smile and people like you when you smile. They don't think of you as a big rough fellow. They like you. "I suppose," Jack went on, continuing his train of thought, "that same thing accounts for my being pretty tough in the ring. When I got in there I didn't have to be careful. I could work off all that energy. I could let myself go. There are only two things to do in a ring—fight or run. You are worked up and nervous and ready to go. I always was glad to hear the bell ring. Then I could cut loose."

Crowd Swarms in.

Dempsey had completed dressing by this time and was ready to go. The proprietors of the gymnasium were ready to show him a round-about way to the stairs, but the moment the dressing room door opened there was a rush by the crowd which is always on hand to see the men training there go through their work.

Jack took your correspondent by the arm and beat this throng of admirers off the mark, but it didn't do him much good. The stairs were packed from top to bottom and the pack was closing in from the rear. We went through the mob on the stairs in football formation.

"Hello, Jack," they cried. "Hello, champ."

"Hello, how's aboy?" he called back as he pushed his way to his waiting car.

The car started, but a traffic signal stopped it at the corner. Then the crowd surrounded it in a surging wave. Workmen working on the ditch which so long has ornamented Eighth avenue, dropped their tools. Ragged kids climbed on the running boards and stretched small, grimy hands through the half opened windows. Dempsey shook as many of those hands as he could. Older hands, many stained with toil, came through the windows. It was a reception.

"Just shake hands, champ!" countless voices begged.

Here was a king in the midst of his retainers. Dempsey smiled and waived as a mounted policeman came galloping up to see what the riot was about and the car started again.

"They are all good people," said Dempsey. "They don't forget you. They may not all wear neckties, but what of that? If it hadn't been for a couple of breaks of luck, I might have been swinging a pick myself."

And so he drove away, "the greatest drawin' card," as Mr. Tex Rickard frequently and emphatically has stated, "in this here world."

Another of Byrd Vessels To Sail For Pole Today

Norfolk, Va., September 19.—(AP)—The winged armada of the Byrd Antarctic expedition heads for the South Pole tomorrow.

Safely stored in the hold of the whaler Larsen the four planes with which Commander Byrd expects to wrest the secrets of the frozen continent were ready for the long sea voyage to the great ice barrier. The Larsen was to weigh anchor at 7:30 and head for Dunedin, New Zealand, stopping only at San Pedro, Cal., where the commander will come aboard.

With the fury of the tropical hurricane abated the gigantic whaler docked shortly after noon today and loading began. All afternoon and into the night the big hoisting cranes creaked as crate after crate swung upwards to the deck and waiting sailors. The planes were securely packed at the naval air station under the personal direction of Commander Byrd to insure protection against the elements.

With the planes sail Bernt Balchen, Harold I. June and C. Dean Smith, who will pilot them over the frozen regions. The three men were here, there and everywhre as the loading was in progress, following the long arm of the crane as it grappled crates weighing thousands of pounds and swung them upwards with tireless energy. Under their eyes the work was accomplished without a hitch.

Bobbing about on the other side of the pier from which the Larsen will sail was the little freighter Eleanor Bolling, named in honor of Commander Byrd's mother. Already loaded with six hundred tons of supplies, mostly foodstuffs, the gallant little vessel that rode out the West Indian hurricane Tuesday night expected to take on what was left by the Larsen before weighing anchor to follow in the trail of adventure.

SMITH SUPPORTER PRIMARY WINNER IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, September 19.—(AP)—Tabulation of returns showed today that the largest primary vote on record in Massachusetts was cast yesterday when both major political parties nominated their candidates for office. The total vote exceeded 640,000 as compared with the previous high figure of 475,000 set in the primary of 1925.

Benjamin Loring Young, former speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives, won the republican nomination for United States senator in the principal contest of the primary. He defeated his closest competitor, Eben S. Draper, of Hopedale, by approximately 21,000 votes. Young will oppose Senator David I. Walsh, who was unopposed for the democratic nomination in the November election.

Lieutenant Governor Frank G. Allen defeated Frank A. Goodwin, former registrar of motor vehicles, by almost 100,000 votes for the republican nomination for governor.

Lieutenant Governor Allen will be opposed for governor by General Charles H. Cole, who overwhelmingly defeated John J. Cummings, of Boston, for the democratic nomination. General Cole, an original supporter of Governor Smith for president, attributed his large vote to enthusiasm of Massachusetts voters toward the democratic presidential nominee.

CONVENTION TRIP FUND FOR WALLIS VETOED BY MAYOR

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Wednesday vetoed a measure sent to him by city council and the aldermanic board providing $150 for I. L. Wallis, superintendent of parks and playgrounds, to attend the annual convention of park officials to be held in New Jersey. Other papers which came before the mayor for his approval were sanctioned.

Net Battle Starts Today In Chicago

Scene Shifts From East as International Stars Go to Windy City.

Chicago, September 19.—(AP)—The 1928 international tennis warfare that heretofore has been confined to the east and Europe will flare up tomorrow at the Chicago Town and Tennis club, when the ranking players of the nation and Australia clash in the opening round of the intersectional team championships.

In addition to furnishing the international phase to the tournament, the Australian quartet of Crawford, Cummings, Hopeman and Moon is picked as one of the chief obstacles to stop the national double champions of George Lott and John Hennessey from winning the championship. Another team that may spoil the well laid plans of Lott and Hennessey is John Van Ryn, the former Princeton net ace, and Gregory Mangin, whose playing has been one of the sensations of the eastern tournaments this year. Van Ryn and Mangin will represent the Eastern Lawn Tennis association while Lott and Hennessey will play under the colors of the Western association.

Lott and Hennessey meet the Texas representatives of James Quick, Louis Thalheimer and Wilmer Allison in the opening matches with the other first day match bringing together the Australians and the southern hopes of Donald Cram and D. K. Murray, Jr., ranking southern racket wielder.

300 EMORY FRESHMEN WILL ASSEMBLE TODAY

About 300 freshmen will assemble on the Emory university campus this morning to begin a week of orientation into college life. This period, which precedes the regular session, permits the freshmen to become thoroughly acquainted with his new mode of living before the arrival of upper classmen.

The entire morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, will be devoted to making pictures of the new men, preparatory to the instituting of a new system of class organization, in which the professor is given photographic likenesses of each of the students in his class, along wth the class roll. It is a sort of "rogues' gallery" scheme, designed to prevent a student from answering to an absent person's name.

This afternoon the freshmen will assemble in the theology chapel for general instructions, which will include grouping of them alphabetically. At 2 o'clock registration of all new men will take place. This part of the freshman's week heretofore has been last on the program.

President Harvey W. Cox tonight will fete the new men at his home on Clifton road, in the form of a lawn reception. This is an annual affair for freshmen and seniors.

On Friday, Saturday and Monday a lecture series will be given the new men by the various members of the faculty. An appropriate program has been arranged for Sunday.

MORRIS BROWN OPENS WITH BIG ATTENDANCE

Morris Brown university opened for the fall term Wednesday with large enrollment of students from a number of states, South America and Africa.

The opening exercises were conducted in the university chapel by Bishop W. A. Fountain, A. M., Ph. D., who is the chancellor of the university system of the A. M. E. church in Georgia. Ministers and members of the denomination in the state were urged to give financial support to the educational work of the system.

Professor G. A. Singleton, A. M., B. D., dean Turner Theological seminary; Professor W. W. Jackson, A. M., Ph. D., dean college department; Dr. S. Giles, School of Theology, and others, made addresses.

Several new teachers from the best universities in this country have been added to the faculty. Dr. W. A. Fountain, Jr., A. M., S. T. B., Ph. D., of Chicago, Ill., was elected president of the board of trustees to succeed Dr. J. H. Lewis, who leaves for California.

Plans adopted by the trustees to perfect a financial drive to clear the institution of debt were approved by Bishop Fountain. Addresses in this connection were made by Dr. W. F. Boddie, M. D.; Professor C. H. Harroll, state worker among the A. C. E. leaguers; Dr. W. H. Harris, M. D., treasurer of the university system, and Dr. J. W. E. Linder, M. D.

3 NEGROES JAILED, CONFESS ROBBERY OF L. C. MATTHEWS

Three negroes, suspected of attacking and robbing L. C. Matthews, of 653 Pierce street, Tuesday afternoon, were arrested by police Wednesday and have made a full confession of the crime, according to detectives.

Special Officer R. H. Cleveland saw the negroes in an automobile at Butler and Cain streets and gave chase in his car, catching them on Hunt street, near Merritts. He recognized them on a "tip" given him by friends of the alleged bandits. At headquarters they gave their names as James Pope, living in the rear of 323 Merritts street; Earnest Shoats, of 182 Courtland street, and Joe Evans, of 313 1-2 Tanner street. Detectives W. W. Ford and W. D. McGee are conducting a further investigation upon the theory that the trio may have been involved in several other thefts.

Matthews, an employee of a local real estate company, was attacked, choked into insensibility and robbed of $300 as he entered a vacant house on Yonge street near Edgewood avenue.

BURLINGTON TRAIN HITS AUTOMOBILE, KILLING 3 PERSONS

Spokane, September 19.—(AP)—Three persons were killed last night when a through Burlington train from Chicago crashed into their automobile in a suburb here. Those killed were John Stall, 76, Valley Ford, Wash.; Kate Stall, his wife, and Lloyd Stall, 32, their son.

New York, September 19.—(AP)—A further decline in the cotton market early today was followed by sharp advances on covering and trade buying. December contracts sold up from 17.28 to 17.69, and closed at 17.67, the general market closing strong at net advances of 27 to 32 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 3 to 11 points. Active months sold about 9 to 12 points net lower in early trading under continuation of the recent selling movement. This appeared to find additional inspiration in the relatively easy showing of Liverpool, reports of good weather in the south outside the eastern belt storm area, and reiterated talk of an easing spot basis.

October Declines.

October declined to 17.31 and March to 17.20, new low ground for the movement, but at these figures, the volume of offerings tapered off and a steadier tone developed. No particular news feature was emphasized in connection with the rally which followed, but hedging was much less in evidence after early offerings had been absorbed, and this was considered partly responsible for the covering movement which became active in the late trading.

October advanced to 17.72 and March to 17.63, net advances of 29 to 32 points on active positions. The close was within a point or two of the best.

Weekly Report.

The weekly report of the weather bureau was referred to by local traders as very closely in line with expectations and appeared to be without much effect on the market. Buying on the afternoon advance, however, may have been influenced to some extent by reports that the eastern belt storm must have lowered the grade of considerable cotton and probably caused some damage, while there was also some bullish comment on a private report estimating that there had been a net loss in crop prospects since September 1 of between 100,000 and 150,000 bales.

Private cables said hedging and liquidation had been absorbed by scale-down buying in Liverpool and there was rather a better business in cotton cloths for India, with improved demand for yarns.

Exports today 11,450, making 699,063 so far this season. Port receipts 35,562. United States port stocks 715,167.

COTTON RALLIES; CLOSE IS HIGHER.

New Orleans, September 19.—(AP)—After declining 16 to 19 points on lower Liverpool cables than due and reports of fair weather over most of the belt the cotton market here today rallied sharply and closed at net gains of 17 to 23 points.

Covering by shorts and trade buying stimulated by heavy rains in the eastern belt and poor crop reports from the interior were assigned as the reasons for the advance. The market closed steady at or near the highs.

Liverpool was 2 to 4 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of 11 to 13 points. Prices continued to ease off until October dropped to 16.51, December to 16.63 and January to 16.64, 15 to 19 points below the previous close.

When the weather map was posted showing more general rains in the eastern belt than at first reported shorts began covering and there was considerable trade buying.

Prices began to climb and they continued on the upgrade to the end, making new highs at 16.90 for October, 17.03 for December and 17.04 for January, 39 to 40 points above the lows. The close was at or near the highs with October at 16.87, December 17.01 and January at 17.04.

Port receipts 34,987, for week 238,988, for season 975,746, last season 1,334,795. Exports 11,459, for week 141,773, for season 666,988, last season 732,484. Port stocks 720,423, last year 1,475,586. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Houston and Galveston 73,566, last year 71,821. Spot sales at southern markets 57,142, last year 48,447.

STOCK OPINIONS.

Fenner & Beane: Market weakening as money rates advance. Coppers strong and worth buying.

Prince & Whitley: Think the rails show prospects of moving up again.

Hornblower & Weeks: Would continue to follow the special opportunities which in a market as big as this are always present in trading sense.

NEW YORK TELEGRAM.

New York, September 19.—One of the excuses for the large turnover in Yellow Truck was the announcement by a subsidiary, General Motors Truck company, that it is introducing a new line of Buick-powered trucks in 23 base sizes and four capacities, ranging from one and a half tons to four tons.

According to Frank Phillips, head of the Phillips Petroleum company, an increase in the price of crude in many districts is justified in comparison with refined prices. The oil industry is not yet out of the woods, he says, a condition apparent both in the improved gasoline prices and the minor mid-continent crude market adjustment made in July.

NEW YORK POST.

New York, September 19.—The sharp rise in Freeport Texas was generally regarded as reflecting the usual running-in of a large short interest which has become more or less customary with approaching dividend meetings. Only two weeks ago the issue was under heavy pressure of speculative selling based on reputed fears regarding maintenance of the extra dividends due to reported contraction in earnings. Directors meet tomorrow and it appeared today that many who had sold the stock for a decline on such reports were not quite so sure today.

Crude oil production of Seminole area totaled 315,128 barrels in 24 hours ended 7 a. m. September 19, against 303,603 for previous day.

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, September 19.—(Special).—Today's market yielded moderately to three successive increases in the call money rate which opened at 7% and closed at 8%. General American Tank, which we have been favoring for some time, moved vigorously against the trend, being at one time eight points higher for the day, although profit taking absorbed about half of this advance.

Coppers were strong on indications of continued buying, particularly for export at the new price of 15c causing expectations of a further advance of 3c a pound within the next two weeks. We continue to recommend Kennecott, Nevada, Granby and other sound coppers for immediate purchase irrespective of the general action of the market.

Temporary declines in Barnsdall and Independent Oil and Gas provide further buying opportunity for those who have not taken full advantage of earlier recommendations.

South Porto Rico Sugar was also strong through the session, closing near the high of the day. We feel that a substantial advance in this stock which was under way last week, has been merely temporarily interrupted by the hurricane news, and will be resumed as soon as the unimportance of the latter to the company has been fully digested.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—The stock market gave rather a surprising exhibition of strength in certain sections in the face of a rise in call money rates from the renewal rate of 7 per cent to 8½ per cent in the afternoon. Naturally, this high money caused considerable irregularity and a good many stocks were down on the day but nevertheless there was a good demand for all leading issues at all times and quite a few important issues made new highs, including Atlantic Refining, Columbia Gas and Fleischmann. The steels were down slightly with United States Steel closing at 156¾, off 1¼. Selling in this group was due partly to market conditions and partly to statements in the Iron Age that while incoming business in the steel and iron industry were holding up well, prices of finished steel products were again showing some irregularity despite the strength in pig iron and scrap. For a time New Haven behaved exceedingly well and it was said that the buying in this stock was of an excellent character.

H. & B. BEER.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—There is so much talk about caution and lightening up commitments and reactions, accompanied at the same time by advices to buy particular issues, that the average reader of a market letter must sometimes wonder what it is all about. If possible, we want to clarify our present position. For the very long pull we feel that all of the companies whose shares are recommended in these wires are facing favorable conditions. There are many developments that in course of time should justify higher prices. We also feel that after perhaps six months easier money conditions will prevail. There are many big traders who are forced to consider the income tax question in making their commitments and who look at least two years ahead. We do not find that they are selling their good stocks bought at various times since 1921, nor do we find that they are hesitating about making new commitments where the individual situation justifies. It should be clear that people who were overcautious at various times in the last few years lost positions that would have meant actually hundreds of points of future profits.

The point we want to bring out is that the term "caution" as used here is merely relative. We think that people were justified in carrying more stocks last June than they are today. That is about as far as it goes. The market has really stopped going up and is packing and filling since the first of the month. It probably will continue to do this for another two weeks and then perhaps we might get a rather sharp setback. Experience has shown that practically no one can consistently anticipate these reactions, liquidate stocks, feel the beginning of a turn and recover a long pull position. Consequently, the practical way is to vary the proportion of stocks carried to equity in accordance with the risks involved and the profit possibilities.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, September 19.—Trade buying in considerable volume proved the surprise of the day and gave the market a good rally in the afternoon when the average trader was looking for further decline from the late hedging operations. This buying is said to have caught most ring traders short and forced them to cover.

Previous to the appearance of this trade buying the market was inclined to sag and made new lows for the season in New Orleans.

Liverpool sent over cables saying that there was good buying in that market on a scale down. Later in the day an eastern bureau issued a report saying that its information pointed to a shrinkage of at least 150,000 bales in the crop outlook this month. The weekly review told of many bad spots in the south and indicated belief that the storm in the east had taken a considerable toll of the crop in that section. Some wires sent out from New York expressed the belief that crop ideas there were changing and that many now looked for a reduction next month.

The trade seems to be paying more attention to bad crop reports owing to the near approach of the census report, because of the possibility that it will make a very bullish showig.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orleans, September 19.—(Special.)—The cotton market averaged lower in early session as result of easier cables than due and because of the government's weekly weather and crop review being considered favorable as a whole, for while returns for the South Atlantics were generally unfavorable, the central and western belts fared better than the eastern belt, but values bulged sharply in afternoon. Liverpool cabled: "Hedge selling. London and continental liquidation. Some scattered buying." Manchester reports rather more cloth sold to India. Improved demand for yarns. New York advised cotton goods were steady yesterday, with demand for gray cloths quieter. More business developed on fall flannels and blankets and printed lines for the fall trade. The local weather bureau reported: "Heavy to excessive rains fell in the Carolinas and light in the central or western belts over night and the forecast for tonight and Thursday is generally fair for the major portion of the belt."

There was considerable rain in eastern Georgia overnight and heavy to torrential rains in North and South Carolina. Numerous stations reported about three to nearly nine inches, which was undoubtedly unfavorable to the growing crop and open cotton in those important states.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—After a period of easiness during the forenoon in response to lower cables and generally favorable weather, cotton disclosed an oversold condition during the afternoon advancing about 40 points on buying by the trade and spot interests which induced active short covering. Contracts were comparatively scarce as hedge offerings were much lighter than recently. The weekly weather report was about a standoff but if anything slightly bearish, the only incentive for the buying movement being the detailed report which showed heavy rains in the Carolinas and private advices that it was still raining, accompanied by reports of resulting damage and deterioration. The crop has apparently suffered since September 1. Garside stating that conditions show a decrease in the prospective crop during September to date of 100,000 to 150,000 bales. There is more talk that 17½ to 17c is low enough to warrant purchases and should evidences of damage revive bullish confidence, the market may have a fair recovery.

Cotton Briefs.

New Orleans, September 19.—With the tropical storm eliminated as a market influence prices eased off this morning, but there soon developed a good deal of covering by shorts.

Liverpool was worse than due this morning and private cables attributed the easy tone to hedge selling and London and continental long liquidation. Some scale down buying was reported, however, in the English market.

Manchester cabled: "Rather more cloth sold to India and there was also an improved demand for yarns."

The rather low temperatures in the belt for this early period of the season caused some covering in early trading by cautious shorts.

An Austin, Texas, wire said the federal government has joined the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas and the University of Texas in an effort to control root rot in cotton which has increased in the southwest.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, September 19.—More than 90 per cent of both preferred and common stocks of United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry company have been deposited with the committee in charge of the recapitalization plan.

Stockholders of W. T. Grant company of record October 1 are being offered rights to subscribe for 31,700 shares of capital stock at $70 a share, one share for each 16 held.

Sales of copper for export continue in large volume, reaching 15,000,000 yesterday, the most active day in months.

Domestic demand is fairly active. The trade looks for another advance in price.

The Texas Corporation is notifying the remaining stockholders of California Petroleum that its offer to exchange one share of Texas for two shares of California Petroleum will expire October 15. Virtually all of the shares have been acquired through exchange of stock.

Singer Manufacturing company earned $28.44 a share in 1927, against $27.76 a share in 1926. Net profit was $25,599,480 against $24,991,231.

McCrory Stores earned $1.45 a share on the combined class "B" and common stocks in the first half of 1928, after preferred dividends with net profit of $815,800. This compares with net profit of $685,352 in the first half of 1927, or $1.17 a share on the two stocks.

A new issue of $8,000,000 six per cent, cumulative preferred stock of the Rochester-Central Power corporation will be offered shortly.

ATLANTA

Owned by the Shareholders of The Fourth National Bank

With the consolidation of this bank and the CONTINENTAL NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY of Chicago...

A NEW BANK
of nation-wide importance in size and service

THE approaching consolidation of Illinois Merchants Trust Company and Continental National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago under the name CONTINENTAL ILLINOIS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY will unite Chicago's two largest banks to form a banking house of nation-wide and international importance. In size, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company, with its resources of over a billion dollars, will rank with the foremost banking houses of the world. In service, the new bank will have complete facilities for meeting every banking requirement in a comprehensive manner—and on a scale commensurate with the growing needs of industry and commerce nationally. In addition to its many thousands of commercial customers, the consolidated institution will serve more banks in this country and abroad than any other bank in the United States. The uniting of the trust departments will bring together two organizations of men who are recognized as among the most competent in the country in the handling of personal and corporate trusts. The great number of savings depositors in both banks—aggregating considerably more than 300,000—is a direct expression of public confidence in the consolidating banks. Both institutions are handling daily a very large volume of foreign banking transactions. Both have exceptional contacts with banks and business abroad—contacts which will make available in this country an augmented service in all branches of foreign banking. In addition, our customers will have available the facilities of the present office of the Continental Bank representative in London. Our Bond Department and the Continental National Company will unite to form the Continental Illinois Company with a capitalization of $20,000,000. The new investment company will offer to municipalities, railroads, industrial and public utility concerns the opportunity to secure funds in Chicago on a larger scale than heretofore. To investment houses and banks this company will offer an exceptionally strong cooperation in the underwriting and distributing of securities. To investors, the Continental Illinois Company will provide a complete service through offices in twelve cities—Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Cleveland, St. Louis, Houston, Wichita, Kansas City, Omaha, Davenport, Des Moines and New York City. To all customers, and to their friends—and to all those interested in the enlarged service facilities to be offered by the new bank—we extend a cordial invitation to communicate with our officers.

Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, September 19.—(AP)—Mammoth transfers of wheat from individual farmers to the Canadian growers' pool appeared to have lost all terror today as a club against speculative buyers.

Regardless of announcement that for a single day the farm deliveries of Canadian wheat had reached the tremendous total of 9,236,000 bushels compared with only 664,000 bushels a year ago, the wheat market scored a substantial gain, influenced by a change to unfavorable weather both in Canada and Australia.

Closing Quotations.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 7-8c to 1 3-8c net higher, with corn 1-8c off to 1-2c up, oats showing 1-4c to 5-8c advance, and provisions unchanged to 27c down.

Rain reports from Winnipeg suggesting a possible repetition of sharp curtail ent of the Canadian harvest movement last year did much today to stimulate buying of wheat future deliveries in Chicago. Besides, Liverpool wheat quotations were tending upward, and houses with European allies appeared to be taking a hand at purchasing. Meanwhile, today's arrivals of domestic wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth continued to be well under those of the corresponding time last year, and news was received that anxiety was being aroused by dearth of needed moisture in Australia.

Rains in Australia.

According to official advices at hand, August rains in Australia were below average, and the September rainfall is likewise deficient. Under such circumstances, commission house buying in the wheat market here became of good volume, and offerings at times were scarce, with prices moving rapidly upward.

Corn and oats sympathized with the upward trend of wheat. Comprehensive reports indicated that because of shortage of old corn the new crop is new being fed extensively in various places.

Liquidating sales on the part of holders of nearby deliveries of lard tended to pull provisions down.

Sugar.

New York, September 19.—Raw sugar was easier today and prices declined 1-32 of a cent to the basis of 3.99 for spots, duty paid, under increased offerings and indifferent demand. The only sale reported was 20,000 bags of Cuban, prompt shipment, to an outport refiner at the quoted price, although there were additional offerings at the same level.

New low records for the season were established in raw futures under heavy general selling, final prices showing net declines of 4 to 6 points. The market opened 3 to 3 points lower and continued to sag until around midday, when partial rallies occurred covering. Buying, however, was not sufficient to absorb offerings and in the late afternoon the market broke again, with final prices at about the lowest. Selling appeared to come mostly from producing interests and was thought to be again new crop supplies, although there was also a good deal of tired long liquidation which appeared to be promoted by the disappointing spot demand and the light inquiry for refined. More reassuring advices from Porto Rico, where the damage to the sugar crop by the recent hurricane was believed to be smaller than at first reported, may also have influenced the selling movement. Approximate sales 116,000 tons. September closed 2.01; December 2.11; January 2.14; March 2.18; May 2.25; July 2.32; September (1929) 2.40.

Only small inquiry for refined was noted, with buyers inclined to limit fresh commitments owing to the unsettled raw market. Prices were unchanged at 5.40 for fine granulated.

Flax.

Duluth, Minn., September 19.—Close flax: On track $2.14½@2.18¼; arrived $2.14¼; September $2.13¾; October $2.13¾; November $2.15¼; December $2.13¾.

Total stock sales today 3,864,600 shares.

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor.

New York, September 19.—(AP)—Marking up of the call money rate from 7 to 8 1-2 per cent, the highest rate since July 2, when money loaned as high as 10 per cent, turned the course of prices irregular again today after an early outburst of strength. Extreme losses in some of the highly speculative issues ranged from 4 to 10 points, but these were out down in a late afternoon recovery in which a few specialties sold at their best prices of the day.

Trading showed a marked reduction in volume, with the ticker keeping fairly close to the market during the greater part of the day. Total sales were 3,864,600 shares.

Banks Call Loans.

Banks called upwards of $30,000,000 in loans during the day, presumably in reflection of government withdrawals of almost a like amount. Call loans advanced from 7 to 7 1-2, 8 and finally to 8 1-2 per cent. Time money held firm around 7 per cent, with 7 1-4 asked for some of the shorter maturities. Sterling exchange eased fractionally to $4.85 1-16, or about the price where further gold imports would be profitable, although none were reported.

There was little in the day's trade news to influence the price movement. A continued good demand was reported for export copper, yesterday's withdrawals of 15,000,000 pounds being the largest of any single day in recent months. Directors of the Commercial Solvents corporation declared a stock dividend of 2 per cent. and the annual dividend on Newton Steel was raised from $2.50 to $3.

Atlantic Refining was a strong feature, climbing 9 points to 182 1-2, the highest price since the declaration of the 900 per cent stock dividend years ago, and closing within a fraction of the top. Sinclair was taken in large blocks, but closed fractionally lower, as did Texas corporation and some of the other popular oils.

General Motors crossed 209 in early trading, fell back to 206 1-2 and closed at 207 3-4, unchanged on the day. United States Steel common closed 1 1-8 points lower at 156 5-8 after having sold nearly 2 points above that figure. Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Radio, International Nickel and Murray corporation all closed higher after early intervals of heaviness.

Case Threshing broke 10 points and rallied 5. Abraham & Straus, Adams Express, American Linseed, Commercial Solvents, Coty, Dupont, International Business Machines and Wright Aero lost 3 to 5 1-2 points.

New High Records.

New high records for the year or longer were registered by American Safety Razor, American Zinc and Lead, A. M. Byers, General American Tank, Household Product, Howe Sound, Inspiration Copper, Kelsey-Hayes Wheel, Liquid Carbonic, Miami Copper, Spicer, Superior Steel, Trico Products and Walworth.

Bankers hold out little hope of much easier call money rates this week, pointing out that income tax checks are being cleared unusually fast by the government, and that heavy presentation of third Liberties for repayment might necessitate further government withdrawals of deposits.

Commodity markets were firmer. Wheat advanced a cent or more a bushel in reflection of the increased demand for nearby deliveries. Cotton rallied about $1.50 a bale on buying influenced by reports of storm damage. Coffee quotations advanced 3 to 10 points and sugar prices held fairly steady.

Foreign exchanges moved within extremely narrow and irregular limits, with a 12-point drop in Japanese yen to 45.73 cents as the only feature.

NUCKASEE COTTON MILLS PURCHASED

Greenville, S .C., September 19.—(AP)—The purchase of the control of the Nuckasee Manfacturing company of this city by the Hampshire Underwear and Hosiery Company of New York, was announced here today.

The price paid for the common stock was not made public by officials but was said by the stockholders to be around $630 a share, making a total of $630,000 for the 1,000 shares of stock. Proposal of the purchasers of buy the common stock at "not less than $500 a share" was submitted to the stockholders some time ago, the exact price not being determined at that time because an inventory of the plant had not been completed.

This price is believed by local brokers to be a record for a southern textile establishment. The company will continue to operate as in the past, and F. W. Symmes, founder of the business, will continue as president and in active charge.

The Nuckasee Manufacturing company was incorporated in 1910 with $100,000 of common stock and $100,000 of preferred. The plant started with thirty machines but now has more than 300 and employs around 400 persons. The output is around 200,000 garments weekly.

Dry Goods.

New York, September 19.—Cotton goods were quieter today in the gray cloth division, but sales of sheetings for bag purposes were a little more active, finished goods were in moderate demand, chiefly on duplicate orders for fall consumption. Burlaps declined slightly at Calcutta and were reported quiet and unchanged on the spot. Raw silk again advanced in spot markets and in Yokohama. Silk crepes of the canton and satin-faced grades were in demand for immediate cutting. American Woolen company lines of staple dress fabrics for spring will be opened on Tuesday and other corporations will begin openings thereafter. Soft-finished dress frabrics and coatings are wanted for immediate delivery. Rayon producers report active sales, the leading factor's sales running ahead of shipments, and with the promise now that the year's output will be 50,000,000 pounds.

Total bond sales (par value) $8,261,000.

New York, September 19.—(AP)—Trading was less active on the bond market today and price movements were irregular, influenced, like those of stocks, by the tightening of money. Banks called upwards of $30,000,000 in loans, call money rose to 8 1-2 per cent, and time money was firm around 7 per cent, with some loans reported at 7 1-4. Total sales were slightly above $8,000,000, somewhat smaller than on the earlier days of the week.

Andes Copper 7s again were the feature. The issue moved up about 3 points to a new year's high at 152 1-2, but lost part of its gain. The turnover approximated $1,500,000, about five times that of any other issue. Anaconda Copper 6s improved fractionally, but Anaconda Copper 7s eased off more than a point.

Liquid Carbonic 6s were prominent in the industrial group, rising about 5 points to a new high at 141 1-2, coincident with the advance of the stock. Anglo-Chilean Nitrate 7s, Cuban Cane Sugar 8s, United Drug of Delaware 5s and a few others showed gains of around a point. Barnsdall 6s with warrants were active at levels about 2 points lower. Most utilities closed lower.

Rails were mixed. Wheeling & Lake Erie 4s extended their recent gain another 1 1-2 points and advances of a point or so were registered by Norfolk Southern 5s A, Missouri Pacific 5s, Frisco 4s and Great Northern 5 1-2s. Seaboard Air Line and Seaboard-All Florida issues slumped under continued selling pressure.

The foreign list reflected general market irregularity. Most United States government obligations closed slightly lower.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of Wardman real estate properties 6 1-2 per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

Cleveland Applies the Monroe Doctrine—1895.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

THE MOST NOTABLE ACT OF PRESIDENT CLEVELAND DURING HIS SECOND ADMINISTRATION WAS HIS INTERVENTION IN THE VENEZUELA BOUNDARY DISPUTE IN 1895. FOR YEARS VENEZUELA AND GREAT BRITAIN HAD BEEN WRANGLING OVER THE BOUNDARY BETWEEN THE FORMER COUNTRY AND BRITISH GUIANA.

ENGLAND REFUSED TO SUBMIT THE MATTER TO ARBITRATION, AND THREATENED TO SEND TROOPS TO OCCUPY THE DISPUTED TERRITORY. THEREUPON CLEVELAND SENT A SPECIAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS (DEC. 17, 1895), RECOMMENDING THAT AN AMERICAN COMMISSION BE SENT TO SURVEY THE BOUNDARY LINE.

THE PRESIDENT APPLIED THE MONROE DOCTRINE TO THE CASE, DECLARING THAT IF THE BRITISH WERE PROVED TO BE IN THE WRONG, IT WOULD BE THE DUTY OF THE UNITED STATES TO RESIST AS A "WILFUL AGGRESSION" ANY ATTEMPT TO OCCUPY VENEZUELAN TERRITORY. THE WARLIKE TONE OF THE MESSAGE STARTLED THE WORLD.

CONGRESS SUPPORTED THE STAND OF THE PRESIDENT, AND ENGLAND, PLAINLY SEEING THAT THE UNITED STATES WAS MAKING NO IDLE THREAT, YIELDED WITH THE BEST POSSIBLE GRACE. THE DISPUTE WAS SUBMITTED TO ARBITRATION AND PEACEFULLY SETTLED (1899).

GOOD VALUE LIST
Close to Peachtree Road
A MOST attractive 8-room, 2-story home; slate roof; steam heat; situated on a very large lot, beautifully planted in shrubbery; first floor has very attractive arrangement; second floor consists of 4 corner bedrooms, 2 tile baths; large closets; house is artistically decorated. We have a price on this place considerably less than you could buy a lot and build the house for, and we consider it one of the best buys we have had to offer in some time.

Brookwood Hills
ONE of the nicest homes in this beautiful subdivision. The owner has been transferred and that is his reason for selling. House has entrance hall, well proportioned living room, in one end of which is sun parlor; dining room; breakfast room; kitchen; unusually large side porch, screened; second floor consists of 4 large corner bedrooms, 2 beautiful, colored tile baths; spacious closets. Well selected decorations throughout the house. Large basement with laundry; garage and servant quarters.

Atkins Park
THIS bungalow is not only very attractive itself, but is surrounded by other beautiful homes, making it very desirable. It was built for a personal home and the best of workmanship was used; has six rooms; two baths; the living room is large; dining room, breakfast room, kitchen, 3 nice-size bedrooms; screened porch; large basement. At $9,500 this represents good value.

COLONEL LAWTON DIES IN MOBILE

Mobile, Ala., September 19.—(AP)—Colonel Frederick G. Lawton, 58, U. S. A., retired, who saw service in Philippines, Porto Rico, Mexican border and world war overseas, died here today.

Colonel Lawton came to Mobile eight years ago from South Dakota and at the time of his death was purchasing agent for the Alabama state docks commission and lieutenant governor of the Southern Kiwanis club district. He graduated from West Point with the class of 1893 and was assigned to the quartermaster corps.

Coming to the Erlanger.

The Martin Johnson African expedition, whose picture, "Simba," is coming to the Erlanger theater Monday night, September 24, and twice daily thereafter at 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock, were the first to use sound effects with a big road show picture. With "Simba" patrons will hear for the first time a marvelous sound picture device named the "Dulcetone." The regular seat sale begins today and tickets may be had both at the Erlanger theater box office and at the branch office in Phillips and Crew Piano company, at Peachtree and Ellis streets.

Keith's Georgia.

One of the outstanding hits of the current Keith's Georgia bill is the comical offering presented by Trahan and Wallace. Al Trahan's piano capers and his classic in comedy, "The Curtain Speech," never fails to convulse his audience. The current program also includes the novelty offered by Dainty Marie at the head of a vaudeville bill, and the screen feature, "The First Kiss," starring Fay Wray and Gary Cooper.

Loew's Capitol.

Some of the foremost heroes of the world war, Private Clayton K. Slack, is appearing in person at Loew's Capitol theater this week as the headline attraction on the vaudeville program. He makes a short talk in connection with the showing of his picture "Gold Chevrons," a series of pictures of actual warfare taken by official army photographers. Four other pleasing acts and the Universay comedy feature, "Home James," with Laura La Plante in one of her greatest comedy roles, complete the program.

Loew's Grand.

The superb dramatic production, "The Lion and the Mouse," is the attraction at Loew's Grand theater with Lionel Barrymore and May McAvoy in leading roles. This picture had its first showing here only a few weeks ago and is brought back under the new low-price policy adopted at Loew's Grand. It is a 50 per cent talking picture based on Charles Klein's famous stage hit.

Howard.

"The Fleet's In!" is the alluring title of Clara Bow's latest starring picture for Paramount. In this production screenland's beautiful "it" girl gets back into her old form and is seen in what is said to be her peppiest, friskiest and funniest picture. Starred with the magnetic titian is James Hall. The stage offering for the week is a Publix stage show with the jazzy title of "Step and Steppers." In the show Ray Teal and his band offer a big time cast of star entertainers.

Metropolitan.

For thrills and suspense "The Whip," main attraction at the Met this week is said to be unequaled. Ralph Forbes, Dorothy Mackaill and Ann Q. Nilsson are starred. The picture is replete with sound and voice. Al Herman and Val & Ernie Stanton are featured on the Vitaphone program in the acts that gained them fame.

Rialto.

"Caught in the Fog," new Warner Brothers Vitaphone talking picture starring May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel, is playing to enthusiastic audiences this week at the Rialto theater. A clever and highly exciting mystery tale in which crooks become mixed with crooks and everything is turmoil in general, much to the laughter of audiences. An entertaining bill of Vitaphone vaudeville is offered on the same program which also includes Movietone news.

Empire.

Touching the highlights of the adventurous King Richard's career and based on his third crusade into the holy lands, "Richard, the Lion-Hearted," with Wallace Berry doing some splendid acting in the title role, will be today's screen feature at the new Empire theater. Incidently, "China Night" is to be another attraction.

Cameo.

Glenn Tryon, the screen's new favorite in peppy roles is at the Cameo theater Wednesday and Thursday in one of his best hits, "Hot Heels." In this picture he is supported by Patsy Ruth Miller, giving the same team that scored such a hit in "Painting the Town."

Alamo No. 2.

Filled with swift action, breathtaking thrills on land and sea, and interwoven throughout with a delightful romance, "On the Stroke of Twelve" is one of the fastest moving melodramas to reach the screen this year. Be sure to see this production when it comes to the Alamo No. 2 theater today.

Tudor.

"Fangs of the Wild," starring Ranger, is a fine example of what clean, wholesome entertainment may be put into a dog picture. This story showing today at the Tudor theater is one in which the smooth trend of the plot is not marred by a lot of foolish antics.

ABDUCTED BOY IS SAFE AT HOME

Chicago, September 19.—(AP)—Safe at home and the center of a community celebration after being released by kidnapers who had held him prisoner for 13 days, 10-year-old Billy Ranieri today took time out of the jubilee long enough to identify photographs of two men as those of his abductors.

As a result squads of detectives were hunting these two men and a doctor and lawyer whose names were furnished by relatives of the boy as among those who offered to obtain the boy's release. In addition three other men, all charged with the kidnaping, were in custody. Kidnaping is an offense punishable by death in Illinois.

Political Move.

The Chicago Daily News said today that the lad's release after two weeks of fruitless police efforts was brought about "by political members of the Politico-Criminal alliance who feared an outburst of public wrath," and declared that the successor to the crown of Tony Lombardo, gang leader killed ten days ago, had been ordered by political associates to pass out word to the abductors to free the boy on promises that they would escape prosecution.

Billy was shoved out of an automobile on a lonely road near Lockport, Ill., last night by his abductors, who pressed a $10 bill into his hand.

Boy Has Black Eye.

The Ranieri home in the Italian district was thrown wide open to all who wished to enter. Billy displayed with pride a black eye, suffered when one of the abductors struck him, and told and retold his story of being kidnaped as he came home from school, taken to a lonely farm house, held prisoner by a man, woman and boy until last night and then taken in an automobile by the men who kidnaped him to the point where he was freed. The kidnapers who originally demanded $60,000 from A. Frank Ranieri, the father, and then reduced the ransom to $15,000, did not receive a cent, Ranieri said today, although earlier he had said he had paid $5,000.

The boy identified pictures of Julio Salusso and Pasquale Larocco as those of two of his abductors. In addition Angelo Petitti, arrested several days ago, formally was charged with the kidnaping today, and two others also have been charged with the same offense, having been in custody for a week.

JOHN LUKE MORGAN LAID TO FINAL REST

Quitman, Ga., September 19.—Funeral services were held today for John Luke Morgan, who died yesterday at his home near Hickory Head, in this county. Mr. Morgan was 75 years old and one of the most highly respected citizens of the county. He is survived by three brothers and one sister: W. L. Morgan, of Live Oak, Fla.; D. D. Morgan, Jasper, Fla.; J. R. Morgan, Dupont, Ga.; Mrs. Eliza Clardy, Jasper, Fla.; also by three sons and one daughter: W. L. Morgan, G. M. Morgan, T. D. Morgan and Mrs. A. B. Renfroe, all of this county.

Funeral services at the home were conducted by Rev. Julian P. Gunnells and interment was at Hickory Head cemetery.

LION TAKES BITE INTO AUTO TIRE; GETS BIG SURPRISE

New York, September 19.—A delicate morsel for a lion is a nice automobile tire. That's the story told by three Boy Scouts back from Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's picture expedition in Africa. Something bumped their car at night. It was one of the kings of beats having a nice meal. Bing! It was his last one.

FLOOD OF RIVER FORCES 30,000 OUT OF HOMES

Porto Alegre, Brazil, September 19. (AP)—About 30,000 persons have been forced to abandon their homes temporarily in this region because of the overflowing of the river Guahyba, which is now about six feet above normal.

Railroad service has been discontinued in various parts of the state of Rio Do Sul.

NEGROES FLOODED OUT OF HOMES IN CAROLINA TOWN

Lumberton, N. C., September 19.—(AP)—More than a hundred families living in the negro residential section were forced to evacuate their homes today as the Lumber river left its banks and overran the low sections of town, causing one of the worst floods in the history of the city.

Most of the families were removed to warehouses loaned for the occasion by local business men and food was provided by the Associated Charities and other relief organizations. The crest of the flood is not expected until tomorrow afternoon.
